

821.082

L144e

v. 1

BOOK 821.082.L144E v.1 c.1
LAING # EARLY POPULAR POETRY OF SCOTLAND AND NORTHERN BORDER ED

3 9153 00160582 5

Library of Old Authors.

G. H. Koster & Sons, Inc.

W. B. Lacro sculpt

PR
865
.LS
1895
v.1

Early Popular Poetry of Scotland and the Northern Border Edited by David
Laing LL.D. in 1822 and 1826
Re-arranged and Revised with Additions and a Glossary
By W. Carew
Hazlitt

IN TWO VOLUMES

VOL. I

LONDON
REEVES AND TURNER
WELLINGTON STREET, STRAND
1895

[All Rights reserved]

821.052

L 14/4e

v. 1

P R E F A C E

PARTLY as a companion to the similar work on "Early English Popular Poetry," in four volumes, in the "Library of Old Authors," the present undertaking has been carried out, agreeably to a plan which the late Dr. Laing had long entertained, but never accomplished, of amalgamating two works published by him in 1822 and 1826, namely, "Select Remains of the Ancient Popular Poetry of Scotland" and "Early Metrical Tales." In the performance of this task, I have felt it to be my duty to introduce such corrections and alterations as Dr. Laing himself would have probably thought fit and requisite, had he executed it in his lifetime. The Appendices and Errata have been superseded; and one piece, "Roswal and Lillian," which was common to both compilations, has of course not been repeated; nor was it deemed expedient to retain the "Bludy Serk," by Robert

1/18/60

Henryson, since it is to be found in that writer's Collected Works, 1865. But the striking tale of "John the Reeve," which Dr. Laing was unable to recover, or at all events to print, has been inserted, as it belongs, if not to Scotch ground, to the Durham or Northumberland border, and may be regarded as one of the most remarkable compositions of its rather numerous class. For a similar reason, the Cumberland legend of "Adam Bel" has been re-edited from the earliest extant copies, and I have made room for the interesting, if somewhat late, fabliau of the "Lovers' Quarrel."

The opportunity of reimpression almost necessitated such changes in the preliminary remarks as the lapse of sixty or seventy years has effected in the state of literary discovery and knowledge. But the verbal or textual revision has been advisedly limited, as a rule, to words and passages where an apparent lacuna in the narrative or defect in the sense made a resort elsewhere indispensable; and this observation affects almost exclusively the earlier pieces in the series. At the same time, the adoption of an eclectic text is more permissible perhaps where all the extant MSS. or printed editions are more or less illiterate copies, presenting a medley of English and Scotch diction, and having no high claim as philological monuments; and it has further to be borne in mind

That a leading aim in these volumes is to portray the manners and sentiments of the Scots rather than to illustrate the language of the country, for which our immediate material is only casually available. In making emendations in works of this class, there is not the same sacrilegious violence as in altering the language of an autograph, or even an ancient MS. The corruptions and mistakes in many cases can only be regarded as the fruit of repeated reproduction by uneducated copyists or careless typographers. It is to a certain extent curious, however, to trace in the mixed or hybrid orthography the operation by which transcribers stealthily adapted the older forms to the speech of the locality where they resided : like an ancient building in part restored with some of the rooms left in their original state.

The dark religious bigotry which distinguished early Scottish life and character promoted in more than one way the destruction of the popular literature of all kinds immediately connected with that long poor and unhappy country ; and the circumstances naturally tend to surround it with an interest and a charm, which scarcely manifest themselves in so powerful a degree toward the more copious and important survival of ballads and romances illustrating the history and manners of Southern Britain, even when, as it not unfrequently

nl. 1.

happens, the latter can be shown to have been the actual place of parentage, and the Scottish version to be more or less a copy. On the other hand, we have instances where a Northern production no longer exists in its pristine garb, and has to be accepted with what must be treated as corruptions at the hands of a Southern or perhaps Midland scribe. Such has been the fate of the singularly fascinating and instructive fable of "John the Reeve;" and where the dialectic, or at least textual changes are less pronounced or less general, the difficulty of ascertaining with any precision the original source is so frequent, that Sir Walter Scott acted quite discreetly in declining to draw the line with too much confidence, and in assigning certain pieces to the borderland between the two kingdoms.

For interesting historical and critical notices of many of the relics here assembled together, the reader may be referred to Dr. Irving's "History of Scottish Poetry," edited by Dr. Carlyle, 1861. In that work, however, we do not meet with so full an account of the "Tales of the Priests of Peebles" as the special excellence and value of that remarkable relic merited. I have pointed out the curious association of the first Tale with a real personage resident at Newcastle-on-Tyne in the fifteenth century.

I hope that it will be considered that the distribution of the Prefaces, which formerly made a distinct section, most inconvenient for reference, and the addition of a Glossary, are two improvements. Where I could not meet with a satisfactory explanation of a word or expression, I have admitted it with a note of the place where it occurs.

It may be predicated without undue presumption of the Collection thus reconstructed and augmented, that it embraces a fairly representative gathering of the popular romances and minstrelsy of North Britain and the Border, and a notable body of rare, if not unique, remains, however regrettable in our eyes may be the loss of many others unquestionably once in existence, and even in print, as well as the necessity of employing in some instances comparatively modern impressions or defective MSS., owing to the unfortunate disappearance of older or completer copies.

W. C. H.

BARNES COMMON, SURREY,
October 1894.

ADVERTISEMENTS

PREFIXED TO THE

FORMER EDITIONS¹

LITTLE or no apology, it is conceived, will be now looked for, on submitting to the public a Collection, such as this is, of our ANCIENT POPULAR POETRY: neither is it necessary to detain the reader with any general reflections which the nature of its contents might be supposed to suggest. The remains of the Early Poetical literature of our country, and, indeed, of most nations, are allowed to possess a value, sanctioned by time, of which neither prejudice nor fashion can deprive them, and this may be thought sufficient to justify any attempt that is made for their preservation. They are valuable, no less in enabling us to trace the history and progress of our language, than in assisting us to illustrate ancient manners and amusements, of which they often contain the liveliest representations.

¹ The present writer, who had the honour of being personally acquainted with the late David Laing, desired to preserve such portions of the prefatory notices attached to the two books now consolidated as seemed to be of permanent interest and application, and has therefore woven them into one text. The titles of the volumes are as follow:—(i.) Select Remains of the Ancient Popular Poetry of Scotland. Printed at Edinburgh, MDCCCXXII. 4to. (ii.) Early Metrical Tales; including the History of Sir Egeir, Sir Gryme, and Sir Gray-Steil. Edinburgh, MDCCCXXVI. Small 8vo.

The history of Scottish Romance-Poetry, owing to the peculiar circumstances attending its transmission to modern times, is unfortunately involved in great obscurity. Although the more ancient of these remains occasionally bear internal evidence of having proceeded from the celebrated Makars of the Northe Countreye, we remain in ignorance respecting the individuals who contributed so much to the amusement of our ancestors in these remote times, and even possess little or no positive evidence that might help us to distinguish the productions of Scottish writers from those of the English minstrels. This may indeed be esteemed a matter of extreme unimportance, since the most valuable specimens of romantic fiction that are extant, have in one shape or other been made public. The "Sir Tristrem," for instance, has received every possible advantage in the illustrations of its distinguished editor, Sir Walter Scott. The "Geste of King Horn," perhaps the next in point of antiquity, has been faithfully printed by Ritson; and the "Lyf of Alexander" (erroneously assigned to an English poet in the age of Edward II.), is given with no less accuracy by Weber in his excellent Collection of Metrical Romances.

These Tales and Romance-Poems are very inconsiderable in number when compared with those which belong to the sister-kingdom. But from various allusions to be found to the number and popularity of such compositions in Scotland at an early period, it is evident that this portion of our ancient literature, in its transmission to modern times, must have suffered in a more than common degree; in the words of Bishop Percy, "it has been handed down to us with less care than any other writings in the world." Nor indeed was it to be conceived, at the time "Quhen gude Makars rang weill into Scotland," that our native minstrels should have been behind their neighbours, either for invention or facility of composition, in thus contributing to the amusement of their countrymen. In proof of the general esteem in which these works of fiction were held, it may here be sufficient to mention what has been incidentally recorded of two of the most renowned of the Scottish monarchs.

When the followers of Robert the Bruce, in his retreat to the Isle of Rachrin, at the close of the year 1306, had to be ferried over Loch Lomond in a boat which held but three persons at a time; that "gude king" is said by his venerable biographer to have amused them for "a night and a day," by reading portions of the Romance of Ferumbrace.¹ After giving a brief detail of that part of the narrative which relates how Roland and his companions, the dousiþeres of France, with only one attendant, manfully held out the Tower of Egrymor, when besieged by the Soudan of Babylon and a whole host of Saracens, the Archdeacon of Aberdeen declares—

" The gud king upon this máner
 Comfort-thaim that war him ner;
 And maid thaim gamyn and solace,
 Till that his folk all passyt was."²

From the same authority we learn, that on other occasions Robert the Bruce was wont to "comfort" his adherents in their difficulties by relating to them

" Auld storyis of men that wer
 Set in tyll hard assayis ser."

The other instance alluded to is of James the First of Scotland, who, according to the contemporaneous narrative of the very tragical fate of that accomplished Prince, spent the night previous to his assassination “yn REDYNG OF ROMANS, yn syngyng and pyfyng, yn harpyng, and yn other honest solaces of grete pleasance and disport.”

¹ This is evidently the Romance of Fierabras, but it must have been a different and earlier translation from the French than that quoted by Mr. Ellis in his abstract of the story. (Metrical Romances, vol. ii. p. 369, &c.)

² Barbour's Bruce, book ii. line 858-862. Dr. Jamieson's 4to edit. 1820.

Were direct evidence, therefore, wanting, we might be warranted to infer that compositions, which afforded delight and were familiar to our kings, would neither be unknown nor disregarded by their subjects. But deeply as we cannot but regret the loss which the early literature of Scotland has sustained in the almost total destruction of these tales of romantic and legendary fiction,—it is a subject of inquiry which might lead to a discussion disproportionate to the size and contents of these volumes. One circumstance, however, may be mentioned, to show that these compositions were not uncommon in a written state at a remote period; although, with the exception of charters, hardly any MSS. (and not one in verse), written in Scotland, are known to be extant of an older date than the middle of the fifteenth century:—Sir James Douglas of Dalkeith, the ancestor of the Earls of Morton, in his last will and testament, dated in the year 1390, bequeaths to his son and heir, “OMNES LIBROS MEOS TAM STATUTORUM REGNI SCOCIE QUAM ROMANCIE.”¹

¹ Original deed, in the possession of the Earl of Morton.
VOL. I. b

In the present volumes, a few Metrical Tales, from copies of a comparatively recent date, are collected, together with some Scottish poems which appear to have enjoyed more than a common degree of popularity. That most of these existed in copies of a much earlier time will be seen from the respective notices which are subjoined. The chief object in submitting this little Collection to the public is the hope that it may be the means of bringing some of these productions to light in a more antique garb. But whether or not the appearance of the volumes shall contribute in any way to a more careful and extended research after such remains, the Editor flatters himself that he performs an acceptable service in rendering attainable some few of these "delectable" compositions, which even in their present state (modernised and corrupted as most of them confessedly are), will nevertheless be allowed to possess no ordinary charms for those who are gratified with the simple and unaffected strains which gave delight to our ancestors. To such as feel any interest in the revival of the literary productions of remoter ages, the Editor may use the words of an old English writer, and say, “Accept my paynes, allow me thanks,

If I deserue the same,
If not, yet lette not meaning well
Be payde with checke and blame.

For I am he that buylde the bowre,
 I hewe the hardened stone ;
 And thou art owner of the house,
 The paine is mine alone.
 I burne the bee, I hold the hyue,
 The Sommer toyle is myne ;
 And all bicause when Winter commes
 The honie may be thine.”¹

The professed object of this work was to bring together some of the rarer pieces of the ancient vernacular Poetry of Scotland. Accordingly, an endeavour has been made to collect such as either still remained unpublished, or had appeared only in a corrupted or imperfect state : and if, in the prosecution of this design, the Editor has been unsuccessful, it has, at least, arisen from no want on his part of diligence and assiduity. For it has been well observed by the ingenious Headley, that “to constitute a relish for the Black-Letter (a term by which we may understand whatever relates to antiquarian knowledge), a certain degree of literary Quixotism is highly requisite : he who is unwilling to penetrate the barren heath and solitary desert ; he who cannot encounter weariness, perplexity, and disgust ; he who is not actuated by an enthusiasm for his employment, is no true knight, and unfit for such service.”² More especially is this the case when, in order to publish the early remains of our National Poetry with the correctness and fidelity which is requisite, recourse must be had to ancient and discordant manuscripts, where the obscurity of the language, or the labour of decyphering them, is the least perplexing or difficult part of the undertaking.

¹ Tragical Tales, &c., by George Turberville, 1587. 8vo, bl. l. sign. Biii.

² Select Beauties of Ancient English Poetry, 8vo, p. vii.

The reader will observe that the various pieces contained in it have, at least, in their favour, the claim of antiquity, since all of them are given from sources anterior to the close of the sixteenth century. These are carefully pointed out in the short notices which it was thought necessary to prefix to the poems for their better illustration. At the same time, many other curious reliques might have been found worthy of being brought to light; and it will be gratifying to the Editor if this publication prove in any way conducive to a more extensive research after the scanty and too long neglected remains of this portion of our Ancient Literature.

In the following stanzas of "The Palice of Honour," by Bishop Douglas, written in 1503, several curious tales are alluded to, most of which probably are no longer in existence:—

“ I saw Ralf Coilgear with his thrawin brow
 Craibit Johne the Reif, and auld Cowkewpis Sow
 And how the Wran came out of Ailssay
 And Piers Plewman that maid his workmen few Greit Gowmakmorne and Fyn Makcoull and how

They suld be Goddis in Ireland as thay say
 Thair saw I Maitland upon auld Beird Gray
 Robene Hude, and Gilbert with the quhite hand
 How Hay of Nauchtoun flew in Madin land.

The Nigromansie thair saw I eik anone,
 Of Bentyas, Bongo, and Freir Bacone,
 With many subtill point of Juglary
 Of Flanders peis maid mony precious stone.
 Ane greit laid sadill of a siching bone,
 Of ane Nutemug thay maid a Monk in hy
 Ane Paroche Kirk of ane penny py.
 Ane Benytas of ane Mussill maid and Aip
 With mony uteir subtill mow and jaip."

—Edit. 1579, p. 56.

Of some of the pieces which have hitherto eluded discovery, a short list may here be subjoined, as the best mode of exciting attention; and the Editor should feel happy to receive information respecting any of them, or of similar compositions, either in a printed or manuscript state, which may have escaped his researches. This list might have been easily enlarged:—

THE TALE HOW THE KING OF ESTMORELAND MAREIT THE KINGIS DOCHTER OF WESTMORELAND. A supposed modernised copy of this romantic tale is printed infra.

THE TALE OF THE THREE FUTTIT DOG OF NORROWAY. Mentioned in the "Complaynt of Scotland," 1549: or, indeed, any of the taylis, fabillis, or pleysand storeis enumerated in that curious work.

THE EARL OF ERROL'S TESTAMENT, in Scottish metre, by Robert Alexander, Advocate, printed at Edinburgh some time after the year 1541.

CHRIST'S KIRK ON THE GREENE. Any edition prior to that printed in the year 1663.

THE BATTLE OF HARLAW. Anno 1411. Printed in the "Evergreen," by Allan Ramsay, from (as supposed) a modernised copy. Any edition prior to that of 1668.

SIR EGEIR, SIR GRYPE, AND SIR GRAY STEILL. A good text of this story occurs in Bishop Percy's Folio MS., as edited by Furnivall and Hales. Any edition prior to that of 1687. Comp. introductory notice to the text, infra.

The present work must necessarily have a very limited circulation, yet trusting that such a Collection is neither unworthy of public attention, nor of the care that has been bestowed in forming it, the Editor, with all due feeling of grateful esteem, would inscribe it as a slight but sincere tribute of respect to the Distinguished Author, to whom, of all others, the literature of his native country is most deeply beholden:—Whose zeal in its cause has been shown, no less in a friendly and generous encouragement of those engaged in its cultivation, than in his own successful exertions in behalf of the unregarded and traditionary productions of former ages;—and who has, at the same time, so eminently sustained and extended the reputation of our national literary character, by those original compositions which have shed so much lustre over the Minstrelsy and Romance of Scotland, and have happily displayed the extent and fertility of his own surpassing genius.

[DAVID LAING.]

[EDINBURGH, 1822-6.]

CONTENTS

OF VOL. I

	PAGE
PREFACE	vii
ADVERTISEMENTS PREFIXED TO THE FORMER EDITIONS	xiii
THE AWNTYRS OFF ARTHURE AT THE TERNE WATHELYN	I
THE PYSTYL OF SWETE SUSAN	43
ORFEO AND HEURODIS ; OR KING ORFEO	59
THOMAS OF ERSYLDOUNE AND THE QUENE OF ELF-LAND	81
THE FERMORAR AND HIS DOCHTER	112
THE BATTLE OF HARLAW	116
THE THRIE TAILES OF THE THRIE PRIESTS OF PEBLIS	127
TAYIS BANK	169
THE EPISTILL OF THE HERMEIT OF ALAREIT TO THE GRAY FREIRS.	175
THE TALE OF COLKELBIE SOW	179
THE TALE OF RAUF COILGEAR	212
JOHN THE REEVE	250
THE LAYING OF LORD FERGUS'S GAIST	284

	PAGE
SIR JOHN ROWLL'S CURSING	289
ANE BALLET OF THE NINE NOBLES	300
THE DUIK OF ORLYANCE IN DEFENCE OF THE SCOTS	304
A POEM BY GLASSINBERRY	307
THE RING OF THE ROY ROBERT	313

The awntyrs off Arthure at the Terne Wathelyn.

THE Romance which follows bears such a close resemblance in subject, style, and manner to "the Knightly tale of Golagrus and Gawane,"¹ that both have generally been attributed to one and the same author. It was a style of composition for which, for a length of time, the Northern Poets were particularly renowned; for although the use of alliteration was not entirely peculiar to them, it was, at least, one distinguishing feature of their compositions. Thus Chaucer makes "his Persone" to say

— "I am a Sotherne man
I can not geste, Rom, Ram, Ruf, by my letter,
And, God wote, rime hold I but litel better."

George Gascoigne, in his Certayne Notes of Instruction,² has the following reference to this curious passage:—"In making a delectable poem," he says, "it is not enough to roll in pleasant woordes, nor yet to thunder in Rym, Ram, Ruff by letter, (quoth my maister Chaucer,) nor yet to abounde in apte vocables, or epithets, unlesse the invention have in it also aliquid salis."

The antiquity of these tales is unquestionably considerable; and but for our knowledge of other similar alliterative poems, of which the dates are ascertained, and go far to rival these in point of obscurity, we might be justified in carrying them back to a very remote period. The only conjecture that can be offered respecting their author is founded on the slight allusion in Dunbar's "Lament for the Death of the Makaris," where he says—

¹ Reprinted, with other similar pieces, from the original copies, under the editorship of David Laing, 4to, 1827.

² Works by Hazlitt, 1869, i. 500.

2 THE AWNTYRS OFF ARTHURE

Clerk of Tranent eik he hes tane
That made the aventers of Sir Gawane.¹

As different poems of the Adventures of Sir Gawane are known, we are prevented from ascribing one or other of them to Clerk with any degree of certainty; besides, we have the authority of Andrew of Wyntoun for assigning them to Hucheon, another of our early Poets (by whom the reader will find a specimen, in the same alliterative style, in the present volume). Wyntoun says—

"He made the gret Gest of Arthure,
And the Awntyre of Gawane."

The Editor has been favoured by his friend, Dr. Robert Anderson, whose attachment and valuable contributions to our national literature are well known, with a sight of some remarks on this ancient romance, by the late Alexander Thomson, Esq. They occur among the Collections which he had made for a History of Scottish Poetry. The following extract will evince the discrimination which he was capable of showing, and the value that might have been attached to his labours had he proceeded farther in completing such an important undertaking:—

"The most glaring imperfections of this Romance [Gawan and Galoran of Galloway] is undoubtedly its deficiency in unity of action, the two parts being entirely unconnected. In this respect it is inferior to the former, although the appearance and behaviour of the ghost displays more of fancy and of poetry than anything to be found in the Gawan and Gologras. It is, however, to be wished that this marvellous incident had constituted the latter half of the poem, as the entrance of Galoran, at the banquet of Arthur, would have opened the piece in a striking manner; and the whole of that story must have been more interesting had it preceded and not followed the supernatural adventures. The same error, in point of arrangement, I have often regretted in the 'Romance of the Forest,' where the woes and wanderings of the two lovers, although sufficiently interesting in themselves, are read almost with a perfect indifference after the terrific scenes at the castle.

¹ See them collected and edited by Sir F. Madden, 4to, 1839; and some have been re-edited for the E. E. Text Society.

"Although the characters are not marked with that strength of pencil which distinguished those of Gawan and Gologras, that defect is perhaps compensated by the introduction of two female personages; and the circumstance of a wedding making part of the catastrophe, gives it more the air of a modern performance."

The author of these Romances, whoever he may have been, has certainly added something new to the poetry of his country. In them there is both originality of incident and manner:—for although they doubtless were founded on popular tradition, the author surely would not have chosen such an intricate and cumbrous mode of versification had they been mere translations, or had he profited by the example of the numerous productions of English Romance-poetry during its best period, namely, from the middle of the fourteenth to the early part of the fifteenth century.

Three copies of this Romance are known to be extant. The one now adopted is preserved in the Cathedral Library, Lincoln. The others are the Douce MS., formerly belonging to Mr. Baynes, of Gray's Inn, and printed by Pinkerton; and the Ireland MS., first published by Mr. Robson,¹ and unknown to the earlier editors. The Douce MS. consists of eleven leaves, in folio, written in a very fair and legible hand, in the reign of Henry VI. It was thought unnecessary to swell out the pages by noticing all the minute variations and discrepancies between the three manuscripts, since in every line some difference in orthography, in omission, or transposition is found.²

¹ Three Early English Metrical Romances, edited by John Robson, Camden Society, 1842. The reader may be usefully referred to Mr. Robson's able and elaborate Introduction. See Ritson's Letter on this subject in Gentleman's Magazine, Jan. 1793.

² The Ireland MS. equally varies from that here employed, and some of its readings are clearly superior,

Whatever seems material, is, however, carefully pointed out, and the words or lines in the text, printed within inverted commas, are those which the Douce copy has furnished, unless it be otherwise stated.

To the Reverend Mr. Gray of Lincoln the Editor owes his best thanks for the kind and friendly manner in which he facilitated his object during the time required for making some transcripts from the Thornton MS.

Here bygyunes the awntyrs off Arthure at the Terne Wathelyn.

I.

IN Kyng Arthurs tym ane awntir by tyde,¹
By the Terne Wathelyn,² als the buke tellis ;
Als he to Carelele was commen, that conqueroure kyde,³
With Dukes, and with ducheperes, that with that dere⁴ duellys,
For to hunte at the herdys, that lang hase bene hyde ;⁵
And one a day thay tham dighte to the depe dellis,
To felle of the ffeemales in the fforeste, 'and frydde,'⁵
Faire in the ffernysone tyme, by ffrythis,⁶ and fellis :

and have been adopted. Dr. Laing entered into particulars as to the contents of the Lincoln MS., a volume now so well known to all interested in these matters, that it seemed superfluous to reproduce the information.

¹ 'In the tyme of Arthur an aunter by tydde.'

² 'Turnewathelan,' Tearn Wadling, or Tarn Watling, in Cumberland.

³ 'And conquerour kydde.'

⁴ 'The dere.'

⁵ 'In forest and frydde.' MS. L. reads, 'in the fforeste wele frythede.'

⁶ 'Fayre by the Firmysthamis, in frithes.'

Thus to the wode are thay wente, the wlonkaste in wedys,
 Bothe the Kynge, and the Qwene, 10
 And all the doghety by dene,
 Schir Gawane gayeste one grene,
 Dame Gayenour he ledis.

II.

And thus Schir Gawane the gay, dame Gayenour
 he ledis,
 In a gletterande gyse, that glemet full gaye ; 15
 With rich rebanes reuerssede,¹ who that righte redys,
 Arayit with rubes² one royalle arraye :
 Hir hude was of hawe hewe³ that hir hede
 hydys,
 Wroghte with pelours, and palle, and perrye to paye ;
 Schruedede in a schorte cloke, that the rayne schrydes⁴ 20
 Sett ouer with safyrs,⁵ full sothely to saye ;
 And thus wondirfully was all the wyghtis
 wedys,
 Hir sadill semyde of that ilke,
 Semlely sewede with sylke :
 One a muyle als the milke, 25
 Gayely scho glydis.

1 'With riche ribaynes reuersset.'

2 'Rubes of rial.'

3 'Of herde hawe.'

4 'Schurde in a schort cloke that the rayne shedes.'

5 'With saffres and seladynes, set by the sides.'

6 THE AWNTYRS OFF ARTHURE

III.

Thus alle gleterande golde gayely scho glydis
The gates, with Schir Gawane, by a grene welle ;
Nane bot hym selfe one a blonke, by that birde bydis,¹

That borne was in Burgoyne, by buke and by belle. 30

He ledde that lady so lange by these landes sydys,² Sythen so neir a lorere scho lyghte³ lawe by a felle.

Schir Arthure, with his Erles, full earnestly rydis,
To teche thame to thaire tristis, trewely to telle :⁴
To thaire tristis he tham taughte, who that righte trowes,⁵ 35

Ilke a lorde, with owttyn lett,

At his triste was he sett,⁶

With bewe and with barcelett,

Vndir these bewes.

IV.

Vndir these bewes thay bade, these beryns so bolde, 40

To bekire at those baryaynes,⁷ in bankis so bare ;
Thay keste of thaire copulls, in clyffes so calde ;
Thay recomforthes thaire kenettis, to kele tham of care ;

¹ 'And that barne on his blonke with the quene bidis.'

² 'By the lawe sides.'

³ 'Under a lorre they lyghte.'

⁴ 'The trouth for to telle.' ⁵ 'Who the trouth trowes.'

'To an oke he hem sett.' ⁷ 'These baryanes.'

Thare myght hirdmen hendaly forsothe herdis by holde,¹ Herkyn huntynge² with hornnes, in holtis so hare, 45
 Thay fellede downe the ffemalls, full thikke folde,
 With fresche hundis and felle, felonosly thay fare ;³
 They questys and quellys,⁴
 By frythis and fellis,⁵
 The dere in the dellys,⁶ 50
 Thei droupen and dare.⁷

V.

Alle darkis the dere in the dim schowys,⁸
 And for drede of the dede⁹ drowpys the daa,
 And by the stremys so strange, that swythyly swoghes,¹⁰
 Thay wery the wilde swyne, and wyrkkis tham waa ; 55
 Thay hunte and halowes, in hurstis and huwes, ¹¹
 And till thaire riste, raches relyes on thaire raye ;¹²
 Thay gafe [to] no gamen no grythe, that one grownde growes,
 Grehundis in the green greues full gladly gan gaa.

1 ' There might hatheles in high, herdes be holde.'

2 ' Huntynge in haste.' 3 ' Thei folowen her fare.'

4 ' With gret questis and quellis.'

5 ' Both in frithis and fellis.'

6 ' All the dere in the delles.'

7 ' Thei durken and dare.'

8 ' Thei durken the dere in the dyme skuwes.'

9 ' That for drede of the deth.'

10 This line omitted in MS. D.

11 ' In hurstis and huwes.'—MS. L. reads ' in holtis and hillys.'

12 ' And bluwe rechas, ryally thei ran to ro.'

Thus thies gomes thay ga in greuys so grene, 60
 And boldly blawes¹ rechayse,
 And folowes faste one the trase,
 With many seriandis a-mase,
 Swylk solauce to sene.

VI.

Thus with solauce they semeledde, the prowdeste in palle,² 65
 And sogt to ther soueraygne, undur the scha schene:³
 Alle bot⁴ Schir Gawane, graythest of alle, Hy leuys with dame Gaynoure in those greues
 grene :
 Vndir a lorere scho laye, that lady so smalle,
 Off boxe and of barborane,⁵ byggit full bene ; 70
 Faste by fore vndrone, this ferly gan falle,
 And this meikill mervelle, that I of mene.
 Now will I of this mervele mele, gif I mote,⁶
 The daye woxe als dirke,
 Als it were mydnyghte mirke : 75
 Ther of Schir Gawane was irke,⁷
 And lyghte one his fote.

VII.

Thus one fote are thay lyghte, those frekis vnfayne,⁸
 And fledde faste to the foreste fro the fawe fellis ;⁹

1 'The King blew.'

2 'They sembled.'

3 'Within schagh'es schene.'

4 'Al bot.'

5 'And of barber.'

6 'Meve if I mote.'

7 'Thereof the King.'

8 'Thus to fote ar thei faren.'

9 'And fleen fro the fforest to the fewe fellis.'—MS. L. reads 'faste to the foreste, and to.'

Thay rane fast to the roches, for reddoure of the rayne,¹ 80
 Ffor the slete and the snawe, that suappede tham so snelle :²
 Thare come a lawe one the loughe, in lede is nogt to layne,³
 In the lyknes of Lucyfere, lauyst in helle,
 And glyddis to dame Gaynoure, the gatis full gayne,⁴ ȝolland [ful] ȝamyrlly, with [a] many lowde ȝelle ;⁵ 85
 It ȝellede, it ȝamede with vengeance full wete ;⁶
 And said, aftre syghande full sare,
 I bann the body that me bare,⁷
 Allas ! now kyndyls my kare,
 I gloppyn and I grete ! 90

VIII.

Thane gloppenyde and grett dame Gaynoure the gay,
 And askede Schir Gawayne, whatt was his beste rede ?—
 It es the clippus of the sune I herde a clerke saye ;⁸
 And thus he comforthede the Qwene, with his knyghthede.

¹ Lines 3 and 6 are omitted in MS. D.

² 'For the sueterand snawe suartyly hem snelles.'

³ 'A lede of tha lawe, in land is.'

⁴ 'And glides to Schir Gawayne the gates to gayne.'

⁵ 'ȝauland and ȝomerand.'

⁶ 'Hit ȝaules, hit ȝamers with waymeyngis wete.'

⁷ 'I ban the body me bare.'

⁸ 'The clippes of the Son.'

Schir Cadore, Schir Caduke, Schir Costantyne,
Schir Kaye,¹ 95

Thir knyghtes are vn curtayse by crose and by crede,

That thus me hase lefte in this Erthe at my dede
daye,

With the gryselyeste gaste, that euer herde I grete!—

At this gaste, quod Schir Gawayne, greue gowe no more,²

I salle speke with gone sprete, 100

In gone wayes so wete,

If I maye the bales bete,

Of gon body bare.

IX.

Bare was hir body, and blake to the bane,
Alle by claggede in claye, vn-comlyly clede: 105

It weryit, it wayemettede, lyke a Woman,
That nowther one hede, ne one hare, hillynge it hade;³

It stottyde, it stounnede, it stode als a stane,⁴

It menet, it memerede, it moyssed for made.

Vn to that grysely gaste Schir Gawane es
gane, 110

He raykede to it one a rase, for he was neuer rade;⁵

¹ 'Schir Cador, Schir Clegis, Schir Costardyne, Schir Cay.'

² 'Of the goost, quod the grome.'

³ 'But on hide, ne on huwe, no helling.'

⁴ 'Hit stemered, hit stounade.'

⁵ 'Neuer drade.'

For rade was he¹ neuer gett, who that ryghte redis,
 One the chefe of the cholle,²
 A tade pykit one hir polle,³ Hir eghne ware holkede full holle, 115
 Glowand als gledis.

X.

Alle glowede als gledis, the gaste whare scho
 glydis,
 Vmbeclusut in a clowde,⁴ with clethyng vn-clere ;
 Cerkelytt with serpentis that satt by hir sydes,⁵
 To tell the tadis ther one with tongue wer to tere.
 The beryn brawndeche owte his brande, and the body bydis, 121
 Therefore that chevalrous knyghte thoghte it no chere ;⁶
 The hundes hye to the hillys⁷ and ther hedus hydus
 The grewhundes were agayste, for that grym
 bere,
 The birdes on the bewes, 125
 That one that gaste gewes,
 Thay scryken in the clewes,⁸
 That herdus mygten hom here.⁹

1 'Drade was he.'

2 'Chef of the clolle.' 3 'The gooste glowes.'

4 'Vmbe clipped with a cloude.'

5 'Skeled with serpentis all aboute the sides.'

6 'Charged no chere.'

7 'The houndes higher to the wode.'

8 'Thei skryke in the skowes.'

9 'That hathes may here.'

XI.

Alle the herdus mygtest here, the hindeste of alle,¹
 How hir cholle chatirede, hir chaftis, and hir chyne ;² 130
 Thane coniurede hir that knyghte, and one Criste gun he calle,
 Alls thou was crucyfyede one croyse, to saue ws
 fra syn !
 Thou spirette saye me the sothe, whedir that thou sall,
 And whi that thow walkes thies woddis with inn ?
 —I was of Fegure, and of flesche,³ the fayereste of alle, 135
 Christenede and krysmede, with kynges in my kyn :⁴
 I hafe kynges in my kyn, knawen for kyde full
 kene,
 God hase sent me this grace,
 To dre my paynes in this piace,
 And nowe am I comen one a pase,⁵ 140
 To speke with goure Qwene.

XII.

Qwene was I whilome, wele bryghtere of browes
 Than Beryke or Brangwayne,⁶ the byrdis so balde ;
 Of any games or gudis, that one the grownde
 growes,
 Wele grettere than Gaynoure of garsomes and of golde, 145

¹ 'Hathelesse might here so fer into halle.'

² 'How chattered the cholle, the challus, on the chyne.'

³ 'Figure and face.'

⁴ 'And knowen.'

⁵ 'I am comen in this cace.'

⁶ 'Than berell.'

Of pales, of powndis, of parkis, of plewes,
 Of tounes, of towris, of tresoures vn-tolde ;
 Of contres, of castells, of craggcs, of clewes ;
 And now am I cachede owte of kythe, in carys so colde :

In care am I cachede, and cowchede in claye ;
 Loo ! curtayse knyghte, 151
 How that dede hase me dyghte,¹
 Now gyffe me anes a syghte ²
 Of Gayenour the gaye.

XIII.

Nowe to Gayenour the gaye Schir Gawayne es
 gane, 155
 And to that body hase he broghte that birde then so bryghte :

Welcome, Waynoure !³ scho says, thu werthy in wane !

Loo ! howe that dulefull dede hase thi dame dyghte,

I was reddare in rode than rose in the rayne ;
 My lyre als the lely, lufely to syghte,⁴ 160

And nowe I am a gresely gaste, and grymly I grane,
 With Lucefere in a lake lawe ame I lyghte ;

Thus am I lyke to Lucefere, takis witnes by mee,

For all goure fresche faouore,
 Now meyse one this mirroure, 165

For bothe Kynge and Emperoure,

Thus sall ge bee.

¹ 'How delfulle deth hath me dight.'

² 'Lete me onys haue a sight.'

³ It is curious that in this stanza in all the MSS. we have Gaynour and Waynour, two variants of the same name ; and the latter frequently occurs afterwards, as does Wawayn for Gawayn.

⁴ 'Lonched on hight.'

XIV.

And thus dede will ȝow dyghte, take thare of no dowte,¹

And there one hertly takis hede, while that thu es
here,

When thou es richely arrayed, and rydes in a rowte, 170

Hafe than peté, and mynd one the pore, for thu arte of powere.

Beryns and byrdis are besye the abowte,

When thi body is bawmede, and broghte appone
bere,

Than will thay leue the lyghtely, that nowe will lowte,

And than helps the no thyng, bot halye prayere :

The prayere of the pore, purchases the from helle,² 176

Of thase that ȝellis at the ȝate,

When thu sittis in thi sete,³

With all mirthes at thi mete,

Some dayntethis on dese. 180

XV.

With dayntethis one dese, thi dyetes are dyghte ;
And I in dawngere and dole am dowme for to duelle,⁴

Naxty and nedfull, and nakede one nyghte

There ffolowes me a ferde of ffendis ffull ffell :⁵

¹ 'Takis witness by mee.'—MS. L.

² 'Than lit wyn the light.'

³ 'May purchas the pes.'

⁴ 'In dongon I dwelle.'

⁵ 'Fendes of helle.'

Thay harle me vnhendely, and hewys me one hyghte; 185

In brasse and in bromstane I birne als a belle :
Was neuer wroghte in this werlde a wafullere
wyghte,

It were tere till any tonge my tourmenttis to telle !

Bot now will I of my tourment talke, or I gaa ;

Thynke hertly on this, 190

Now fonde to mende of this mys ;

For thou arte warnede I wysse,

Be warre now be my waa !

XVI.

Now wo es me ! for thi waa, sayd Waynour, I
wysse,

Bot a worde wolde I wete, and thi will ware : 195

Gyff matyns or messes myghte oghte menden thi mysse,

Or any mobylls on molde, my myrthis ware the mare ;

Or bedis of bechopes myghte brynge the to blysse ;

Or conuentis in cloysters myghte kere the of care ;

For if thou be my modir, grete mervelle it es, 200

That thi burlyche body es bakenede so bare !¹—

I bare the of my body ; whate bote es to lye ?²

Be that takenynge thou trewe,

I make a solempne a vowe,

That none wyste bot I, and thowe,³ 205

And ther fore dole I dye.⁴

¹ ' Is brought to be so bare.'

² ' What bote is hit I layn.'

³ ' And no man wist h^t but thowe.'

⁴ ' That sothely I sayn.'

XVII.

Telle me now sothely, what may safe thi sytis,¹
 And I sall garre seke sayntes for thi sake ;²
 Bot of thase balefull bestis, that one thi body bytys,
 All blendis my blode, thi blee es soo blake ;³ 210
 This es it to luffe paramoures, and lustys, and litys,
 That gerse me lyghte and lenge so lawe in this lake ;
 For alle the welthe of this werlde, thus awaye
 wytis ;
 This werlde is wandrethe, that wirkes me
 wrake :⁴
 For wrake it me wirkes, now Waynoure, I
 wysse ! 215
 Were thritty trentalls done,
 By twyxen vndrone and none,
 My saule were saluede full sone,⁵
 And broghte in to blysse.

XVIII.

To blysse brynge the that barne, 'that boghte the on rode.'⁶ 220
 That was crucyfiede one croyse, and crownede with thorne ;

1 'What may the sauen y wis.'

2 'And I sall make sere men to singe for thi sake.'

3 'Al bledis my ble, thi bones.'

4 'With the wilde wormis that worche me wrake.'

5 'Socoured with son.'

6 'That barne that brought the on rode.'—'that dere has the boghte.'—MS. L.

Crystynnedede and krysemmede with candills and coude,

Fullede in funstane, full frely by forne ;¹

Mary, that es myghty, and myldest of mode,

That bare that blysschede [barne], in Bedleme was borne, 225

Gyffe me grace for to grete thy saule with some gude ;

And mene the with messes and matynes one morne ;

For hym, that ryste on the rode,²

Gyffe nowe fast of thy gude,

To folke that fayles the fude, 230

Whylls that thou erte here.

XIX.

Now here hertly one hande I heste the to halde,
With a melyone of messes to make thy menyng.

Bot one worde, saide dame Waynoure, now wiete that I walde, 234

What greues God moste³ of any kyns thyng?—

Pride, with appparentis,⁴ als prophetis haue tolde

By fore the pople appertly in thaire prechyng ;

The ‘bowes’ is full bittire, thare of be thou balde,

It makis beryns full balde,⁵ to breke his byddyng ;

Who so his byddyng brekis, bare he es of blysse ;

Bot thay saluen hom⁶ of ther sare, 241

Certis, or thay hethyn fare,

Thay mon wiete of calde care,

Waynoure, I wys.

1 ‘Ffolowed in fontestone.’

2 ‘Grete myster.’

3 ‘What wrathed God most.’

4 ‘With appurtenance.’

5 ‘Burnes so bly.’

6 ‘Be salued.’

XX.¹

Telle me, sayde Waynoure, a worde gif thou woste, Whate bedus that myghte beste in to blys the brynge?— 246

Mekenesse and mercy, scho saide, tho are the moste,
 Hafe peté on the pore, thane plesys thou owre
 Kynge;

Sythen after that do almous dedis of alle other thynges,

Thies aren the gud gyftis of the Haly Goste, 250
 That enspyres alle sperites, withowttyn spyllynge;
 For to come to that blysse, that euer more sall
 laste,

Of thies sperituale thinges, spyre me na mare.²

Whills thou arte Qwene in this quarte,

Halde thies wordis in thyn herte, 255

For thou sall lyffe bot a starte;

Hethyn sall thu ffare.

A Fytte.

XXI.

How sall we fare, said the freke, that fowndis to fyghte,

That ofte foundis the folkes,³ in fele kyngis landis;

That riche rewmes ouer rynnnes agaynes the ryghte,

And wynnes wirchippis⁴ and welthis by wyghtenes

of handis, 261

¹ This stanza in the Lincoln MS. is misplaced, as it is there introduced as the 18th.

² 'Spute thou na mare.'

³ 'And thus defoulen the folke.'

⁴ 'Wynnen worshipp in werre thorgh.'

—ȝowre Kynges to covetous, I tell the, Schir knyghte ;
 May no man stere hym of strenghe,¹ whills thou whale standis,
 When he es in his mageste hegheste, and maste
 es of myghte,
 He sall lighte full lawe appone the see sandis : ²⁶⁵
 Thus ȝowre cheualrous Kynges² chefe schalle a chawnce,
 False fortune in fyghte,³
 That wondirfull whele wryghte,⁴ ‘ Makis ’⁵ lordis lawe for to lyghte ;
 Takis witnes by Fraunce. 270

XXII.

Fraunce hafe ȝe frely with ȝour fyghte wonnen ;
 The Ffrolo and the Ffarnaghe es frely by leuede ;⁶
 Bretayne and Burgoyne es bothe to ȝow bownnen.⁷
 And alle the Dugepers of Fraunce with the dyn dreuede :
 Gyane may gretyn that the werre was by goun-nen ; 275
 Es noghte a lorde in that lande, appon lyfe leuede ;
 ȝete sall the riche Romaines with ȝow ben ouer ronnen,
 And alle the Rownde Tabill thaire rentis be reuede.

¹ ‘ May no man stry him with strength, while his whele stondes.’

² ‘ Chiualrous knight.’

³ ‘ Falsely fordone in fight.’

⁴ ‘ With a wonderfull wight.’

⁵ ‘ Mase.’—MS. L.

⁶ ‘ Freol and his folke fey ar they leued.’

⁷ ‘ To ȝow bowen.’

Thay sall ȝitt be Tybire tymbire ȝow tene,¹
 Gete the Schir Gawayne 280
 Turne thou to Tuskayne,
 For [lese] thu sall Bretayne,
 With a knyghte kene.

XXIII.

A knyghte sall kenly closen the crowne,²
 And at Carelyone be crownede for kynge :³ 285
 That sege sall be sesede at a sesone,⁴
 That mekill bale and barete till Ynglande⁵ sall
 brynge ;
 ȝe sall in Tuskane be talde of that tresone,
 And torne home aȝayne for that tydyng ;
 And ther sall the Rownde Tabille losse the renowne, 290
 Be syde Ramessaye, faille ryghte⁶ at a rydyng,
 And at Dorsett sall dy the doghetyeste of alle.
 Gette the Schir Gawayne,
 The baldest of Bretayne ;
 For in a slake thu sall be slayne, 295
 Swylke ferly sall falle.

XXIV.

Siche ferly sall falle with owttten any fabille,
 Appone Cornewayle coste, with a knyghte kene :
 Arthure the auenance that honeste es and abill,
 Sall be wondid I wysse full wathely I wene : 300

¹ ' Thus shall a Tyber vn true tymber with tene.'

² ' This knight shal be clanly enclosed with a crowne.'

³ ' At Carlele shal that comly.'

⁴ ' A sege shal he seche with a cession.'

⁵ ' To Bretayn.'

⁶ ' Beside Ramsey full rade.'

‘And al the rial rowte of the Rounde Tabille
 Thei shullen dye on a day, the doughty by dene’¹
 Supprysede with a sugette that beris of sabille,²
 A sawtire engrelede of Siluer full schene ;
 He beris ‘it’ of sabille, sothely to saye, 305
 In kyng Arthures haulle
 The childe playes hym at the balie
 That fall owtraye *ꝑ*ow alle,
 Full derfely a daye.³

XXV.

Hafe gude daye, dame Gaynoure, and Gawane the
 gude ; 310
 I hafe no langare tyme, mo tales to telle,
 For I mun wende one my waye, thorowte this wode,
 Vn to my winnyng wane, in waa for to welle :
 For him that rewfully rase, and rente was one rude, Thynke one the dawngere, and the dole, that I in duelle ; 315
 And fede folk, for my sake, that fawte the fude,⁴
 And mene me with messes, and matyns in melle :
 ‘Messes are medecynes to vs that bale bides’⁵
 Vs thynke a messe als swete,
 Als any spyce that euer thu ete :’ 320
 And thus with a grysely grete
 The gaste awaye glydis.

¹ Instead of these two lines, taken from MS. D., the third and fourth lines of this stanza are repeated in MS. L. They occur correctly, but with literal variations, in the Ireland MS.

² ‘Supprisset with a surget, he beris hit in sable.’

³ ‘Delfully that day.’

⁴ ‘That failen the fude.’

⁵ The last four lines of Stanza xix. are here repeated by mistake in MS. L., followed, however, by the lines in the text, except the 9th, which is given from MS. D. In the Ireland MS. the sequence is correct, but the text differs in the literal readings, which are inferior to those of the Douce MS.

XXVI.

With a grisly grete the gaste away glydis ;
 And goes with gronyng sore, thorgh the greues grene : ' ¹ 324

The wynde and the wedyre, ' the ' welkyn vn hydis,
 Than vnclosede the clowddis, the sone schane schene.

The kyng his bogill has blowen, and on the bent bydis,

His fayre folk in firthes, flokkes in fere ; ²
 All that royalle rowte, to the Qwene rydys
 And melis to hir mildely, one thaire manere ; ³ 330

The wyes ⁴ on swiike wondirs, a wondirde thaire were ;

The prynces prowdeste in palle,
 Dame Gaynoure, and alle,
 Wente to Rendolfe sett haulle ⁵

To thaire sopere. 335

XXVII.

The Kyng was sett to the supere, and serued in sale, ⁶

Vndir a Seloure of silke, full daynetyuously dyghte ;
 With alle the wirchipe to welde, and wyne for to wale, ⁷

Birdis in brede, of brynt golde bryghte. ⁸

¹ These lines are wanting in MS. L. They are found with changes in the Ireland MS.

² 'In the frith thei flokken by dene.'

³ 'She sayis hem the selcouthes that thei hadde thair seene.'

⁴ 'The wise of the weder.'

⁵ 'Went to Rondoles halle.' ⁶ 'Serued in halle.'

⁷ 'Worshipp and wele, mewith the walle.'

⁸ 'Briddes branden and brad in bankers bright.'

Ther come two sotolers in with a symbale, 340
 A lady, lufesome of late, ledande a knyghte ; Scho rydes vp to the heghe¹ desse by fore the royalle ;
 And ask'd² Schir Arthure, full hendely one
 highte,
 Scho saide³ to that souerayne, wlonkeste in wedis,
 Mane moste of myghte,⁴ 345
 Here es comyn ane armede knyghte,⁵
 Now do him resone and ryghte,
 For thi manhede.

XXVIII.

The mane in his mantyll, syttis at his mete, 349
 In paille purede with pane, full precyously dyghte,⁶ Trofelyte and trauerste, with trewloues in trete ;⁷
 The tasee was of topas that ther to was tyghte :
 He glyfte vpe with hys eghne, that gray ware,
 and grete,
 With his burely berde,⁸ one that birde bryghte.
 He was the Souerayneste Sir, sittande in sette, 355
 That euer any segge saughe, or sene with syghte.
 Thus the kyng, crowned in kythe, carpis hir till ;⁹
 Welcome worthy wyghte !
 Thou sall hafe resone and ryghte ;
 Whythen es this comly knyghte, 360
 If it be thi will ?

1 ' Ho raykes up in a res.'

2 ' And halsed.'

3 ' Ho said.'

4 ' Mon makles.'

5 ' An errant knight.'

6 ' Pured to pay prodly pight.'

7 This line is omitted in MS. D. The Ireland MS. reads—' Trowlt with trulufes and tranest be-tuene.'

8 ' With his beueren berde.'

9 ' Talkis hir tille.'

XXIX.

Scho was the worthilieste wyghte, that any wy myghte weld ¹

Hir gyde was gloryous, and gaye, alle of gyrse
grene ;

Hir belle was of plonkette,² with birdis full baulde,
Botonede with besantes, and bokellede full bene ;³

Hir faxe in fyn perrye frette was in fowlde, 366

The conterfelette in a kelle colourede full clene,⁴

With a crowne of crystalle, and of clere golde :

Hir courchefes were coryouse, with mony prowde
pyn,

‘ Her perre was praysed, with prise men of might.’⁵ 370

The bryghte byrde, and balde,

Had note ynoghe to by halde

One that freely to fawlde,

And one that hende knyghte.

XXX.

That knyghte in his coloures, was armede ‘ full ’ clene, 375

With his comly creste, full clere to by holde ;

His brenyes, and his basnett, birneschet full
bene,

With a bourdoure abowte, alle of brynte golde ;

¹ ‘ That eny wede wolde.’

² ‘ Here belle was of bluncket.’

³ ‘ Branded with brende golde.’

⁴ ‘ With a crowne craftly al of clene golde.’

⁵ Omitted in MS. L. Ireland MS. reads—‘ Har anparel was a-praysut, with princes of mygte.’

His mayles was mylk whytte, enclosede so clene ;¹
 His horse trapped with the same, als it was me taulde ;² 380

The schelde one his schuldir, of syluere full schene,
 With bare heuedis of blake, burely, and baulde ;³

His horse with sendale was teldade, and trap-pede⁴ to the hele

And, his cheuarone by forne,
 Stude als dois vnycorne,⁵ 385

Als so scharpe as any thorne
 And mayles of stele.⁶

XXXI.

In stele was he stuffede, that steryn was one stede, Alle of sternys of golde ; that stekillede was one straye ;⁷ 389

He and his gambesouns, 'glowede als a glede,'⁸
 With graynes of rubyes, that graythede were gaye,
 And his schene schynbandes,⁹ scharpe fre to schrede ;

'His polans with pelicocus were pondred to pay :'¹⁰
 Thus with a lance appon lofte that lady gun he lede ; 394

A swayne one a fresone,¹¹ folowede him on faye.

¹ 'Were mylke white . . . many hit seen.'

² 'Trapped of that ilke as true men me tolde.'

³ 'Of brake browed ful bolde.'

⁴ 'In fyne sandel was trapped.' ⁵ 'Stodr as an.'

⁶ 'An anlas of stele.' ⁷ 'His pencell displaied.'

⁸ 'His gloves, his gamesouns glowed as a glede.' The end of this line in MS. L. seems to be 'glomede als stedie.'

⁹ 'Schynbandes.'

¹⁰ This line is wanting in MS. L. and also the 9th in this stanza. In the former the Douce copy reads polemus.

¹¹ 'A freke, on a freson.'

‘The ffreson was afered, for drede of that fare;’
 He was seldom wounte ¹
 To see a tablet at his frounte,² Swilke gammens was he wonte,³
 ‘Saghe he neuer are.’⁴ 400

XXXII.

Arthure askede in hye, one herande tham alle,
 Whate woldest thou, Wy, gif it were thi wille?
 Telle me whate thou sekis, and whedir that thou schalle?
 And why thou stonyes on thi stede, and stondis so stille?⁵
 He lyfte vpe his visare ⁶ fro the ventalle; 405
 And with a knyghtly contenance he carpis hym till.
 Be thou kaysere or kynge, here I the be calle
 To fynde me a freke, to fyght one my fill:
 For fyghtyng to frayste, I fowndede fra hame.
 The kynge carpede on heghte,⁷ 410
 ‘Lyghte, and lenge alle nyghte :
 If thou be curtayse knyghte,
 And tell me thi name.’

XXXIII.

My name es Schir Galleroun, with owttyn any gyle; 414
 The gretteste of Galowaye, of greues and of gyllis,

¹ ‘For he was seldom wonte to see.’

² ‘This tablet floure.’ ³ ‘Siche gamen ne gle.’

⁴ ‘Full seldome to see.’—MS. L.

⁵ ‘Sturne on thi stede.’ ⁶ ‘He wayned up his viser.’

⁷ ‘Then said the King vpon hight.’

Of Konyng; of Carryke; of Connygame;¹ of Kylle :

Of Lomonde;² of Lenay; of Lowthyane hillis.

Thou hase wonnen thaim one werre with owttrageouse will;³

And gyffen tham Schir Gawayne, and that myn herte grilles.

'But he shall wring his honde, and warry the wyle'⁴ 420

Or he welden my landes at myn vn thankes:⁵

By alle the welthe of this werlde, he sall them
neuer welde,

Whills I my hede may bere;

Bot he wyn tham one werre,

Bothe with schelde and with spere, 425

Appone a fair felde.

XXXIV.

I will feghte on a felde, and ther to make I my faythe,

With any freke one the faulde, that frely es
borne :

To lose swilke a lordschipe me thynke it full laythe;

And ilke a leueande lede wolde laughe me to skorne.⁶— 430

¹ 'Of Connok, of Conyngham, and also Kyle.'

² 'Of Lomand of Losex.'

³ 'With a wrange wille.'

⁴ This line is wanting in MS. L. It occurs in the Ireland MS.; but the readings are inferior.

⁵ 'Er he weld hem Y wys agayn myn umwylles.'

⁶ 'And sicke lede opon lyve.'

We aren here in the wode walkand one our wathe,¹

We hunte at the herdis with hundes and with horne ;

We aren one owre gamen, we ne hafe no gude graythe ;²

Bot gitt thu sall be machede by middaye to morne.
And for-thi I rede the, thu rathe mane, thu risté
the all the nyghte. 435

Than Gawayne, gayest of alle,³

Ledis hym owte of the haulle,

Vn till a paveleone of paille,

That prowdeley was pyghte. 439

XXXV.

Pighte was it prowdeley with purpure and paille,
With dossours and qweschyns, and bankowres full bryghte ;⁴

With inn was a chapelle, a chambir, and ane haulle ;⁵

A chymneye with charecole, to chawffen that knyghte,

His stede was sone stabillede, and lede to the stalle,

And haye hendly heuyde in hekkes one hyghte.⁶

Sythen he brayde⁷ vp a burde, and clathes gun calle ; 446

Sanapes, and salers, full semly to syghte,

1 'Went to walke.'

2 'Gome graithe.'

3 'Grathest of alle.'

4 'Birdes branden above, in brend gold bright.'

5 'Inwith was a.'

6 'Hay hertly he had in haches on hicht.'

7 'Thei braide.'

Preketes, and broketes, and standertis by twene :¹

Than thay seruede that knyghte,²
And his worthy wyghte, 450
With full riche daynteths dyghte,
In Siluere full schene.

XXXVI.

In Siluer sa semly thay serue tham of the beste,
With vernage in verrys and cowppys sa clene :
And thus thase gleterande gommies gladdis thaire gestis,³ 455

With riche dayntethe, endorred, in dysches by dene.

When the ryalle renke was gone to his ryste,
The Kyng in to concelle hase callede his knyghtis
so kene ;

Sayes : luke nowe, ꝛe lordyngs, oure loos be noghte lost,

W[h]o sall enconter with ꝛone knyghte, cast ꝛo
by twene.⁴ 460

Thane said Schir Gawayne,⁵ he sall vs noghte greue,

Here my trouthe I ꝛow plyghte,⁶

I sall feghte with ꝛone knyghte,

In the defence of my ryghte,

My Lord, with ꝛowre leue. 465

1 'Torches.'

2 'Thus thei.'

3 'And thus Schir Gawayn the good.'

4 'Kestis ꝛou bitwene.'

5 'Then said Gawayn the goode.'

6 'Here my honde I you highte.'

XXXVII.¹

I leue wele, quod the kyng, thi latis are 'light,'
 'But I nolde for no Lordeshippe se thi life lorne.'
 Late gaa, quod Schir Gawayne, Gode stond with the right,
 If he skape skatheles, 'hit were a foule skorne.'
 In the dawynge of the day, the doughti were dight; 470
 Thaye herde matyns 'and masse erly on morne.'
 In myd Plumtun lone hor paeluns were pigte, Whare neuer freke opon folde had foughten biforne;
 Thei setten listes by lyue on the logh lande :
 Thre soppus of [pain-]mayn 475
 Thei brought to Schir Gawayn,
 For to comfort his brayn,
 The King gared commaunde.

XXXVIII.

The King commaunded kindeli the Erle of Kente,²
 For his meculle curtasy to kepe tother knygte, 480
 With riche dayntethe, 'or that day he dynede in his tente,
 With birdes baken in brede, of brynte golde bryghte ;³

¹ The greater part of this and the two first lines of the next stanza are torn away in MS. L. The 7th line is taken from the Ireland MS., the rest from the Douce.

² The Douce MS. reads Kindely, the Erlis son of Kent. A few other literal improvements have been borrowed from the Ireland text.

³ 'After buskis him in a brene that burneshed was bright.'

And sythen vn to dame Waynour full warly he wente ;
 And lefte with hir in warde¹ that wurlyche
 wyghte :
 And than thies hachells full hendely thaire horsse hase hent² 485
 At the lycence of the lorde that lordely gun lyghte,³
 Alle bot thir 'two' beryns,⁴ bouldeste of blode.
 The kynges chere was sette,
 Abowne on a chasselett :⁵
 And many a gaylyarde grett 490
 For Gawayne the gude.

A Fytte.

XXXIX.

Gawayne and Galleron dyghtis thaire stedis,⁶ Alle of gleterande golde full gaye was thaire gere ;
 Twa lordes be lyfe to thaire lystes thaym ledis,
 With many sergeauntes of mace, it was the manere ; 495
 The beryns broches thaire blonkes to thair sydes bledis.
 Aythir freke appon felde hase fichede thaire spere,⁷ Schaftis of schene wode thay scheuerede in schides ;⁸
 So jolyly those gentill men justede one were ; 499

1 'He in here.'

2 'After aither in high hour horses thei hent.'

3 'And at the listes on the lande.'

4 'Bothe thes two burnes.'

5 'Quene on a chacelet.'

6 'Gurden her stedes.'

7 'Has fastned his spere.'

8 'Thei shindre.'

Schaftis thay scheuer in schydes full schene :¹
 Sythen with brandes full brygthe,
 Riche mayles thay richte ;
 Thus enconterde the knyghte
 With Gawayne one grene.

XL.

Gawayne was graythely graythede on grene,² 505
 With griffons of golde, engrelede full gaye,
 Trayfolede with trayfoles³ and trewluffes by twene,
 ‘ On ’ a stertande stede he strykes one straye.⁴
 ‘ That other in ’ his turnaynge he talkes tille him in tene ;
 ‘ Whi drawes thou the one dreghe, and makis swilke delay ? 510
 ‘ He swapped him then at the squyre ’ with a swerde
 kene :
 ‘ That greued Schir Gawayn to his dede day.
 The dyntes of that doughty were dowttous by dene.
 Fyftè mayles and mo
 The swerde swapt in two, 515
 The canel bone also,
 And clef his schelde schene.⁵

XLI.

He keruet of the cantel, that court the knygte, Thro his shild and his shildur, a schaft-mun he share ;

¹ ‘ Shaftes thei shindre in sheldes so shene.’

² ‘ Gaily grathed in grene.’

³ ‘ Trifeled with traues.’

⁴ ‘ On a stargand stede.’

⁵ These lines, partly destroyed in MS. L., are filled up from MS. D.

Then the latelest lord loghe opon heȝte, 520
 And Gauan grechut ther with, and greut wundur sore :

Sayd, "he should rewarde thè this route, and I con rede o-ryȝte."

He foundes into the freke with a fresche fare ; Throȝt basynet and breny, that burnyschet was bryȝte, 524

With a bytand brand eyn throghe he him bare ;
 He bare thruȝe his breny, that burneyst were bryȝte.

Then gloppunt that gaye,
 Hit was no ferly, in faye,
 His stedes startun on straye,
 With steroppus fulle stryȝte.¹ 530

XLII.

Thenne with steroppus fulle streȝte stifly he strikes,
 Waynes atte Sir Wawane, ryȝte as he were wode ;
 Thenne his lemmon on lofte scrilles and scrykes,
 Quenne the balefulle birde blenked on his blode.²
 Other lordus and ladès thayre laykes welle likes,
 Thonked God of his grace for Gawan the gode.

With a swappe of his sQurde squeturly him strykes,
 Smote of Gauan stede heued, in styd quere hestode ;

The fayre fole foundret, and felle bi the rode ;
 Gauan was smyther and smerte, 540
 Owte of his steroppus he sterte,
 As he that was of herte,
 Fro Greselle the gode.

¹ A leaf in the Lincoln MS. appears unfortunately to be lost. This and the next five stanzas, and part of the 47th which it seems to have contained, are therefore printed from the Ireland copy.

² 'Burne,' here and elsewhere in MS. D. for 'barne' or 'beryn.'

XLIII.

"Greselle," quod Gauan, "gone is, God ote !
 He wos the burlokke[st] blonke, ther euyr bote brede ! 545
 By him that inne Bedelem wasse borne for oure bote,
 I schalle reuenge thè to day, and I con ryȝt rede."
 "Foche thè my fresun," quod the freke, "is fayrest on fote,
 He wulle stond thè in stoure, in-toe so mycul styd."—
 "No more for thi fresun, then for a rysche rote, Butte for dylle of a dowmbe best, that thus schuld be ded ; 551
 I mowrne for no matyttory, for I may gete more."
 And as he stode bi his stede,
 That was gud in iche nede,
 Neȝehond Syr Wauan wold wede, 555
 So wepputte he fulle sore.

XLIV.

Sore wepput for woe, Syr Wauan the wiȝte,
 Bouun to his enmy, that woundut was sore ;
 The tother droȝghe him o-dreghe, for drede of the knyȝte,
 Then he brochet his blonke, upon the bente bare.
 "Thus may we dryue furthe the day," quod Gauan,
 "to the dirke nyȝte, 561
 The sun is past the merke of mydday and more,"
 In myddes the lyst on the lawunde, this lordes doun lyst ;
 A-gayn the byrne with his brand, he busket him
 zare :

Thus to batelle thay boune with brandis so bryzte;
Shene schildus thay shrede,
Welle ryche mayles wexun rede,
And mony duzty hadun drede,
So fursely thai foztun. 569

XLV.

Thus on fote con thai fezte, upon the fayre fildus,
As fresch as ij lions, that fawtutte the fille :
Witturly ther weys, thayre weppuns thay weld ;
Wete ze wele, Sir Wauan, him wontut no wille,
He berus to him with his brand, vndur his brode schild,
Thro the wast of the body wowundet him ille ; 575
The squird styntet for no stuffe, he was so wele stelet,
The tothur startes on bakke, and stondus stone stille ;
If he were stonit in that stouunde, zette strykes
he sore ;
He girdus to Syr Gauane,
Throzhe ventaylle and pusane, 580
That him lakket no more to be slayne,
Butte the brede of hore.

XLVI.

And thus the hardy on heyte, on helmis thai heuen,
Betun downe berels, in bordurs so bryzte, 584
That with stones iraille were strencult and strauen,
Frettut with fyne gold, that failis in the fize.
With schildus on ther schildurs, schonely thay shewen,
Stythe stapuls of stele, thay striken doune strezte.
Thenne byernes bannes the tyme, the bargan was bruen,
That euyr these duzti with dyntus, so dulfully were dizte. 590

Hit hurte King Arther in herte, and mengit his mode ;
 Bothe Sir Lote, and Sir Lake,
 Meculle menyng con make ;
 Thenne Dame Gaynor grette for his sake,
 For Gawan the gode ! 595

XLVII.

Thenne grette Dame Gaynour, with hur gray een,
 For grefe of Sir Gauan grimliche wouundes ;
 Thenne the kny3te, that was curtase, cruail, and
 kene,
 With a stelun brand, he strikes in that stounde ;
 Alle the cost of the kny3te, he keruys doune clene, Thro the riche mayles, that ronke were and rouunde ; 601
 Suche a touche in that tyde, he tazte hym in tene,¹
 And gurdes one Sir Gallerun, eyn grouelinge² on grounde.
 Alle grouelinge in grounde, gronet on grene,
 Als wowundut as he wasse, 605
 Wundur rudely he rose,³
 Fast he foundes atte his face,
 With a squrd kene.⁴

XLVIII.

Clenly that crewelle couerde hym on highte,
 And with a caste of the carhonde, in kantelle he strykis ; 611

¹ 'With a teneful touche.'

² Robson printed 'grouelonges.'

³ 'Sone buredely he ras.'

⁴ 'Schene.'—MS. L.

Full gerne he wayttis Schir Wawayne ¹ the wighte,
 Bot hym lympe the werse; and that me wele lykis;
 He etyllde with a slynge ² hafe slayne hym with slighte,
 The swerde sleppis on slante, ³ and one the mayle
 slykys,
 And Schir Gawayne by the colere clekis the knyghte, ⁴ 615
 Than his leman so lowde skremes and skrykis. ⁵
 Scho grete one dame Gaynour, with granes so grylle,
 And saide, lady! makles of myghte,
 Hafe now mercy one gone knychte,
 That es so dulefully dyghte, 620
 Giffe it be thi will.

XLIX.

Than wilfully dame Waynour ⁶ son to the kyng went;
 Scho caught of hir coronalle, and knelyd hym till:
 Als thu erte Roye ryalle, and recheste of rent,
 And I thyn wyfe, weddid at myn awen will, ⁷ 625 gone beryns in gone batelle that bledis one gone bent,
 Thay are wery, I wysse, and wondide full ille, Thurgh 'thaire' schene schildis thaire schuldirs are schent;
 'The granes of Schir Gawayne dois my hert grille.' ⁸ 629

¹ 'And waynes at Schir Wawayn.'

² 'He atteled with a slenk.'

³ 'The swerde swapped on his swange.'

⁴ 'Keppes the knight.'

⁵ 'Skrilles and skrikis' . . . 'skykis.'—MS. L.

⁶ 'Wisly dame Waynour.' ⁷ 'At thi awen wille.'

⁸ This line is omitted in MS. L.

The granes of Schir Gawayne greuys me full fare :
 Wolde thu, lufly lorde,¹
 Gare the knyghtis accorde,
 It ware grete comforde,
 Till alle that here ware. 631

L.

Bot than hym spake Galleron to Gawayne the gude :
 " I wende no wy in this werlde, were haluendelle so
 wyghte,
 Here I make the relese of my rentis, by the rode ;
 And by fore thiese ryalle, resynge the my ryghte ;²
 And sythen I make the manreden with a mylde
 mode, 639
 Als to mane in this medil erthe makles of myghte."
 He talkes to warde the knyghte, one heghte there he stode,
 He bedde that burely his brande, that birneschede was bryghte :
 Of renttis and reches I make the relese.
 Downe knelis that knyghte,
 And carpis thies wordes one highte : 645
 " The kyng send me vp ryghte,³
 And commandis the pese."

LI.

The kyng commandis the pese, and cryes one
 highte ;
 And Gawayne was gudly, and lefte for his sake. 649

¹ ' Woldest thou leve lorde.'

² Probably, ' waive my right to ransom.'

³ ' The kyng stode vp right.'

And than to the lystis the lordis leppis full lyghte, Schir Owayne, Schir Vryene, and Arrake full rathe :¹

Marrake, and Menegalle, that maste were of myghte,²

Bathe thase trauelde knyghtis trewly thay taghte :
Vnnetes myghte those knyghtes stande vp ryghte,

Thay were for bett, and for blede thaire wedis
wexe bleke :³ 655

Hir blees were brosed, for beting of brondes⁴

With owttten more lettynge,

Was dighte there thayre sagtenyng ;⁵

By fore that comly kyng,

Thay helde vpe thair hondes. 660

LII.

I gyffe to the Schir Gawayne, quode the kyng, tresoure, and golde,⁶

Glamorgans landis,⁷ with greuys so grene :

The wirchiipe of Wales, to welde and to wolde ;

With Gryffons castelle, kirnelde so clene ; 664

And the husters haulle,⁸ to hafe and to holde ;

Wayfurthe, and Waturforthe, wallede I wene ;⁹

¹ 'Schir Ewayn, Schir Erian, and Arrak, Schir Lake.'

² 'Schir Dowrelat and Moylard that most wer of might.'

³ 'What for buffetes and blode, her blees wex blake.'

⁴ This line is omitted in MS. L.

⁵ 'Dight was here saughtlying.'

⁶ 'With gerson and golde.'

⁷ 'All the Glamorgan lande.'

⁸ 'Eke Ulstur halie.'

⁹ 'Wayford and Waterforde in Wales I wene.'

Twa baronryse in Bretan,¹ with burghes so balde,
 That are moted abowte,² and byggede full bene :
 I sall endowe the als a duke, and dub the with myn hande, 669
 That thu sagtun with yone gentill knyghte,
 That es so hardy and wyghte,
 And relese hym thi ryghte,
 And grante him his lande.

LIII.

Now, and here I gyffe hym, quod Gawayne,³ withowttyn ony gyle,
 Alle the landes, and the lythes, fra Lowyke to Layre ;⁴ 675
 Commoke, and Carrike ;⁵ Connyngname ; and Kyle ;
 Als the cheualrous knyghte, hase chalandchede als Ayere ;
 The Lebynge, the Lewpynge, the Leveastre I lee,⁶
 Bathe frythes, and forestes, frely and faire :⁷
 Vnder⁸ your lordeship to lenge heren while, 680
 And to the Rounde Table to make repaire ;
 I shall reseff him in felde, in forestis so faire :
 Than the Kynge, and the Quene,
 And alle the doghety by dene,
 Thorow the greuys so grene, 685
 To Carlele thay kayre.

1 'Two baronrees in Bretane.'

2 'That arn batailed about.'

3 'Here I gif Schir Galeron, quod G.'

4 'Fra Lauer.'

5 'Connok and Carlele.'

6 'The Lother, the Lemok, the Loynak, the Lile.'

7 'Forestes and fosses so faire.'

8 This and the next two lines are not in MS. L.

LIV.

The Kyng to Carelele es comen, with knyghttis
 so kene,
 To halde his Rownde Tabill¹ one ryalle array :
 These knyghtes, that were² wondede full wathely, als I wene,
 Surgeons sone sanede thaym, sothely to saye ; 690 Bothe comforthede thaym than the Kynge,³ and the Qwene ;
 Thay ware dubbyde Dukes bothe one a daye,
 And ther Schir Galleron weddid his wyfe,⁴ that semly and schene,
 With gyftis, and gersonis, of Schir Gawayne the gaye.⁵ 694
 And thus those hathells⁶ with haldis that hende :
 And when he was saned, and sownde, Thay made hym sworne, to Schir Gawane in that stownde,⁷
 And sythen a knyghte of the Tabille
 Rownde,⁸
 Vn till his luyes end. 699

LV.

Dame Gaynour garte besyly⁹ wryte in to the weste,
 To alle manere of relygeous, to rede and to synge ;

1 'And al the rounde table.'

2 'The wees that were.'

3 'Bothe conforte the knyghtis.'

4 'There he wedded his wife, slonkest I wene.'

5 'Schir Galeron the gaye.'

6 'Thus that hathel in high.'

7 'Thei made Schir Galeron that stonde.'

8 'A knight of the Table Ronde.'

9 'Waynour gared wisely.'

Priestes with processyons, to pray were full prest,¹
 With a mylion of messis, to make hir menyng; ;
 Dukes, Erles, Barouns, and bechoppes of the beste,² 704
 Thurghe alle Ynglande scho garte make menyng.³
 And thus this ferlyes by felle in a fforeste,⁴
 Vndir an holte so hare, at an hunttyng; ;
 Swylke hunttyng in holtis,⁵ culde noghte ben hyd :—
 Thus to the fforestes thay fure,⁶
 Stern knyghtes and sture :⁷ 710
 And in the tym of Arthure
 This awntyre by tyd.

*This ferly by felle, full sothely to say[n]c,
 In Yggillwode fforeste, at the Ternwathelayne.⁸*

Explicit.

¹ Part of this line and the next is wanting in MS. L.

² 'Buke lered men; bisshops the best.'

³ 'Thorgh al Bretayne besely the burde gared ryng.'

⁴ 'This ferly bifelle in Englonde forest.'

⁵ 'A holte so hore.'

⁶ 'Thay fore.'

⁷ 'And store.'

⁸ Tern Wathelayne, or Tearne Wadling, the name of a small lake near Hesketh in Cumberland. It is celebrated in several old ballads and romances. Yggilwoode, Englewood, or, as it is sometimes called, the English wood, was an extensive forest in Cumberland, sixteen miles in length, and reached from Penrith to Carlisle. It is intimately associated with the story of Adam Bel (Hazlitt's "Popular Poetry of England," 1864-6, ii. 131 et seq., and present work, infra).

The Pystyl of Swete Susan.

HUCHEON of the Awle Ryale, as we learn from Wyntoun's "Metrical Chronicle," was the author of this very ancient and curious relique of Scottish poetry on the story of Susanna and the Elders. His great work was the "Gest Historiale," in which, according to the same authority, Hucheon — "has tretim curiously

In Gest of Broyttys auld story," and the Prior of Lochleven defends him and "the Auctore," from whom his work was perhaps translated, against the exceptions that in his time had been made to some of the statements which it contained. Wyntoun, to whom we owe all the information we possess respecting Huchcon and his writings, says,

— Men of gud discretyowne
Suld excuse and love Huchowne
That cunnand wes in Literature.
He made the gret Gest of Arthure,
And the Awntyre of Gawane,
The Pystyl als of Swete Susan ;
He wes curyws in hys style,
Fayre of facund, and subtile,
And ay to plesans and delyte,
Made in metyre mete his dyte,
Lytil or nowcht nevyr the les
Waverand fra the suthfastnes.

B. V. xiv. 300-312.

From Huchcon's being thus called of "the Awle Ryale," or royal hall or palace, the learned editor of Wyntoun's Chronicle supposes he may have been the King's Poet. It seems, however, agreed among our poetical antiquaries that this Hucheon was one and the same person with the Sir Hugh of Eglynton, a Scottish poet of the fourteenth century, who is mentioned by Dunbar in his "Lament for the Death of the Makaris." "He flourished," says Mr. George Chalmers, in a letter to the Editor, "under David II. and died under Robert II. I think there cannot be any doubt whether Sir Hugh de Eglynton were not Hucheon of the Awle Ryale. He is supposed to have died about the year 1381. As he was a busy knight in his day, so are there many notices about him."

No other production by our author is known to be extant, unless, on the authority of Wyntoun, we should attribute to him one or other of the curious metrical romances of the adventures of Arthur and Gawane.

Of the "Pystill of Susan" there are various ancient manuscripts. It was, indeed, included by Ritson in his "Caledonian Muse," printed about the year 1803 and not published till 1821, and then in the incomplete state in which the original editor had left it at his death. The care and fidelity exhibited in what he has done is beyond all praise, and might have served as a guide to editors who have since been engaged in similar publications. We owe much to the zeal which Ritson showed towards the remains of our ancient poetry at a time when they were disregarded and overlooked by our countrymen.

The copy followed by Ritson is contained in the very large collection, or ingens volumen, as it is properly enough styled, in the Bodleian Library: it is called, from its donor, the Vernon Manuscript, and was probably compiled about the end of the fourteenth century. In a volume of old metrical romances in the Cotton Library, written about the middle of the fifteenth century, is another copy, wanting, however, the first eight stanzas; and a third copy forms part of a volume once in Mr. Heber's possession. This last, which had successively belonged to Sir Henry Spelman, Dr. Taylor, (the editor of Demosthenes,) and Richard Gough, Esq., is described by Dr. Whitaker, the learned editor of "Piers' Plouhman's Visions," as a manuscript, which, "from the handwriting, might probably be assigned to the reign of Richard the Second." He considers the poem to be nearly as ancient as "Piers' Plouhman;" and, from the alliteration being combined with rhyme, and a very complicated stanza, (he adds,) it is not to be wondered at that it has had no imitators.

The Distill of Susan.

I.

AHER was in Babiloine a bern, in that borw riche,
 That was a Jeugh jentil, and Joachim
 he hiht ;
 He was so lele in his lawe, there lived non him liche,
 Of all riches that reuke arayes he was riht :
 His innes, and his orchardes, weren withinne a dep dich, 5
 Halles and herbergages, hey uppon height ;
 To seche thoru that cité ther nas non sich,
 Of erbes, and of erberi, so avenauntliche idiht,
 That day.
 Withinne the sercle of sees, 10
 Of erberi and alees,
 Of alle maner of trees,
 Sothely to say.

II.

He had a wif hight Susan, was sotil and sage,
 Heo was Elches doughter, eldest and eyre, 15
 Lovelich and lillie-whit, on of that lynage,
 Of alle fason of foode frelich and feire :
 Thei lerned hire lettrure of that langage,
 Themaundement of Moises, thei marked to that deire,
 To the mount of Synai that went in message, 20
 That the Trinité bitok of tables a peire,
 To rede ;
 Thus thei lerne hire the lawe,
 Cleer clergye to knawe
 To God stod hire gret awe, 25
 That wlonkest in weede.

V.

Whon theos perlous prestes perceyved hire play,
 Tho thoughte the wretches to bewile that worly in wone,

Heore wittes wel waiwordes thei wrethen awai, 55
 And turned fro his teching, that teeld is in trone.

For siht of here soverayn, sothli to say,
 Heore hor hevedes fro hevene thei hid apou one,
 Thei caught for heor covetyse the cursyng of Kai,

For rightwys jugement recordet thei none, 60
 They two.

Every day bi day

In the pomeri thei play,

While thei mihte Susan assay,

To worchen hire wo. 65

VI.

In the seson of somer, with Sibell and Jone, Heo grethed hir til hir gardin, that growed so
 grene,

Ther lyndes and lorers wer lent upon lone,
 The savyne and sypres, selcouth to sene,
 The palme, and the popler, the pirie, the plone, 70
 The juniper jentel, jonyng bitwene,
 The rose ragged on rys, richest on rone,
 Ipeuwed with the thorn trinaunt to sene,

So tiht ;

Ther weore popejays prest, 75

Nihtyngales uppon nest,

Blithest briddes o the best,

In blossoms so briht.

VII.

The briddes in blossoms thei beeren wel loude
 On olyves, and amylliers, and al kynde of trees, 80
 The popejayes perken and pruynen for proude,
 On peren and pyn-appel they joyken in pees ;
 On croppes of canel keneliche thei croude,
 On grapes the goldfinch thei gladen and gleees ;
 Thus schene briddes in schawe schewen heore schroude, 85
 On figges and fygers thei fongen heore sees,
 In fay ;
 Ther weore growyng so grene
 The date, with the damesene,
 Turtils troned on trene, 90
 By sixti, I saygh.

VIII.

The fyge and the filbert were fodemed so fayre,
 The chirie and the chestein, that chosen is of hewe,
 Apples and almaundes that honest are of ayre,
 Grapes and garnettes gayliche thei grew, 95
 The costardes comeliche in cuylthes thei cayre,
 The britouns, the blaunderers, [the] braunches,
 the bewe,
 Fele floures and fruit, frelich of flayre,
 With wardons winlich and Walshe notes newe,
 They wald 100
 Over heor hedes gon hyng,
 The wince and the wederlyng,
 Spyces speden to spryng,
 In erbers enhaled.

IX.

The chyve, and the chollet, the chibolle, the cheve, 105
The chouwet, the cheverol, that schaggen on niht,
The parcel, the passenep, poretes to preve,
The pyon, the peere, wel proudliche ipiht ;
The lilye, the louache, launsyng with leve,
The sauge, the sorsecle, so semeliche to siht ; 110
Columbyne and charuwé clottes thei creve,
With ruwe and rubarbe, ragget ariht,
No lees ;
Daysye, and ditoyne,
Ysope, and averoyne, 115
Peletré, and plantoyne,
Proudest in prees.

X.

Als this schaply thing gede in hire gerde,
That was hir hosbondes and hire, that holden with hende :
“ Now folk be faren from us, thar us not be ferde 120
Aftur myn oynement, warliche ge wende.
Espieeth now specialy, the gates ben sperde
For we wol wassche as i-wis bi this welle strende.
For-thi the wyf werp of hir wedes unwerde,
Under a lorere ful low that ladi gan lende, 125
So sone :
By a wynliche well,
Susan caste of hir kelle,
Bote feole ferlys hir bifelle,
Bi midday or none. 130

XI.

Now wer this domes-men derf drawn in derne,
 Whiles thei seo that ladi was laft al hire one,
 For to heilse that hende thei highed ful ȝerne,
 With wordes thei worshipe that worliche in wone :
 Wolt thou, ladi, for love, on ure lay lerne, 135
 And under this lorere ben ur lemmone ?
 The ne tharf wonde for no wight ur willes to werne,
 For alle gomes that scholde greve of gardin ar gone
 In feere.
 ȝif thou this neodes deny, 140
 We schall telle trewely
 We toke the with avourti ;
 Under this lorere.

XII.

Then Susan was serwful, and seide in hire thought :
 I am with serwe biset on everiche syde, 145 ȝif I assent to this sin, that theis segges have sought,
 I be bretenet and brent in baret to byde :
 And, ȝif I nikke hom with nai, hit helpeth me nought :
 Such toret and teone taketh me this tyde.
 [W]ar I that worthlich[est] wrech, that all this world wrought, 150
 Beter is wemles [to] wende of this world wyde.
 With this
 Tho cast heo a careful cri,
 This loveliche ladi,
 Hir servauns hedde selli, 155
 No wonder, i-wis.

XIII.

Whon kene men of hir court comen till her cri,
 Heo hedde cast of hir calle ann hire kever-cheve
 In at a privé posterne thi passen in hi,
 And findes this prestes wel prest her poyntes preve 160
 Tho seid the loselle aloud to the ladi,
 Thou hast gon with a gome, thi God to greve,
 And ligge with thi lemon in avoutri.
 Bi the lord and the lawe that we onne leeve,
 They swere, 165
 Alle hire servauns, thei shont,
 And stelen away in a stont ;
 Of hire weore thei never wont
 Such wordes to here.

XIV.

Hir kinrede, hir cosyngs and al that hire knewe, 170
 Wrong handes, i-wis, and wepten wel sare,
 Sykeden for Susan, so semeliche of hewe,
 Al onwyse of that wyf, wondred thei were.
 Thei dede hire in a dungon, ther never day
 dewe,
 While domes-men were dempt this dede to clare ; 175
 Marred in manicles, that made wer newe ;
 Metelés, whiles the morwen to middai and mar,
 In drede.
 Ther com hir fader, so fre,
 With al his affinitè ; 180
 The prestes sauns pitè,
 And ful of falshede.

XV.

Tho seide the justises on bench, to Joachim the Jewe,

That was of Jacobes kynde, gentil of dedes,
Let senden after Susan, so semelych of hewe, 185

That thou hast wedded to wyf, wlonkest in wedes ;
Heo was in trouthe, as we trowe, tristi and trewe ;
Hir herte holliche on him that the hevene hedes.

Thus thei brought hir to the barr, hir bales to brewe,

Nouther dom ne deth that day heo ne dredes, 190
Als thare.

Hir hed was ȝolow as wyre

Of gold fyned with fyre ;

Hire scholdres schaply and schire ;

That bureliche was bare. 195

XVI.

Nou is Susan in sale, sengeliche arayed,
In a selken schert, with scholdres wel schene.

Tho ros up with rancour the reukes reneyed,
This comelich accused, with wordes wel kene ;
Homliche on her heved heor hondes thei leyed : 200

And heo wepte for wo, no wonder, i-wene.

We schul presenten this pleint, hou thou ever be paied,

And sei sadliche the soth, right as we have sene,
On sake.

Thus with cauteles waynt, 205

Preostes presented this playnt, ȝit schal trouthe hem ataynt.

I dar undertake.

XIX.

Now heo is dampned on deis, with deol thaigh hir deve, 235
 And hir domes-men unduwe do hir be withdrawn.
 Loveliche heo louted, and latched hir leve,
 At kynred and cosyn, that heo had ever i-knawen,
 Heo asked merci with mony, in this mischeve :
 I am sakeles of syn, heo seide in hir sawen, 240
 Grete God of his grace ȝor gultus forȝive,
 That doth me derfliche be ded and don out of dawen,

With dere.

Wolde God that I nicht
 Speke with Joachim a nicht, 245
 And sithen to deth me bediht ;
 I charge hit not a pere.

XX.

Heo fel doun flat in the flore, hir feer whom heo fand,
 Carped to him kyndeli, as heo ful wel couthe :
 I wis I wraththed the nevere, at my witand, 250
 Neither in word, ne in werk, in elde, ne in ȝouthe.
 Heo kevered upon hir kneos, and cussed his hand :
 For I am dampned, I ne dar disparage thi mouth.
 Was never more serwful segge, bi se, nor bi sande,
 He never a sorioure siht, bi north, ne bi south, 255
 Tho thare.

Thei toke the feteres of hire feete,
 And evere he cussed that swete :
 In other world schul we mete.—

Seide he no mare. 260

XXI.

Then Susan, the serwfol, seide uppon hight,
 Heef hir hondes on high, biheld heo to hevene :
 Thou maker of middelert, that most art of miht,
 Bothe the sonne and the see, thou sette uppon sevene ;

Alle my werkes thou wost, the wrong, and the riht, 265

Hit is nedful nou thy names to neven.

Seththe I am deolfolich dampned, and to deth diht,

Lord, herteliche tak hede, and herkne my stevene.

Se fre !

Seththe thou maight not be sene, 270

With no fleschliche eyene,

Thou wost wel that I am clene,

Have merci now on me !

XXII.

Now thei dresse hir to deth withouten eny drede,
 And lede forth that ladi, lovesum of lere ; 275

Grete God, of his grace, of gultes unguede,

Holp with the Holi Gost, and herde hir preyere.

He directed this dome, and this delful dede

To Danyel, the prophete, of dedes so dere.

Such giftes god him gaf in his gouthehede, 280 git failed hit a fourtenight, ful of the gere,

Nought sayne.

Tho criede that freoly fode,

Why spille ge innocent blode ?

And alle thei stodeyd and stode, 285

This ferlys to frayne.

XXIII.

What signefyes, gode sone, these sawes that thou seeth,

Thus these maisterful men mouthes can mele,
Thei be fendes all the frape, I sei hit in feith,
And in folk of Israel be foles wel sele. 290

Umbiloke ꝓou, lordes, such lawes ben leith,
Methinketh ꝓor dedes unduwe such domes to dele,
Aꝓein to the ꝓildhalle, ꝓe gomes ungreith,
I schal, be proces apert, disprove this apele,
For nede. 295

Lat twinne hem in two,
For now wakneth heor wo,
Thei schal graunte, as thei go,
Al heore falshede.

XXIV.

Thei disevered him sone, and sette hem sere, 300
And sodeynly askede, thei brought into the sale,
Bifore this ꝓonge prophete this preost go apere,
And he him apeched sone, with chekes wel pale :
Thou hast I bẽ presedent, the peple to steere,
Thou dotëst nou on thin olde tos, in the dis-male ; 305

Now schal thi conscience be knowen that ever was unclere,
Thou hast in Babiloygne on benche brewed much bale,

Wel bolde :

Now schal ꝓor synnes be seene,
Of fals domes bideene, 310
For theose in Babiloyne han bene
Jugget of olde.

XXV.

Thou seidest thow seighe Susanne sinned in thi siht,

Tel nou me trewly, under what tre?—

Mon, bi the muche God, that most is of miht, 315

Under a cyne, sothli, myselfen I hir se.—

Now thou lyst in thin hed, bi heven uppon hilt,

An angel with a naked swerd the neighes wel nei,

He hath brandist his brond, brennynde so briht,

To marke thi middel at a mase in more then in thre,

No lese : 321

Thou brak Godes comaundement,

To sle such an innocent,

With eny fols juggement,

Unduweliche on dese. 325

XXVI.

Now is this domes-mon withdrawen withouten eni drede,

And put into prison ageyn into place,

Thei broughten the tother forth whom the barn bede,

To-fore the folk and the faunt, freli of face :

Cum forth, thou corsed caytif, thou Canaan, he sede,

Bi cause of thi covetise, thou art in this case, 331

Thou hast disceyvet thi self, with thi oun dede,

Of thy wit for a wyf biwiled thou wase,

In wede.

Thou sey now, so mote thou the, 335

Under what kind of tre,

Semeli Susan thou se

Do that derne dede.

XXVII.

Thou gome of gret elde, thin hed is grei hored,
 Tel hit me treweli, are thou thi lif tyne, 310
 Tho that rothly cheryl ruydely rored,
 And seid bifore the prophet, thei pleied bi a prine.—
 Now thou liest loude, so helpe me ur lorde ;
 For fulthe of thi falshed thou schalt ha evel pine,
 Thou and thi cursed cumpere, ge mon not acorde ;
 ge schul bedrawn to the deth, this dai ar we dine, 346
 So rathe.

An angel is neih honde,
 Takes the domes of gor honde,
 With a ornneyng bronde, 350
 To byte you bathe.

XXVIII.

Then the folk of Israel felle upon knees,
 And lowed that loveli lord, that hir the lyf lent ;
 All the gomes, that hir God wolde gladen and glees,
 This prophete so pertli proves his entent, 355
 Thei trompe bifore this traitours, and traylen hem on trees,
 Thorw-out the cité, by comuyn assent ;
 He that leeveth on the lord, thar him not drede no lees,
 That thus his servant saved that schold haue be schent,

In sete. 330
 This ferly bifel
 In the days of Danyel,
 The Pistel witnesseth wel
 Of that Profete.

Explicit.

Orfeo and Heurodis ;

OR

King Orfeo.

“ Herken, lordyngys, that ben trewe,
And Y wol you telle of sir Orpewe.”

THE fairy tale of “Orfeo and Heurodis” is possessed of a very distinct, though not less interesting character, from the numerous remains of early Romantic fiction. In the concluding lines it professes to be a lay of Bretaine ; but whether a translation or not, there can be no doubt that it was formed on the classical story of Orpheus and Eurydice. This tale was extensively known at an early period, owing to the circulation of the Latin poets and the works of other ancient authors in which it has been so beautifully narrated. In proof of this, Mr. Turner, in his valuable and instructive history, has shown that during the eleventh century King Alfred, when translating the Metrum to the “Consolations of Philosophy,” in his Anglo-Saxon version of Boethius, where the incident is described in a general manner by that popular writer, has told “the story so completely in his own way, and with so many of his own little touches and additions, as to make his account an original tale.”¹ In the present instance the narrative (as observed by a distinguished writer of our times, who in a felicitous manner has employed it to illustrate a highly interesting essay on "The Fairies of Popular Superstition"¹) has been transformed into a beautiful romantic tale of faery, in which the Gothic mythology and the usages of chivalry are with singular skill engrafted on the fables of Greece.

¹ History of the Anglo-Saxons, vol. ii. p. 157, edit. 1820.

Among the "pleysand storeis" enumerated in "The Complaynt of Scotland," 1549, as being popular, is "Opheus, Kyng of Portingal;" but no romance of this particular title is known; therefore it is more than probable that it might be some corruption of the present story, as we know how little stress should be laid on the geographical correctness or consistency of the minstrel-writers. Thus, in the following tale, we have Orfeo represented as King of Winchester, the ancient name of which "the romancer, with unparalleled ingenuity, discovers to have been Traciens or Thrace;"² and in the burlesque interlude of "the laying of a gaist," printed in this collection, "the Ghaist" is married to "the Spenzie flic"—

And crownd him kyng of Kandelie :
And thay gat them thame betwene
Orpheus Kyng, and Elpha quene.

The story of Orpheus and Eurydice in the latter part of the fifteenth century was moralised by Robert Henryson, the Scottish poet. It was first printed at Edinburgh in the year 1508, with the title, "Heir begynnis the traitie of Orpheus kyng, and how he ȝeid to hewyn t̄ to hel to seik his quene." After detailing, with minute fidelity to his classical authorities, the genealogy and history of the King of Thrace, Henryson introduces, in a different kind of measure, the "mone lamentable" of Orpheus, beginning—

O dulfull harpe ! with mony dolly string
Turne all thi mirth and musik in murnyng
And cess of all the subtell sangis sweit.

After this pathetic lamentation, the poet, having related his visit to the celestial spheres, conducts him to the infernal regions in search of Eurydice. From this part of Henryson's performance a few stanzas, by way of specimen, may be given.

¹ Minstrelsy of the Scottish Border, vol. ii. p. 174, edit. 1803.

² Minstrelsy of the Scottish Border, vol. ii. p. 203.

He passit furth the space of xx. dayis,
 Fer and full ferther than I can tell,
 And ay he fand stretis and redy wayis,
 Tyll at the last, vnto the yett of hell
 He com ; and thare he fand a portar fell
 With three hedis, was callit Cerberus ;
 A hund of hell, a monster meruailus !

He charms Cerberus, and then the "three sisters," Alecto, Megera, and Thesiphoné, whose employment was turning round the wheel on which Ixion was spread. "Syne," the poet says—

Syne com he till a wonder grisely flud,
 Droubly and depe, that rathly doun can ryn,
 Quhare Tantalus nakit full thristy stude,
 And yit the water yede abone his chyn ;
 Though he gapit thare wald na drop cum in,
 Quhen he dulkit the water wald descend ;
 Thus gat he noucht his thrist to slake or mend.

Before his face ane apill hang also
 Fast at his mouth apon a toltter threde,
 Quhen he gapit it rokkit to and fro
 And fled, as it refusit him to fede :
 Than Orpheus had reuth of his grete nede
 Tuke out his harp, and fast on it can clink,
 The water stude, and Tantalus gat drink.

The next object which presents itself in his progress is Theseus preyed on by a "grisely gripe" or vulture, which also excites the compassion of Orpheus. On entering "hydouse hellis house," he exclaims—

O dolly place and groundles depe dungeoun !
 Furnes of fyre, with stynk intollerable,
 Pit of despair, wythout remissioun,
 Thy mete venym, thy drynk is poysonable,
 Thy grete panis to compt vnnowmerabil ;
 Quhat creature cummys to duel in the
 Is ay deyand, and newir more may dee !

We must pass over the different personages whom he here beholds, in order to make room for the description of his meeting with Eurydice.

Syn nethir mare he went quhare Pluto was
 And Proserpine, and thider ward he drewe,
 Ay playand on his harp as he coud pas,
 Till at the last Eurydice he knewe ;
 Lene and dedelike pitouse and pale of hewe,
 Rycht warsch and wan, and walowit as a wede,
 Hir lily lyre was lyke vnto the lede.
 Quod he, my lady lele, and my delyte,
 Full wa is me, to se yow changit thus !
 Quhare is thy rude as rose with chekis quhite ?
 Thy cristall eyne with blenkis amoureuse ?
 Thi lippis rede to kis deliciouse ?—
 Quod scho, as now I dar noucht tell, perfay,
 Bot ye sall wit the cause ane other day.

The present tale has been justly admired no less for the harmony of its versification than for the beautiful description which it contains of fairyland. Heurodis is carried away by the king of the fairies, whose attendants are as numerous as his riches and magnificence are dazzling ; and is recovered by Orfeo in the guise of a minstrel. The following lines, which occur in one of the ancient copies of this poem, (but apparently omitted by the transcriber of the manuscript that is followed,) may be quoted as illustrative of Orfeo's skill and love of minstrelsy :—

“ Orpheo most of ony thing,
 Lovede the gle of harpyng ;
 Syker was every gode harpoure
 Of hym to have moche honour.
 Hymself loved for to harpe,
 And layde thereon his wittes scharpe ;
 He lerned so, ther non was
 A better harper in no plas.
 In the world was never man born,
 That onus Orfeo sat biforn,
 And he myght of his harpyng her,
 He shulde thinke that he wer
 In one of the joys of paradys, Suche joy and melody in his harpyng is.”

The reader will perceive that in this story the catastrophe is different; but if less pathetic, it certainly is more agreeable than that of the classical fiction.

At some later period this romantic legend appears to have been considerably altered and abridged. In such a state it is preserved in a manuscript in the Harleian Collection,¹ from which it was published by Ritson.² The present copy is taken from the more ancient volume in the Advocates' Library, called, from its donor, Sir Alexander Boswell of Auchinleck, the Auchinleck Manuscript. The period of its composition may be referred to the beginning of the fourteenth century, as the volume which contains it was evidently written during the minority of Edward III. From this early and precious record of ancient poetry the text is given literally, except that a few useless contractions are discarded, which might only have served to perplex the reader. As Ritson's Collection, which contains the story in its more recent and somewhat compendious state, is by no means of rare occurrence, it was thought unnecessary to point out any of the variations. The prologue that there accompanies it is not found in the Auchinleck MS., yet, as the leaf immediately before the first line, has been torn out for the sake of the illumination, it is possible that it may not have begun so abruptly, even although the commencement of another poem in the volume is in substance the same with that of the "Sir Orfeo" in the Harleian MS., which in all consists of 510 lines.³ The opening lines of the ensuing piece have been supplied from the Ashmole MS., which is fuller than the Auchinleck copy. A few readings necessary to the sense have been adopted from the same source. The Ashmole text is reprinted entire in Hazlitt's Fairy Tales, 1875.

"Orfeo was a king,"

¹ MSS. Harl., No. 3810.

² Ancient English Metrical Romances, vol. ii. pp. 248-269. 1802, 8vo.

³ Lai le Fraine, printed in Weber's Collection.

Orfeo and Heurodis.

EVERY tyme is in Aperelle
 That mekyll schewys of maups wylle
 In feldys & medews flow[r]ys spryng
 In grovys & wodes foules syng
 Than wex zong men jolyffe 5
 And þan prevyth man & wyffe

 The brytans, as þe boke seys,
 Off diu^rse thinge þⁱ made þ^r leys
 Som þi made of harpyngē
 And som of oþ^r diu^rse thinge 10
 Som of werre & som of wo
 Som of myrthe & joy also
 Som of trechery & som off gyle
 Som of happys þ^t felle som whyle
 And som be of rybawdry 15
 And many þ^r ben of fary
 Off all þe vent^urys men here ore se
 Most off luffe for soth þi be
 That in þe leys ben j-wrought
 Fyrst fond & forth brougt 20
 Off avento^rs þ^t fell som deys
 The bretonys þ^rof made þ^r leys
 Off kinge þ^t be fore vs were
 When þⁱ mygt ony woundres here
 They lete them wryte as it w^r do, 25
 And þ^r among is sir Orfew.
 He was for soth a nobulle kyng
 That most luffyd gle & herpyng ;
 Wele sekyr was eu^ry gode herper
 To haue off mekyll hono^r 30

Hym selue he lernyd for to herpe
 And leyd þ^r ō hys wytte so scherpe
 He lernyd so wele w^t outen les
 So gode herper neu^r nō was
 In all þ^s werld wās no man bore 35
 That had kyng Orfeo ben be fore
 And he mygt hys herpe here
 Bot he wold wene þ^t it were
 A blyssed full note of peradē
 Suche melody þ^r in is. 40

The kyng jorneyd in Tracyence
 That is a cyte off grete defence
 And w^t hym hys quen off price
 That was callyd dame Heroudys :
 A feyrer lady than sche was one 45
 Was neu^r made off flesch ne bone
 Sche was full off lufe ƒ godnes
 Ne may no man telle hyr feyrnes.

¶ Bifel so in the comésing of May,
 When miri and hot is the day, 50
 And oway beth winter schours,
 And eueri feld is ful of flours,
 And blosme breme on eueri bough,
 Ouer al wexeth miri anough,
 This ich quen dame Heurodis 55
 Tok with hyr maidens of priis,
 And went in an vndren tide
 To play bi an orchard side
 To se the floures sprede and spring,
 And to here the foules sing : 60
 Thai sett hem down al thre,
 Vnder a fair ympe tre,
 And wel sone this fair quene,
 Fel on slepe opon the grene :

The maidens durst hir nought awake, 65
 Bot lete hir ligge and rest take,
 So sche slepe til after none,
 That vnder tide was al y done ;
 Ac as sone as sche gan awake,
 Sche crid and lothli bere gan make ; 70
 Sche froted hir honden and hir fet,
 And crached her visage, it bled wete,
 Hir riche robe hye al to rett,
 And was remeyd out of hir witt :
 The tvo maidens hir biside, 75
 No durst with hir no leng abide,
 But [t]ourn to the palays ful right
 And told both squier and knight,
 That her quen aweðe wold,
 And bad hem go and hir be-hold. 80
 Knightes rvn, and leuedis al so,
 Damisels sexti and mo,
 In the orchard to the quen thei come,
 And her vp in ther armes nome,
 And brought hir to bed atte last, 85
 And held hir there fine fast ;
 Ac euer sche be-gan to cri
 And wold vp and owy.
 When Orfeo herd that tiding,
 Neuer him nas wers for ño thing ; 90
 He come with knightes tene,
 To chaumber right bifor the quene.
 And biheld and seyde with grete pite :
 O life liif, what ayles the ?
 That euer gete hast ben so stille, 95
 And now gredest wonder schille ;
 Thi bodi, that was so white y core,
 With thine nailes is al to tore,
 Allas ! thi rod that was so red,
 Is al wan as thou were ded ; 100

And also thine fingres smale,
 Beth al blodi and al pale ;
 Allas ! thi louesum eyghen to Loketh so man doth on his fo ;
 A dame, Ich biseche merci, 195
 Lete ben al this reweful cri,
 And tel me, lady, for thy prow,
 What thing may the help now ?
 Tho lay sche stille attelast,
 And gan to wepe swithe fast, 110
 And seyde thus the king to,
 Allas ! mi lord sir Orfeo,
 Seththen we first to gider were,
 Ones wroth neuer we nere,
 Bot euer Ich haue y-loued the 115
 As mi liif, and so thou me,
 Ac now we mot delen a-tuo :
 Do thi best, for Y mot go.
 Allas ! quath he, forlorn Ich am,
 Whider wiltow go and to wham ? 120
 Whider thou gost ichil with the,
 And whider Y go thou schalt with me.
 Nay, nay, sir, that nought nis,
 Ichil the telle al how it is ;
 As Ich lay this vnder tide, 125
 And slepe vnder our orchard side,
 Ther come to me tuo fair knightes
 Wele y-armed al to rightes,
 And bad me comen an heighing,
 And speke with her lord the king ; 130
 And Ich answerd at wordes bold,
 Y durst nought, no Y nold :
 Thai priked oghain as thai might driue,
 Tho com her king also bliue,
 With an hundred knightes and mo, 135
 And damissels an hundred al so ;

Al on snowe white stedes,
 As white as milke were her wedes,
 Y no seighe neuer ȝete bifore
 So fair creatours y core ! 140
 The king hadde a croun on hed,
 It nas of siluer, no of gold red,
 Ac it was of a precious ston ;
 As bright as the sonne it schon :
 And as son as he to me cam, 145
 Wold Ich, nold Ich, he me nam,
 And made me with him ride,
 Opon a palfray bi his side,
 And brought me to his pallays,
 Wele atird in ich ways ; 150
 And schewed me castels and tours,
 Riuers, forestes, frith with flours ;
 And his riche stedes ichon,
 And seththen me brought oghain hom
 In to our owen orchard, 155
 And said to me after ward :
 Loke, dame, to morwe thatow be Right here vnder this ympe tre ;
 And than thou schalt with ous go
 And liue with ous euer mo, 160
 And ȝif thou makest ous y-let,
 Where thou be, thou worst y-fet
 And to-tore thine limes al,
 That nothing help the no schal,
 And thoȝ thou best so to-torn, 165
 ȝete thou worst with ous y-born.

¶ When king Orfeo herd this cas,
 O we ! quath he, allas ! allas !
 Leuer me were to lete mi liif,
 Than thus to lese the quen mi wiif, 170
 He asked conseyl at ich man,
 Ac no man him help no can,

A morwe the vnder tide is come,
 And Orfeo hath his armes y-nome,
 And wele ten hundred knightes with him, 175
 Ich y-armed stout and grim ;
 And with the quen wente he
 Right vnto that ympe tre :
 Thai made scheltrom in ich a side,
 And sayd thai wold there abide, 180
 And dye ther euerichon,
 Er the quen schuld fram hem gon :
 Ac geete amiddes hem full right,
 The quen was oway y-tvight,
 With fairi forth y-nome, 185
 Men wist neuer wher sche was bicomme,
 Tho was ther criing, wepe and wo,
 The king in to his chamber is go,
 And oft swoned opon the ston,
 And made swiche diol and swiche mon, 190
 That neighe his liif was y-spent ;
 Ther was non amendement.
 He cleped to gider his barouns,
 Erls, lordes of renouns,
 And when thai al y-comen were : 195
 Lordinges, he said, bifor gou here
 Ich ordaine min heigh steward
 To wite mi kingdom after ward,
 In mi stede ben he schal,
 To kepe mi londes ouer al, 200
 For now Ichaue mi quen y-lore,
 The fairest leuedi that euer was bore ;
 Neuer eft y nil no woman se,
 Into wildernes Ichil te,
 And liue ther euer more, 205
 With wilde bestes in holtes hore ;
 And when ge vnder stond that Y be spent,
 Make gou then a parlement,

And chese gou a newe king :
 Now doth gour best with al mi thing. 210
 ¶ Tho was ther wepeing in the halle ;
 And grete cri among hem alle ;
 Vnnethe might old or gong
 For wepeing speke a word with tong.
 Thai kneled adoun al y-fere, 215
 And praid him gif his wille were,
 That he no schuld nought fram hem go.
 Do way ! quath he, it schal be so.
 All his kingdom he forsoke
 But a sclauin on him he toke ; 220
 He no hadde kirtel, no hode,
 Schert, no nother gode,
 Bot his harp he toke algate,
 And yede him barfot out atte gate :
 No man most with him go. 225
 O way ! what wepe ther was, and wo,
 When he that hadde ben king with croun,
 Went so pouerlich out of toun,
 Thurch wode and ouer heth,
 Into the wildernes he geth, 230
 Nothing he fint that him is ays,
 Bot euer he lieuth in gret malais ;
 He that hadde y werd the fowe and griis,
 And on bed the purper biis,
 Now on hard hethe he lith, 235
 With leues and gresse he him writh :
 He that hadde castels and tours,
 Riuer, forest, frith with flours ;
 Now, thei it commenci to sneue and frese,
 This king mot make his bed in mese : 240
 He that had y-had knightes of priis
 Bifor him kneland, and leuedis,
 Now seth he no thing that him liketh,
 Bot wild wormes by him striketh :

He that had y-had plenté 245
 Of mete and drink of ich deynté,
 Now may he al day digge and wrote,
 Er he sinde his fille of rote ;
 In somer he liueth bi wild frut,
 And berren, bot gode lite ; 250
 In winter may he no thing finde,
 Bot rote, grases, and the rinde ;
 Al his bodi was oway duine
 For missays, and al to chine,
 Lord ! who may telle the sore 255
 This king sufferd ten gere and more :
 His here of his berd, black and rowe,
 To his girdel stede was growe ;
 His harp, where on was al his gle,
 He hidde in an holwe tre ; 260
 And, when the weder was clere and bright,
 He toke his harp to him wel right,
 And harped at his owen wille,
 Into alle the wode the soun gan schille,
 That alle the wilde bestes that ther beth, 265
 For ioie abouten him thai teth ;
 And alle the foules that ther were,
 Come and sete on ich a brere ;
 To here his harping a fine,
 So miche melody was ther in. 270
 And when he his harping lete wold,
 No best bi him abide nold.

¶ He might se besides
 Oft in hot vnder tides,
 The king o' fairy, with his rout, 275
 Com to hunt him al about :
 With dynne, cri and bloweing,
 And houndes also with him berking ;
 Ac no best thai no nome,
 No neuer he nist whider thai bi-come. 280

And other while he might se
 A gret oste bi him te,
 Wele atourned ten hundred knightes,
 Ich y-armed at all rygt ;
 Of cuntenaunce stout and fers, 285
 With mani desplaid baners ;
 And ich his swerd y drawe hold :
 Ac neuer he nist whider thai wold.
 And other while he seighe other thing ;
 Knightes and leuedis com daunceing, 290
 In queynt atire gisely,
 Queyitt pas, and softly :
 Tabours and trimpes gede hem bi,
 And al maner menstraci.
 ¶ And on a day he seighe him biside 295
 Sexti leudis on hors ride,
 Gentil and iolif, as brid on ris ;
 Nought o man amonges hem ther nis ;
 And ich a faucoun on hond bere,
 And riden on haukin bi o riuere, 300
 Of game thai founde wel gode haunt,
 Maulardes, hayroun, and cormeraunt ;
 The foules of the water ariseth,
 The faucouns hem wele deuiseth,
 Ich faucoun his pray slough : 305
 That seighe Orfeo, and lough.
 Par fay, quath he, ther is fair game !
 Thider Ichil, bi Godes name,
 Ich was y won swiche werk to se.
 He aros, and thider gan te ; 310
 To a leuedi he was y-come,
 Biheld, and hath wele vnder nome,
 And seth, bi al thing, that it is His owen quen dam Heurodis :
 gern he biheld hir, and sche him eke, 315
 Ac noither to other a word no speke :

For messais that sche on him seighe,
 That had ben so riche and so heighe,
 The teres fel out of her eighe ;
 The other leuedis this y-seighe, 320
 And maked hir oway to ride,
 Sche most with him no lenger abide,
 Allas ! quath he, now me is wo !
 Whi nil deth now me slo,
 Allas ! wroche, that Y no might 325
 Dye now after this sight !
 Allas ! to long last mi liif,
 When Y no dar nought with mi wiif,
 No hye to me o word speke,
 Allas ! whi nil min hert breke !' 330
 Parfay, quath he, tide what bitide,
 Whider so this leuedi ride,
 The selue way Ichil streche,
 Of liif no deth me no reche.
 His sclauain he dede on, all so spac, 335
 And henge his harp upon his bac ;
 And had wel gode wil to gon,
 He no spard noither stub no ston :
 In at a roche the leuedis rideth,
 And he after, and nought abideth ; 340
 When he was in the roche y-go,
 Wele thre mile other mo,
 He com in to a fair cuntray,
 As bright als sonne on somers day ;
 Smothe, and plain, and al grene, 345
 Hille no dale nas ther non y sene ;
 Amidde the lond a castel he sighe,
 Riche and real, and wonder heighe ;
 Al the vtmost wal
 Was clere and schine as cristal ; 350
 An hundred tours ther were about,
 Degiselich and bataild stout ;

The butras com out of the diche,
 Of rede gold y-arched riche ;
 The bonsour was amelyd al, 355
 Of ich maner diuers amell ;
 With in ther wer wide wones,
 Al of precious stones,
 The werst piler on to biholde
 Was al of burnist gold ; 360
 Al that lond was euer light,
 For when it schuld be therk and night,
 The riche stones light gonne,
 As bright as doth at none the sonne,
 No man may telle, no thenche in thought, 365
 The riche werk that ther was wrought,
 Bi al thing, him think that it is
 The proude court of paradis.
 In this castel the leuedis alight,
 He wold in after, gif he might. 370
 ¶ Orfeo knokketh atte gate,
 The porter was redi ther ate,
 And asked, what he wold haue y do?
 Parfay, quath he, Icham a minstrel, lo,
 To solas thi lord with my gle, 375
 gif his swete wille be.
 The porter vndede the gate anon,
 And lete him in to the castel gon.
 ¶ Than he gan bihold about al,
 And seighe full ligreand with in the wal, 380
 Of folk that were thider y-brought,
 And thought dede and nare nought :
 Sum stode with ouden hade ;
 And sum armys nade ;
 And sum thurch the bodi hadde wounde ; 385
 And sum lay wode y-bounde ;
 And sum armed on hors sate ;
 And some astrangled as they ete ;

And sum were in water adreynt ;
 And sum with fire al for-schreynt ; 390
 Wiues ther lay on child bedde ;
 Sum ded, and sum awedde ;
 And wonder fele ther lay besides,
 Right as thai slepe her vnder tides ;
 Eche was thus in this warld y-nome, 395
 With fairi thider y-come ;
 Ther he seighe his owen wiif,
 Dame Heurodis his liif liif
 Slepe vnder an ymde tre ;
 Bi her clothes he knew that it was sche. 400
 ¶ And when he hadde bihold this meruails alle,
 He went in to the kinges halle ;
 Then seighe he ther a semly sight,
 A tabernacle blisseful and bright ;
 There in her maister king sete, 405
 And her quen fair and swete ;
 Her crounes, her clothes, schine so bright,
 That vnnethe bihold he hem might :
 When he hadde biholden al that thing,
 He kneled adoun bifore the king ; 410
 O Lord, he seyde, gif it thi wille were,
 Mi menstraci thou schust y here.
 The king answerd what man artow,
 That art hider y-comen now ?
 Ich no non that is with me 415
 No sent neuer after the,
 Seththen that ich here regne i-gan,
 Y no fond neuer so fole hardi man
 That hider to ous durst wende,
 Bot that Ichim walde offende. 420
 Lord, quath he, trowe ful wel,
 Y nam bot a pouer menstrel,

And, sir, it is the maner of ous,
 To seche mani a lordes hous,
 Thei we nought welom no be, 425
 zete we mot proferi-forth our glé.

¶ Bifor the king he sat adoun
 And tok his harpe so miri of soun,
 And trempreth his harp as he wele can,
 And blisseful notes he ther gan, 430
 That al that in the palays were,
 Com to him for to here,

And liggeth adoun to his fete,
 Hem thenketh his melody so swete.
 The king herkneth, and sitt ful stille, 435
 To here his gle he hath gode wille ;

Gode bourde he hadde of his gle,
 The riche quen al so hadde sche ;¹
 When he hadde stint his harping,
 Then seyde to him the king, 440

Menstrel, me liketh wele thi gle,
 Now aske of me what it be,
 Largelich Ichil the pay,
 Now spake, and tow might asay. 445

Sir, he seyde, Ich beseche the,
 Thatow woldest giue me,
 That ich leuedi bright on ble,
 That slepeth under the ympe tre.

Nay, quath the king, that nought nere,
 A fori couple of zou it were, 450

For thou art lene, rowe, and blac,
 And sche is louesome with outen lac ;
 A lothlich thing it were forthi,
 To se hir in thi compayni.

¶ O sir, he seyde, gentil king, 455 zete were it a wele fouler thing

¹ 'He' p. 'she' MS.

To here a lesing of thy mouthe,
 So, sir, as ge seyde nouthe,
 What Ich wold aske haue Y schold ;
 And nedes thou most thi word hold. 460
 The king seyde, seththen it is so,
 Take hir bi the hand, and go ;
 Of hir Ichil thatow be blithe.
 He kneled adoun, and thonked him swithe.
 His wiif he tok bi the hond, 465
 And yede him swithe out of that lond ;
 And went him out of that thede,
 Right as he come the way he gede.
 So long he hath the way y-nome,
 To Winchester he is y-come, 470
 That was his owen cite,
 Ac no man knewe that it was he,
 No forther than the tounes ende,
 For knoweleche no durst wende,
 Bot with a begger y bilt ful narwe, 475
 Ther he tok his herbarwe,
 To him, and to his owen wiif,
 As a minstrel of pouer liif ;
 And asked tidinges of that lond,
 And who the kingdom held in hond. 480
 The pouer begger, in his cote,
 Told him euerich a grot,
 Hou her quen was stole owy,
 Ten ger gon with fairy,
 And how her king en exile gede, 485
 Bot no man niste in wiche thede,
 And how the steward the lond gan hold,
 And other mani thinges him told.
 ¶ A morwe ogain none tide
 He maked his wiif ther abide, 490
 The beggers clothes he borwed anon,
 And heng his harp his rigge opon,

And went him in to that cite,
 That men might him bihold and se.
 Erls, and barouns bold, 495
 Buriays and leuedis him gun bihold :
 Lo ! thai feyd, swiche a man,
 Hou long the here hougeth him opan !
 Lo ! hou his berd hongeth to his kne,
 He is y-clongen al so a tre : 500
 And as he gede in the strete,
 With his steward he gan mete,
 And sonde he sett on him a crie,
 Sir steward, he seyde, merci,
 Icham an harpoure of hethenisse, 505
 Help me now in this distresse !
 The steward seyde, com with me, come,
 Of that Ichaue, thou schalt haue some ;
 Euerich gode harpoure is welom me to,
 For mi lordes loue sir Orfeo. 510

¶ In the castel the steward sat atte mete,
 And mani lording was bi him sete ;
 There were trompours and tabourers,
 Harpours fele, and crouders,
 Miche melody thai maked alle, 515
 And Orfeo sat stille in the halle,
 And herkneth when thai ben al stille,
 He toke his harp and tempred schille,
 The blifulest notes he herped there,
 That euer ani man y-herd with ere : 520
 Ich man likid wele his gle ;
 The steward biheld and gan y-se,
 And knewe the harp als-bliue ;
 Menstrel, he seyde, so mot thou thriue,
 Where hadestow this harp, and hou ? 525
 Y pray that thou me telle now.

¶ Lord, quath he, in vncouthe thede
 Thurch a wildernes as Y gede ;

Ther Y founde in a dale
 With lyouns a man to-torn smale, 530
 And wolues him frete with teth so scharp ;
 Bi him Y found this ich harp,
 Wele ten gere it is y-go.

O ! quath the steward, now me is wo !
 That was mi lord sir Orfeo ! 535
 Allas, wreche, what schall Y do,
 That haue swiche a lord y-lore,
 Owa, that Ich was y bore,
 That him was so hard grace y garked,
 And so vile deth y-marked ! 540
 Adoun he fel aswon to grounde,
 His barouns him tok vp in that stounde,
 And telleth him hou it geth,
 It nis no bot of mannes deth.

¶ King Orfeo knewe wel bi than, 545
 His steward was a trewe man,
 And loued him as he aught to do,
 And stont vp, and seyt thus lo :
 Steward, herkne now this thing,
 gif Ich were Orfeo the king, 550
 And hadde y-suffred ful gore
 In wildernisse miche sore ;
 And hadde y-won m. quen owy
 Out of the lond of fairy ;
 And hadde y-brought the leuedi hende 555
 Right here to the tounes ende,
 And with a begger her in y-nome,
 And were mi self hider y-come,
 Pouerlich to the thus stille,
 For to asay thi gode wille ; 560
 And Ich founde the thus trewe,
 Thou no schust it neuer rewe,
 Sikerlich for loue, or ay,
 Thou schust be king after mi day,

And gif thou of mi deth hadest ben blithe,
 Thou schust haue voided al so swithe. 566
 ¶ Tho al tho that ther in sete,
 That it was king Orfeo vnder gete,
 And the steward him wele knewe,
 Ouer that bord anone he threwe, 570
 And fel adoun to his fet ;
 So dede euerich lord that ther sete,
 And al thai sayd at o criing :
 Ge beth our lord, sir, and our king.
 Glad thai were of his liue, 575
 To chaumber thai ladde him als biliue,
 And bathed him and schaued his berd,
 And tired him as a king apert ;
 And seththen with gret processiou
 Thai brought the quen in to the toun 580
 With al maner menstraci ;
 Lord, ther was grete melody !
 For ioie thai wepe with her eige ;
 That hem so sounde y-comen seighe.
 Now king Orfeo newe-coround is 585
 And his quen dame Heurodis,
 And liued long afterward ;
 And seththen was king the steward.
 Harpours in Bretaine after than Herd hou this meruaile bigan, 590
 And made of her a lay of gode likeing,
 And nempned it after the king :
 That lay Orfeo is y-hote,
 Gode is the lay, swete is the note.
 Thus com sir Orfeo out of his care ; 595
 God graunt ous alle wele to fare ! Amen.

Explicit.

Thomas of Ersyldoune and the Quene of Elf-land.

THERE are, perhaps, few poems now extant that may so well as the following beautiful and interesting tale of fairyland exemplify the practice of those whose employment it was to chant or rehearse the effusions of the minstrels. This legend of Thomas of Ersyldoune in its present state evidently owes much to that facility and readiness of composition, which at times might enable them to enlarge and amplify the productions of others, in order to suit existing circumstances, and serve for the amusement of their auditors. The exordium is professedly the work of an English reciter, anxious to draw the attention of the assembled company to the "mervelles" and predictions of which he was about to tell. Nor is it less evident, but that the prophetic parts, however obscure their object may now be, or uncertain from what materials they were constructed, were either added at a subsequent period, or so altered as to be instrumental to some political purpose. Of the poems or prophecies attributed to Thomas the Rhymer, we unfortunately have none but what are preserved in English manuscripts, in which they have lost much of their individuality, the orthography being uniformly accommodated to that of the transcriber.

This poem is preserved in three ancient manuscripts, each of them in a state more or less mutilated, and varying in no inconsiderable degree from the other. A portion of it was first printed in the "Border Minstrelsy" from the fragment in the British Museum among the Cotton MSS. ;¹ and the one which Mr. Jamieson adopted in his collection of

¹ Cotton MSS. Vitellius, E. x.

"Popular Ballads and Songs" was carefully deciphered from a volume of no ordinary curiosity in the University Library, Cambridge,¹ written in a very illegible hand, about the middle of the fifteenth century. It is now printed from the third and earliest copy preserved in the Lincoln MS., the text of which is in every respect preferable to that of either of the other manuscripts. It had been supposed that another copy of this poem might be found in Peterborough; but the editor may state that, after a careful and satisfactory search, it appears that if ever such a manuscript was there deposited, it must have suffered the fate of the numerous collection, of which a list, drawn up at a remote period, is found in Gunton's history of that splendid cathedral.

Owing to the loose and careless manner in which the Lincoln MS. has at some former time been kept, this poem has suffered much, in common with most of the others which the volume contains, many of the leaves having been either mutilated or entirely lost. An endeavour has been made to fill up the defective parts from the Cambridge copy, though in some instances, as will be seen, without success.

After the copious illustrations of this poem by its former editors, in works which either are or ought to be in the hands of every possessor of this collection, little farther can be required. The reader will perceive the great beauty of the descriptive parts, and the fine vein of imagination that runs through nearly the whole of the first Fytt. "In the introduction to the prophecies," as Mr. Jamieson has well observed, "there is so much more fancy and elegance than in the prophecies themselves, that they can hardly be supposed to be the composition of the same person. Indeed, the internal evidence to the contrary almost amounts to a proof that they are not, and that the romance itself was of Scottish origin, although no indubitably Scottish copy is known to be in existence. It is remarkable," Mr. J. continues, "that in all the three copies the poet begins the story in the first person, and seems disposed to tell the incidents as if they had really happened to himself.

¹ Bishop More's MSS. Ff., v. 48. Printed in Hazlitt's Fairy Tales, Legends, and Romances, 1875, p. 100 et seqq., from a collation of this and other MSS.

St. 1. "As I me went this Andyr's day,
Fast on my way making my mone," &c.

St. 3. "Alle in a longyng as I lay,
Undreneth a semely tre,
Saw I wher a lady gay,
Came ridand ouer a longe lee," &c.

"And although he afterwards, awkwardly and unnaturally enough, speaks of Thomas as a third person, yet even then he seems to insinuate that the story which he is garbling was told by another before him :

St. 14. "And certainly, as the story sayse,
He hir mette at Eldyn tre."

"If he assumes the mask with a bad grace here, he shows still less address when he drops it again at stanza 52 of the First Fit :

"Ther was revell, game, and play,
More than I you say, perdye,
Till hit fell upon a day,
My lufly lady said to me:
Busk the, Thomas, for thu must gon ;
For here no longer mayst thu be,
Hye the fast with mode and mone ;
I shall the bryng to the Eldyn tre."

"Would it not be pardonable, from such instances as these, to suppose it at least probable that Thomas Rymour was really the original author of this romance ; and that, in order to give a sanction to his predictions, which seem all to have been calculated, in one way or other, for the service of his country, he pretended to an intercourse with the Queen of Elf-land, as Numa Pompilius did with the nymph Egeria? Such an intercourse, in the days of True Thomas, was accounted neither unnatural nor uncommon." ¹

The Huntly Bank on which Thomas is said to have met

¹ It will be remarked that although Thomas is taken to Fairyland by the Queen, and cautioned as to keeping counsel as to their amour if the King of Faëry presents himself, no description occurs of the latter personage, and a very meagre one of the place. The Queen and Thomas are the only real dramatis personæ.

the Queen of Faëry is situated on one of the Eldoun Hills, not far distant from the Eldoun Tree. Such a distinction, however, is claimed for another Huntly Bank, which, with a cleugh, that still retains the name of "The Rhymer's Glen," became the property of Sir Walter Scott, by whom, in the publication of the ancient metrical romance of "Sir Tristrem," formerly attributed to our author, it is almost unnecessary to observe, a degree of interest has been attached to the character of Thomas which even, as being the earliest of our poetical writers, he might not otherwise have enjoyed.

With respect to the prophetic character of Thomas, we have sufficient evidence in the testimony of such early writers as Barber and Wyntown. The latter, in describing the battle of Kylblene, in the year 1335, says :

"Of this Fycht qwhilum spak Thomas
Of ERSYLDOWNE, that sayd in derne,
Thare suld mete stalwartly stark and sterne :
He sayd it in his Prophecy ;
Bot, how he wyst it, wes Ferly."

But whether or not this be one of the predictions contained in the following poem is uncertain—the prophetic parts of which might afford ample scope for illustration, were this the object of the editor ; though, indeed, it would be no easy matter to reconcile them with any degree of satisfaction to the various national events that seem to have been fore-told.

The reader will no doubt be glad to receive the following illustrations of the prophetic parts of this poem, coming as they do from one who is so well qualified to elucidate both the historical and literary remains of our country. Sir Walter Scott (in a letter to the editor) says, "I am much delighted, and considerably puzzled, with 'Thomas the Rhymer.' It seems to me made up of different patches, which have been added from time to time in the true spirit of English prophecy,—for you may remember Comines says, 'Le Chancelier d'Angleterre, commença par une prophétie dont les Anglois ne sont jamais despourveus.' Pinky Cleugh is in one place distinctly mentioned by name ; in another, Black Agnes of Dunbar is spoken of as alive, and her captivity is prophetic. There must have been a lapse of more than two centuries betwixt the composition of these two different passages." (But, whatever credit we may be disposed to give, either to Thomas or the actual writer of these prophecies, it ought to be kept in view that the manuscript from which the poem is now given was written more than a century previous to the fulfilment of some of the predictions which it is supposed to contain.) "As well as I can without books," Sir Walter proceeds, "I will endeavour to guess at the different historical events which are obscurely or more directly alluded to:—

"Fytt 2nd, line 21. 'The Baliolfe—Comyns—Barlays (rather Barclays)—as well as the Fresells (Fraseres)' were all distinguished during the wars of David II.'s minority, or shortly before, as probably were the Russells.

"Line 44. The fight at Eldone Hill here alluded to, may, perhaps, be that in which Oswin, a pretender to the throne of Northumberland, was defeated and slain by Ethelwold, about the middle of the eighth century. The field of battle is still called Corpse Cleugh, or some such name, and distinguished by barrows and other marks of ancient contest:—bones and remnants of armour are even yet turned up by the plough.

"Line 50. The battle of Falkirk is obviously that in which Wallace was defeated by Edward I.

"Line 70. Bannockburn is mentioned by name. The allusion to the defeat of the English chivalry by stratagem is worth remarking; it shows the country of the pseudo-prophet, who is naturally disposed to apologise for the defeat of the English at that memorable occurrence.

"Line 97. Dupplin Moor is distinctly mentioned; and the subsequent capture of Perth, line 102.

"The battle of Durham, and the captivity of David II. is alluded to from line 120 to line 135, and the three last lines of the Second Fytt seem to me a variation of the same passage; or it may relate to the previous battle of Halidon, where the Regent, Archibald Douglass, may be the 'full doughty that was slain.'

"All these personages and events hitherto noticed relate as distinctly as can well be expected to the middle of the fourteenth century, when, in the beginning of Fytt Third, we light all at once upon 'Spynkarde Cleugh,' being clearly our unlucky battle of Pinkie. I cannot help thinking this stanza much more modern than the rest of the poem.

“The battle of Pentland Hill, appears to be a wild guess at future events. In former times the prediction might have been deemed oracular, but now few will be disposed to allow that it hath any reference to the battle of Pentland, in Charles II.’s time, any more than the press of banners between Seton and the sea refers to the battle of Prestonpans. But Thomas, or more properly his imitator, has made a chance hit in both cases. In the latter especially, a staunch Jacobite would say, the rout of the dragoons was foretold, line 53,—only they did not stay for the hewing, mentioned line 57.

“The story of the Cross of stone is a favourite presage in Nixon’s prophecy, and I know not how many besides.

“Line 125. The rivulet near to Flodden-field is called Sandyford, or something like it. Flodden is, therefore, probably alluded to in this and the following stanza.

“Line 150. Here the story returns to the fourteenth century, and to Black Agnes of Dunbar, which makes it probable that this part of the poem must have been written when she was in the height of renown.

“It is singular that Thomas should be represented as speaking of himself as one in disgrace with Agnes of Dunbar, though her bounden vassal. Unquestionably it is highly probable that Thomas of Ercildoune held his lands of the Earl of Dunbar, as he resided in the very village which took the name of Earls-town from its dependence on these great earls. An antiquary is tempted to guess that the obscure hint here thrown out may possibly allude to some dispute between Thomas and his superior, which, making a part of the remembered history of the former, was introduced by the English imitator who writes prophecies in his name.”

After all, it may in general be admitted that the whole of the prophecies attributed to

“Thomas the true, that never spak false,”

in the corrupted and modernised state in which those bearing his name now appear, are little better than spurious.¹ If he attempted any such predictions, which cannot reasonably be doubted after the uniform tradition of more than five centuries, and the concurring testimony of so many ancient writers to his prophetic character, they were not, it is highly probable, committed to writing in his own time, but being circulated and handed down by tradition only, every person no doubt considered it lawful to alter or accommodate them to his own views. At least, we find occasionally the same prophecy, either by accident or design, bearing the most opposite construction. But if there be one exception, it is that which follows, given exactly as it occurs in a very ancient manuscript in the Harleian Collection (No. 2253, fol. 127), supposed to be of the time of Edward I., and which, as it approaches so near the period in which he flourished, may be considered as exhibiting a genuine specimen of the language of the author. This "Response" assuredly bears reference to the wars in Scotland during the time of Edward I. A contrary opinion, however, has long been held (see "Border Minstrelsy," vol. iii. pp. 282-5; "Sir Tristrem," p. xvi.), and Sir Walter Scott thinks that "the battle of Dupplin is distinctly referred to in line 16, and that line 11 alludes to the dreadful famine in the reign of David II. The only line of the prophecy still remembered and quoted is that of a hare kindling on the hearthstone—a prophecy which Thomas is said by tradition to have uttered concerning the desolation of his own house :

¹ Predictions made after the events!

‘ The hare sall kittle litter on my hearth stane,
And there will never be a laird Learmont again.’ ”

Every circumstance, however, warrants us in referring the following lines to some time before the end of the thirteenth century, and their application to the wars of Edward I. just previous to the commencement of a long series of war and desolation (about which time Thomas appears to have died), is certainly more appropriate than conceiving him to overlook these in a foresight of what should take place more than half a century after his death. The erroneous supposition of this response having been addressed to Black Agnes, the heroic Countess of March, seems first to have given rise to the conjecture which has thrown discredit on the idea of its being uttered by the Poet of Ersyldoune. In his time the title of that powerful family had not been changed from Dunbar to March.

“ La Countesse de Donbar demanda a Thomas de Essedoune, q^{ant} la guere descoce pren-dreit fyn/ e yl la respoundy et dyt.

When man as mad a kyng of a capped man/
When mon is leuere oþer mones þyng þen is owen/
When Loudyon ys forest and forest/ ys felde/
When hares kendles oþe herston/
When wyt ꝛ wille werres togedere
When mon makes stables of kyrkes ꝛ steles castles wyþ styes
When Rokesbourh nys no burgh ant market is at Fforwyleye
When þe alde is gan ant þe newe þ^u don noþt
When Bambourne ys donged with dedemen
When men ledes men in ropes to buyen ꝛ to sellen/
When a q^{ar}ter of whaty whete is changed for a colt of ten marks/
When prude prikes ꝛ pees is leyd in prisoun,
When a Scot ne may hym hude ase hare in forme/
þ^t þe Englyssh ne shal hym fynde/
When ryþ^t ant wronge astentep to gedere/
When laddes weddeþ louedis
When Scottes flen so faste þ^t for faute of ship hy drouneþ hemselve/
Whenne shal this be/
Nouþer in þine tyme ne in myne,
Ah comen t gone
Wiþinne twenty wynter ant on/”

The prophecies attributed to Thomas the Rhymer in the common collection of “The Whole Prophecies of Scotland, England, France, Ireland,” &c., have not the slightest marks of authenticity. They are, besides, too darkly veiled in allegory, or shadowed forth in obscure allusions, to interest any one. But the persons or events prefigured must have at one time been more intelligible than now, else it would be difficult to account for their extensive popularity, unless, on the idea which the common people may have entertained of their actually bearing reference to future national occurrences; as it is said, “though thir sayis be selcouth, they shall be sooth found.” Without, therefore, being possessed either of historical value or poetic merit, they are now to be regarded merely as literary curiosities.

Thomas of Ersseldoune.

[The Prologue.¹]

LYSTNYS, lordyngs, bothe grete and smale,
 And takis gude tente what I will say :
 I sall ȝow telle als trewe a tale,
 Als euer was herde by nyghte or daye :
 And the maste meruelle fforowttyn naye, 5
 That euer was herde by fore or syen,
 And ther fore pristly I ȝow praye,
 That ȝe will of ȝoure talkyng blyn.
 It es an harde thyng for to saye,
 Of doghety dedis that hase bene done ; 10
 Of felle feghtyngs and batells sere ;
 And how that knyghtis hase wonne thair schone.
 Bot Jhu Christ, that syttis in trone,
 Safe Ynglysche men bothe ferre and nere ;
 And I sall telle ȝow tyte and sone, 15
 Of Battells done sythen many a ȝere ;
 And of batells that done sall bee ;
 In whate place, and howe and whare ;
 And wha sall hafe the heghere gree ;
 And whethir partye sall hafe the werre ; 20
 Wha sall take the flyghte and flee ;
 And wha sall dye, and by tene, thare :
 Bot Jhu Christ, that dyed on tre,
 Saue Inglysche men whare so thay fare.

[The Fyrst Fytt.]

Als I me wente this Endres daye,
 Full faste in mynd makane my mone,
 In a mery mornynge of Maye,
 By Huntle bankkes my selfe allone.

¹ Not in the Cambridge MS.

I herde the jaye, and the throstelle,¹ 5
 The mawys meuyde of hir songe,
 The wodewale beryde als a belle,
 That alle the wode abowte me ronge.

Allone in longynge, thus als I laye,
 Vndre nethe a semely tre, 10
 Saw I whare a lady gaye,
 Came ridand ouer a longe lee.

If I suld sytt to Domesdaye,
 With my tonge, to wrebbe and wrye,
 Certanely that lady gaye, 15
 Neuer bese scho askryede for mee.

Hir palfraye was a dappill graye ;
 Swilke one I saghe ne neuer none :
 Als dose the sonne, on someres daye,
 That fair lady hir selfe scho schone. 20

Her sette it was of reuyll bone ;
 Full semely was that syghte to see !
 Stefly sett with precyous stone,
 And compaste all with crapoté.

Stones of Oryente grete plenté ; 25
 Hir hare abowte hir hede it hange ;
 Scho rode ouer that lange lee,
 A whylle scho blewe, a nother scho sange.

Hir garthis of nobyll sylke thay were ;
 The bukylls were of berelle stone ; 30
 Hir steraps were of crystalle clere,
 And all with perelle ouer by gone.

¹ Old copy erroneously reads throstylle cokke.

Hir payetrelle was of iralle fyne ;
 Hir cropoure was of orfare ;
 And als clere golde hir brydill it schone ; 25
 One aythir syde hange bellys three.

Scho led iij. grehoundis in a leeshe ;
 And seuen raches by hir fete rone ;—
 Scho bare a horne abowte hir halse ;
 And vndir hir belte full many a flone. 40

Thomas laye and sawe that syghte,
 Vnder nethe ane semly tree ;
 He sayd, gone es Marye most of myghte,
 That bare that childe that dyede for mee.

But I speke with gone lady bryghte, 45
 I hope myn herte will bryste in three ;
 Now sall I go with all my myghte,
 Hir for to mete at Eldone¹ tree.

Thomas rathely vpe he rase,
 And he rane ouer that mountayne hye ; 50
 Gyff it be als the storye sayes,
 He hir mette at Eldone tree.

He knelyde down appon his knee,
 Vndir nethe that grenwode spraye :—
 And sayd, lufly ladye ! rewe one mee ; 55
 Qwene of heuen, als thu wele maye.

Than spake that lady milde of thoghte :—
 Thomas, late swylke wordes bee ;
 Qwene of heuene am I noghte,
 For I tuke neuer so heghe degre. 60

¹ i.e., Halydown or Halidon. See introductory matter and a note infra.

Bot I ame of ane other contree,
 If I be parellid moste of prysse ;
 I ryde aftyre this wylde fee :
 My raches rynnys at my devyse.

If thu be parelde moste of prysse, 65
 And here rydis thus in thy balye,
 Of lufe, lady, als thu art wysse,
 Thou gyffe me leue to lye the bye.

Scho sayde : thu man, that ware folye ;
 I praye the, Thomas, thu lat me bee ; 70
 For I saye the full sekirlye,
 That synne will for-doo all my beauté.

Now, lufly ladye, rewe on mee,
 And I will euer more with the duelle ;
 Here my trouthe I plyghte to thee. 75
 Wethir thu will in heuen or helle.

Man of molde, thu will me merre,
 But gitt thu sall hafe all thy will ;
 And trowe it wele thu chewys the werre,
 For alle my beauté will thu spylle. 80

Down than lyghte that lady bryghte,
 Vndir nethe that grene wode spraye ;
 And, als the storye tellis full ryghte,
 Seuen sythis by hir he laye.

Scho sayd : man, thu lykes thi playe : 85
 What byrde in boure maye dwelle with the?
 Thou merrys me all this longe daye ;
 I pray the, Thomas, late me bee.

Thomas stode vpe in that stede,
 And he by-helde that lady gaye ; 90
 Hir hare it hange all ouer hir hede, Hir eghne semede owte, that are were graye.

And all the riche clothyng was a waye,
 That he by-fore sawe in that stede ;
 Hir a schanke blake, hir other graye,¹ 95
 And all hir body lyke the lede.

Than sayd Thomas, allas ! allas !
 In faythe this es a dollfull syghte ;
 How arte thu fadyde thus in the face,
 That schane by-fore als the sonne so bryght ! 100

Scho sayd, Thomas, take leve at sone and mone,
 And als at lefe that grewes on tree ;
 This twelmoneth sall thu with me gone,
 And medill erthe thu sall non see.

He knelyd downe appon his knee, 105
 To Mary mylde he made his mone ;
 Lady, but thou rewe on mee,
 All my games fro me are gon.

Allas ! he sayd, and wa es mee,
 I trewe my dedis will wirke me care ; 110
 My saulle, Jhu, by-teche I the,
 Whedir come that euer my banes sall fare.

¹ The Lincoln MS. inserts after this line two others, which appear to be redundant :—

Thomas laye, and sawe that syghte,
 Vndir nethe that grenewod tree.

Scho ledde hym in at Eldone birke,
 Vndir nethe a derne lee ;
 Whare it was derk als mydnyght myrke, 115
 And euer the water till his knee.

The montenans of dayes three,
 He herd bot swoghyne of the flode,
 At the laste, he sayde, full wa es mee !
 Almaste I dye, for fawte of fude. 120

Scho lede hym in till a faire herbere,
 Whare frwte was growyng gret plentee :
 Pere and appill, bothe rype thay were,
 The date, and als the damasee.

The fygge, and als so the wyneberye ; 125
 The nyghtyngales lyggande on thair neste ;
 The papeioyes faste abowte gan flye ;
 And throstylls sange, wolde have no reste.

He presed to pulle the frwte with his hande ;
 Als man for fude that was nere faynt. 130
 Scho sayd, Thomas, thu late tham stande,
 Or ells the fende the will atteynt.

If thu it plökk, sothely to say,
 Thi saule gose to the fyre of helle ;
 It comes neuer owte or Domesdaye, 135
 Bot ther in payne ay for to duelle.

Thomas, sothely I the hyghte,
 Come lygge thyn hede down on my knee,
 And thou sall se the fayreste syghte,
 That euer sawe mon of thi contree. 140

He did in hye als scho hym badde ;
 Appone hir knee his hede he layde,
 For hir to paye he was full glade,
 And than that lady to hym sayde :

Seese thu nowe gone faire waye, 145
 That lyggis ouer gone heghe montayne ?—
 gone es the waye to heuen for aye,
 When synfull sawles have duryd ther payne,

Seese thu nowe gone other waye,
 That lygges lawe by nethe gone rysse ? 150 gone es the waye, the sothe to saye,
 Vnto the joye of paradyse.

Seese thu gitt gone thrid waye,
 That ligges vnder gone grene playne ?
 gone es the waye, with tene and traye, 155
 Whare synfull saulis suffirris thare payne.

Bot seese thu nowe gone fourt waye,
 That lygges ouer gone depe delle ?
 gone es the way, the sothe to say,
 Vnto the brennande fyre of hell. 160

Seese thu gitt gone faire castelle,
 That standes vpone gone heghe hill ?
 Of towne and towre it beris the belle ;
 In mydul erthe es non lyk ther-till.

For sothe, Thomas, gone es myn awen, 165
 And the kyngus of this countree ;
 Bot me ware leuer hanged and drawen,
 Or that he wyste thou laye by me.

When thu commes to gone castelle gay,
 I pray the curtase man to bee ; 170
 And whate so any man to the saye,
 Luke thu answeare none bott mee.

My lorde es seruede at ylk a mese
 With thritty knyghttis faire and free ;
 I sall saye, syttande at the dese, 175
 I take thi speche by gone the see.

Thomas still als stane he stude,
 And he by-helde that lady gaye ;
 Scho come agayne als faire and gude,
 And al so ryche one hir palfraye. 180

Hir grehundis fillide with dere blode ;
 Hir rachis couplede by my faye ;
 Scho blewe hir horne with mayne and mode,
 Vn to the castelle scho tuk the waye.

In to the hulle sothely scho went ; 185
 Thomas foloued at hir hande ;
 Than ladyes come bothe faire and gent,
 With curtesy to hir knelande.

Harpe and fethill bothe thay fande,
 Getterne and als so the sawtrye ; 190
 Lutte and rybybe bothe gangande,
 And all manere of mynstralsye.

The most meruelle that Thomas thoghte.
 When that he stode appon the flore ;
 For fefty hertes in were broghte, 195
 That were bothe large, grete and store.

Raches laye lapande in the blode,
Cokes come with dryssynge knyfe ;
They bryttaned tham als thay were wode ;
Reuelle amanges thame was full ryfe. 200

Knyghtis dawnsede by three and three,
Thare was revelle, gamen, and playe,
Lufly ladyes faire and free,
That satte and sange one riche araye.

Thomas duellide in that solace, 205
More than I zowe saye, perdé ;
Till one a daye, so hafe I grace,
My lufly lady sayde to mee :

Do busk the, Thomas, for thu must gon,
For thu may here no lengare be ; 210
Hye the faste with mode and mone ;
I sall the brynge till Eldone tree.

Thomas sayde than with heuy chere :
Lufly lady, nowe lat me be ;
For certis, lady, I hafe be here 215
Bot the space of dayes thre.

For sothe, Thomas, als I the telle,
Thou hase bene here seven zere and more ;
Bot langere here thu may noghte duelle,
The skylle I sall the telle where fore. 220

To morne of helle the foulle fende
Amange this folke will seche his fee ;
And thu arte mekill man and hende ;
I trowe full wele he wolde chese the.

For all the gold that euer may bee, 225
 Fro hethyn vn to the worldis ende,
 Thou bese neuer be trayede for mee ;
 There fore with me I rede thou wende.

Scho broghte hym agayne to Eldone tree,
 Vndir nethe the grenewode spraye, 230
 In Huntlee bannkes es mery to bee,
 Whare foulis syng bothe nyght and daye.

Ferre owtt over gone mountane graye,
 Thomas, a fawkon byggis a neste ;—
 A fawcoun is an yrons praye ; 235
 For-thi in na place may he reste.

Fare wele, Thomas, I wend my waye ;
 For me by-houys ouer thir benttis brown.
 —Loo here a fytt : more es to saye
 Of THOMAS OF ERSELLDOWN. 240

[The Second Fytt.]

Fare wele, Thomas ; I wend my waye ;
 I may no lengare stande with the.
 Gif me a tokynyng, lady gaye,
 That I may saye I spake with the.

To harpe or carpe, whare so thu gose, 5
 Thomas, thu sall hafe the chose sothely ;
 And he said, harpyng kepe I none ;
 For tonge es chefe of mynstralsye.

If thou will spelle, or tales telle,
 Thomas, thu sall neuer lesyng lye : 10
 Whare euer thu fare, by frythe or felle,
 I pray the speke none euyll of me.

Fare wele, Thomas,¹ with owttyn gyle ;
I may no lengar duelle with the.
Lufly lady, habyd a while, 15
And telle thu me of some ferly.

Thomas, herkyn what I the saye,
When that a tree rote es dede,
The leuis fal and wyce a waye ;
And froyte it beris nodur whyte ne rede. 20

Of the Baylliolse blod so sall it falle,
It sall be lyke a rotyn tre ;
The Comyns and the Barlays alle,
The Russells, and the Fresells free.

All sall thay fade and wyce a waye ; 25
Na wondur if the rote drye ;
And mekill bale sall after spraye,
Whare joy and blysse was wonte to bee.

Fare wele, Thomas, I wende my way ;
I may no lenger stand thee by. 30
Now, lufly lady, gude and gay,
Telle me gitt of some ferly.

What kyne ferlys, Thomas gode,
Suld I thee telle, and thi wille bee ?
Telle me of this géntill blode, 35
Wha sall thrife, and who sall thee.

Wha sall be kynge, wha sall be nane,
And wha sall welde this North contré ;
Wha sall flee, and wha sall be tane,
And whare thir batells donne sall bee. 40

¹ How human the lady is made in this production !
Always turning on her heel to go, like a jade, and persuaded to remain and tell more.

Thomas, of a Batelle I sall the telle,
 That sall be done righte sone at wille :
 Beryns sall mete bothe fers and felle,
 And freschely fighte at Eldone¹ hille.

The Bretans blode sall vndir fete ; 45
 The Bruyse blode sall wyn the spraye ;
 Sex thowsande Ynglysche, wele thu wete,
 Sall there be slayne that ilk day.

Fare wele, Thomas, I wende my waye ;
 To stande with the me thynk full irke— 50
 Of a batell I will the saye,
 That sall be done at Fawkirke.

Baners sall stande, bethe large and leng,
 Trowe this wele, with mode and mayne ;
 The Bruysse blood sall vndir gane, 55
 Seuen thowsande Scottis ther sall be slayne.

Fare wele, Thomas; I pray the sesse ;
 No lengar here thu tarye mee ;
 My grehundis thay brek thaire lesse,
 And my raches thaire copills in three ; 60

Loo ! whare the dere by twa and twa
 Haldis ouer gone montane heghe—
 Thomas said, God schilde thu gaa,
 Bot tell me gitt of some ferly.

Holde thi greyhundis in thi honde ; 65
 And cupull thi raches to a tre ;
 And lat the dere reyke ouer the londe ;—
 Ther is a herd in Holteby.²

¹ The MSS. vary in this place, some reading Ledyn, others Halydowne and Eldone. But it may be questioned whether these are not all differing forms of the same word—Haly-down, the holy height or down. See suprà.

² ? Holte by.

Off a batelle I sall the saye,
That sall gare ladyes morne in mode : 70
At Banokis borne bothe water and claye
Sall be mengyde with mannis blode.

Stedis sall stombill with tresoune,
Bothe baye and broun, grysselle and graye ;
Gentill knyghtis sall stombill downe, 75
Thorowe takynge of a wykkide waye.

The Bretans blode sall vndir falle ;
The Bruysse blode sall wynn the spraye ;
Sex thowsand Ynglysche, grete and smale,
Sall there be slane that ilk a daye. 80

Than sall Scotland kyngles stande ;
Trow it wele that I the saye ;
A tercelet of the same lande
To Bretane sall take the redy waye.

And take tercellettis grete and gaye, 85
With hym owte of his awen contree ;
Thay sall wende on an ryche arraye,
And come agayne by land and see.

He sall stroye the North contree
Mare and lesse hym by-forne ; 90
Ladyes sail saye, alas and waloway !
That euer that royalle blode was borne !

He sall ryse vpe at Kynkehorne,
And tye the schippis vn to the sande ;
At Dipplynge more, appon the morne, 95
Lordis will thynke full lange to stande.

By twix Dipplynge and the dales
 The watir that rynnes on rede claye,
 Thare sall be slayne for sothe, Thomas, Eleuen thowsande Scottis that nyght and daye. 100

Thay sall take a townn of grete renowne,
 That standis nere the water of Taye,
 The fadir and the sone sall be dongen downe,
 And with strakis strange be slayne awaye.

When thay hafe wone that wallede towne, 105
 And ylke man hase cheuede thayre chaunce,
 Than sall thir Bretans make them bown,
 And fare forthe to the werre of Fraunce.

Than sall Scotland kynglesse stande,
 And be lefte, Thomas, als I the saye ; 110
 Than sall a kyng be chosen so gyngge,
 That kane no lawes lede, perfaye.

Dauid with care he sall be-gynn,
 And with care he sall wende a waye ;
 Lordis and ladyes, more dois myn, 115
 Sall come appon a riche araye ;
 And croune hym at the town of Skynne,¹
 Appon ane certane solempne daye.

¹ Scone. According to the Cambr. MS. they read—

' Robert with care he shall reng,
 And also he shalle wynd awaye ;
 Lordys and ladys, both olde and yeng,
 Shall draw to hym with owtyn naye.'

Beryns balde, both gonge and alde,
 Sall till hym drawe with owttyn naye ; 129
 Euyn he sall to Yngland ryde,
 Este and weste, als lygges the waye.

Be-twixe a parke and an abbaye,
 A palesse and a paresche kyrke,
 Thare sall gour kynge fail of his praye, 125
 And of his lyfe be wondir irke :

He sall be tane so wondir sare,
 So that a waye he sall noghte flee ;
 Heys nebbe sall ryne, or he thethyn fare,¹
 The rede blode trykelande vn to his knee. 130

He sall than be with a false - - -
 Be trayede of his awen - - -
 And whether it come - - - -
 He sall byde - - - -

That ran - - - - - 135

[About six lines seem to be wanting.]

- - - - -
 In the Northe to do owttroye.

And when he es man moste of mayne,
 And hopis beste than for to spede,
 On a ley lande sall he be slayne 145
 Be syde a waye, for owttyn drede.

Sythen sall selle Scotland, per ma faaye,
 Fulle and fere full many ane,
 For to make a certane paye,
 But ende of it sall neuer come nane. 150

¹ ' His nek shall rife.'—MS. Cambr.

And than sall Scotland kyngles stande, Trowe this wele, that I telle the ;
 Thre tercelettis of the same lande
 Sall stryfe to bygg and browke the tree ;

He sall bygg, and browke the tree ; 155
 That hase no flyghte to fley a waye ;
 Thay fall with pryde to Ynglande ryde,
 Este and weste, als lygges the waye.

Haly kyrke bese sett be syde,
 Relygyous byrnede on a fyre ; 160
 Sythen sall thay to a castelle ryde,
 And schewe tham thare with . . .

By syde a wyth
 A why

[Be¹ twene a myckul way and a water, 165
 A parke and a stony way then,
 Ther shal a cheften mete in fere ;
 A ful dughty ther shalbe slayn.²

The toder cheftan shalbe tane,
 A presans of blode hym shal slee, 170
 And lede hym a way in a wane,
 And cloyse hym in a castell hee.

¹ The conclusion of the Second Fytt (evidently consisting of about twelve lines), which is wanting, is here added from the Cambridge MS.

² This stanza in the Cotton MS. is here added, as it varies from that given above.

' Betwys a wethy and a water,
 A wel and a haly staine,
 Ther sal two cheftans met in fer ;
 The Douglas ther sall be slaine.'

Fare wel, Thomas ; I wende my way ;
For I most over gone bentis brown.
Here ar two fyfts, Thomas, to say, 175
Off THOMAS OF ERSELDOWN.]

[The Third Fyft.]

Now, lufly lady, gente and hende,
Tell me, gif it thi willis bee,
Of thyes batells, how thay schall ende,
And whate schall worthe of this Northe contre.

This worlde, Thomas, sothely to telle, 5
Es noghte bot wauerethe and woghe ;
Of a batelle I will the telle,
That schall be done at Spynkerde cleughe.

The Bretans blode schall vndir falle ;
The Bruyse blode schalle wyn the spraye ; 10
Sex thowsande Ynglysche grete and smalle
Salle thare be slayne that nyghte and daye.

The rerewarde sall noghte weite, perfaye,
Of that ilke dulfulle dede ;
Thay sall make a grete journaye 15
Dayes tene with owtyn drede.

And of a batelle I will the telle,
That sall be done now sone at will ;
Beryns sall mete, both ferse and felle,
And freschely fyghte at Pentland hyll. 20

By-twyx Sembery¹ and Pentlande,
 The haulle that standis appone the rede claye,
 There schall be slayne Eleuen thowsande
 Off Scottis men that nyghte and daye.

They sall take a towne of grete renown, 25
 That standis nere the water of Taye,²

The tother este at Barbeké. 40

Foryours furthe sall flee [a mayne]
 On a Sonondaye by fore the messe ;
 Seuē thowsande sothely sall be slayne,
 One aythir pertye, more and lesse.

For ther sall be no banneres prese, 45
 Bot ferre in sondir sall they bee ;
 Carefull sall be the after mese,
 By-twixe Seton and the see.

Schippes sall stande appon the sande,
 Wayffande with the see fame ; 50
 This gere and mare than sall thay stande,
 Or any beryn come for tham hame.

Stedis awaye masterles sall flynge,
 Ouer the mountans too and fra ;
 Thaire sadills one thaire bakkis sall hyngē, 55
 Vn to the garthe be rotyn in twa.

gitt sall thay hewe one other aye,
 Vnto the sone be sett nere weste ;
 Bot thare es no wighte that gitt wete maye,
 Whether of thaym sall hafe the beste. 60

¹ Instead of 'Sembery,' the Cambridge MS. reads 'Edynborow.'

² About thirteen lines are torn away.

Thay sall plante down thaire baners thare,
Worthi men all nyghte sall dye ;
Bot one the morne ther sall be care,
For nowther syde sall hafe the gree.

Than sall thay tak a truce and swere, 65
For thre gere and more, I vnderstande ;
That nane of tham sall other dere,
Nouther by see ne gitt by lande.

Be twene the two seynt Mary dayes,¹
When the tyme waxis nere long, 70
Then sall thei mete and baners rese,
In Gleydis-more that is so long.

Gladys-more, that gladis us all ;
This is beginning of oure gle ;
Grete sorow there sall fall, 75
Where rest and peese were wont to be.

Crowned kyngus ther shalbe slayn,
With dynts sore and wonder to se,
Out of a more a raven shal cum,
And of hym a schrew shall flye, 80

And seke the more with owten rest,
After a crosse is made of ston,
Hye and lowe, both est and west ;
But up he shal spede anon.

¹ This and the three following stanzas are supplied from the Cambridge MS.

He sall lyghte whare the crose sulde bee, 85
 And holde his nebbe wp to the skye ;
 And drynke of gentill blode and free ;
 Then ladys waylowaye sall crye.

Then sall a lorde come to that werre,
 That sall be of full grete renowne ; 90
 And in his benere sall he bere,
 Triste it wele, a rede lyone.

Ther sall another come to that werre,
 That sall fyghte full fayre in molde ;
 And in his banere sall he bere 95
 A schippe with an ankyre of golde.

ȝit sall another come to that werre
 That es noghte knawen by northe [ne weste,]
 And in his banere sall he bere
 A wolfe with a nakede childe in his [brest.] 100

ȝitt sall the forthe lorde come to that werre
 That sall grete maystree after men
 And in his
 The bere

Then¹ shal they fight with helm and spere, 105
 Un to the sun be set nere west ;
 Ther is no wyght in that fyld ther
 That wots qwylke side shall have the best.

A bastard shall cum fro a forest,
 Not in Yngland borne shall he be,— 110
 And he shal wyn the gre for the best,
 Of alle men leder in Bretan shal he be.

¹ This and the next sixteen stanzas are supplied from the Cambridge MS.

And with pride to England ride,
Est and west in certayn ;
And holde a parlement with pride, 115
Wher never non be-fore was seyn.

All false lawes he shalle lay doune,
That are begune in that cuntré ;
Truly to wyrke he shalbe boune,
And leder of all Bretans shal he be. 120

The bastard shal get hym power strong,
And all his faes he shall down dyng ;
Of alle the v. kingys londis
Ther shal non bodword home bryng.

The bastard shalle go in the Holy land ; 125
Trow this wel y the say :
Tak his soule to his hande,
Jhu Christe that mycull may !

Thomas, truly I the say,
This is trewith ylke worde ; 130
Of that last batel I the say,
That shalbe don at Sandeforde.

Nere Sandyforth ther is a wro,¹
And nere that wro is a well ;
A ston there is the wel even fro, 135
And nere the wel truly to tell,

On that grounde ther groeth okys thre,
And is called Sandyford ;
Ther the last batel done shalbe ;
Thomas, trow thu ilke a worde— 140

¹ In MS. Cotton it is 'broo.'

This¹ she said with hevye chere ;
 The terys ran out of her een gray—
 Lady, or thu wepe so sore,
 Take thi houndis, and wende thi way.

I wepe not for my way-walkyng, 145
 Thomas, treuly I the say ;
 But for ladys shal wed laddys gying,
 When ther lordis are dede away.

He shall have a stede in stabul fed,
 A hauke to beyre upon his hond ; 150
 A bright lady to his bed,
 That before had non in loude.

Fare wel, Thomas, I wende my way ;
 Alle the day thu wil me marre.—
 Lufly lady, tel thu me 155
 Of Black Agnes of Dunbar.

And why she have gyven me the warre,
 And put me in her prison depe ;
 For I walde dwel with her ever marre,
 And kepe hir plaes and hir shepe. 160

Of black Agnes cum never gode,
 Wher for, Thomas, she may not the ;
 For al hir welth and hir worldly gode,
 In London cloyed shal she be.

Ther prevys never gode of hir blode ; 165
 In a dyke than shall she dye ;
 Houndis of hir shall have ther fode,
 Margrat of all hir kyn and she.

¹ MS. Then.

Then Thomas a sory man was he,
The terys ran out of his een gray : 170
Lufly lady, get tell to me,
If we shall parte for ever and aye ?

Nay, when thou sitts at Erseldown,]
To Huntlee bankkis take thi waye,
There sall I sikirly be bowne, 175
To mete the, Thomas, if that I maye.

. . . ll the kene whare euer thu gaa
. . . the pryce of our taysye ;
A tunge es wele, a tunge es waa,
The tunge es chefe of mynstralsye. 180

She blewe hir horne on hir palfraye,
And lefte Thomas at Eldoune tre ;
Till Helmesdale scho tuke the waye,
And thus depertede scho and hee.

Of such a woman wolde I here 185
That couth telle of swilke ferly ;
Jhu crownde with a crown of brere,
Brynge vs to thy halle on hye.
Amen. Amen.

Explicit Thomas of Erseledownn.

The Fermorar and his Daughter.

THIS lively and spirited dialogue between a farmer and his daughter, on the subject of her marriage, is apparently of English composition, although the editor found it written on the fly-leaf of an ancient copy of Wynthoun's "Chronicle," which appears to have formerly belonged to the Abbey of Cambuskenneth. The date of the manuscript itself is the earlier part of the fifteenth century; that of the poem is certainly not later than the reign of James V.

In a foolish and vulgar English song of the last century, not worth preserving, entitled "The Maid's Resolution to Marry a Rake," we find reasons nearly similar to those expressed in the following dialogue, for choosing a gentleman, instead of a ploughman or farmer, as her husband :—

My Mother would have me to marry a Clown
That hedges and ditches all week for a crown ;
But to marry a Rake is all my delight ;
If he rambles all day, he will please me at night.

The name of a Clown I highly disdain,
My Father and Mother they love the same :
A Clown is a Clown both at home and abroad,
When a Rake he is comely, and sweet in his bed.

A Ploughman I own is good in his kind,
But I'm resolv'd to alter my mind ;
For a Rake dress'd in scarlet and trimm'd with gold
Is handsome and pleasant, and lovely to behold.

The sixth stanza of this poem is defective of three lines ; but possibly we have no great cause to regret the loss which it has sustained.

'The Fermorar and his Dochter.'

S I did walk onys be ane medo side,
 In ane symmer sessoun, quhen men
 wynnis thair hay,
 I hard ane riche fermorar with his dochter chide,
 Tuiching hir merriage, and thus he did say :
 Here duellis Symkin my nychtbour, ourthort gone way, 5
 He hes thre welthy childering, choise the one of thoise ;—
 Thow sall haue one of thame, with myche of my poise.

Fader, quoth the dochter, that gois aganis my hart, Sen I haue bene your drevill this xx. yeris and more,
 Now wald ge gar me go at pleuch and at cart, 10
 And leiff my liff in sklavery, as I haue done to fore ;
 Tak it for ane ansuer, I will do so no more :
 ge can nocht compell me to mary one of thois,
 For I will haue ane gentill man, with pleasand cloise.

Dochter, quoth the fader, quhy dois thou thaim refuse, 15
 Sen thai be gudlie gemen that be in all this land ?—
 In all this cuntre, I think, thou can not chuse,
 More nymlar fallowis of fute, nor of hand ;
 More panefullar, more thrifty, I lat the vnderstand :
 Thou can nocht do better than mary on of thoise : 20
 No ! thou sall mary one of thame, in spite of thy noise.

Fader, quoth the dochter, I put you out of doubt,
I rak nocht of thare manheid, nor thair thriftynes at all ;

I am nocht disposit to mary Hob Klout,
To leif like my mothir, in messarie and thrall, 25
Servand the swyne, and the oxin in thare stall,

With ane pare of clamper kynnis clowtit to my hoise,

No ! I will haue ane gentill man, in spyte of your noise.

Gif I gett ane gentill man, I can nocht lychtly myse

Of doctouris of phesik and necessary fude ; 30

Gif I say bot onys, gude husband, gett me this,
I can nocht lychtly laik it, and it will do me gude ;
Sic qualities hes ane gentill man that is cum of gentill blude :

How mony of this cuntre dois laik one of thoise ?

No ! I will haue ane gentill man, in spite of your noise. 35

.

Ane gentill man is lusty, luvand, and faithfull of fay,

He is worthy to be lovit, he is plesand and gay :—

Fader, content you, in spite of your noise,

And euir I maryt be, I will haue one of thoise.

Giff I get ane gentill man, his sycht will do me
gude 40

He will halse me, and braise me, and lufe me out of mesour ;

So sall I haue my silkan gowne, with my franche
hude,

I sall haue abundance and infinite tressour,

And I salbe accompanyit with ladeis of plesour,

And I sall haue my schois of veluot, to my fine
hoise, 45
So will I haue ane gentill man, in spite of your noise.

Ane gentill man is lusty, and will lay on the laid,
With ane swerde, and ane dagar glitterand by his side,
Quhen Symkin standis quhisling with ane quhip and ane gaid,
Prickand and garkand ane ald ox hide, 50
With one pare of stro buskynis he gois to ride, Moist like ane spittell man :—suld I haue ane of thoise !
No ! I will haue ane gentill man, in despite of your noise.

The Battle of Harlaw.

THE exact age of this historical song or poem has not been ascertained, and has given rise to some discussion, on which it is not necessary at present to enter at large. Lord Hailes suspected "that it will be found to be as recent as the days of Queen Mary or James VI." Mr. Sibbald concurs in this opinion; but, on the other hand, Mr. Ritson, Mr. Pinkerton, and Mr. Finlay maintain that, "from its manner, it might have been written soon after the event."

That this poem in its original form is of considerable antiquity cannot be doubted, the "battle of Hayrlau" being named amongst the popular songs of the time by the author of the "Complaynt of Scotland," 1549; and it may be considered as the original of rather a numerous class of our historical ballads. No copy of an earlier date than that in Ramsay's "Evergreen," 1724, is known; and he has evidently taken serious liberties with the text. An edition, printed in the year 1668, was in the curious library of Robert Myln.

The Battle of Harlaw. Foughten upon Friday, July 24, 1411, against Donald of the Isles.

I.

HRAE Dunideir as I cam throuch,
Doun by the hill of Banochie,
Allangst the lands of Garioch;
Grit pitie was to heir and sé
The noys and dulesum hermonie, 5
That evir that dreiry day did daw;
Cryand the corynoch on hie,
Alas! alas! for the HARLAW.

II.

I marvlit quhat the matter meint,
 All folks war in a fiery fairy : 10
 I wist nocht quha was fae or friend ;
 Yit quietly I did me carrie.
 But sen the days of auld King Harry,
 Sic slauchter was not hard nor sene,
 And thair I had nae tyme to tairy, 15
 For bissiness in Aberdene.

III.

Thus as I walkit on the way,
 To Inverury as I went,
 I met a man, and bad him stay,
 Requeisting him to mak me quaint 20
 Of the beginning and the event,
 That happenit thair at the Harlaw ;
 Then he entreited me tak tent,
 And he the truth sould to me schaw.

IV.

Grit Donald of the Yles did claim 25
 Unto the lands of Ross sum richt,
 And to the Governour he came,
 Them for to haif, gif that he nicht :
 Quha saw his interest was but slicht ;
 And thairfore auswerit with disdain ; 30
 He hastit hame baith day and nicht,
 And sent nae bodword back again.

V.

But Donald richt impatient
 Of that answer Duke Robert gaif,
 He vovd to God Omnipotent, 35
 All the hale lands of Ross to haif,
 Or ells be graithed in his graif.
 He wald not quat his richt for nocht,
 Nor be abusit lyk a slaif,
 That bargin sould be deirly bocht. 40

VI.

Then haistylie he did command,
 That all his weir-men should convene,
 Ilk ane well harnisit frae hand,
 To meit and heir quhat he did mein ; 45
 He waxit wrath, and vowit tein,
 Sweirand he wald surpryse the North,
 Subdew the brugh of Aberdene,
 Mearns, Angus, and all Fyfe, to Forth.

VII.

Thus with the weir-men of the Yles,
 Quha war ay at his bidding bown, 50
 With mony maid, with forss and wyles,
 Richt far and neir baith up and doun :
 Throw mount and muir, frae town to town,
 Allangst the land of Ross he roais,
 And all obey'd at his bandown, 55
 Evin frae the North to Suthren shoars.

VIII.

Then all the Countrie men did yield ;
For nae resistans durst they mak,
Nor offer battill in the feild,
Be forss of arms to beir him bak ; 60
Syne they resolvit all and spak,
That best it was for thair behoif,
They sould him for thair chiftain tak,
Believing weil he did them loife.

IX.

Then he a proclamation maid, 65
All men to meet at Inverness,
Throw Murray Land to mak a raid,
Frae Arthursyre unto Spey-ness.
And further mair he sent express,
To schaw his collours and ensengie, 70
To all and sindry, mair and less,
Throchout the boundis of Boyn and Engie.

X.

And then throw fair Strathbogie land,
His purpose was for to pursew,
And quhasoevir durst gainstand, 75
That race they should full sairly rew.
Then he bad all his men be trew,
And him defend by forss and slicht,
And promist them rewardis anew,
And mak them men of mekle micht. 80

XI.

Without resistans, as he said,
 Throw all these parts he stoutly past,
 Quhair sum war wae, and sum war glaid,
 But Garioch was all agast.
 Throw all these feilds he sped him fast, 85
 For sic a sicht was never sene ;
 And then, forsuith, he langd at last
 To sé the Bruch of Aberdene.

XII.

To hinder this prowde enterprise,
 The stout and mighty Erle of Marr 90
 With all his men in arms did ryse,
 Even frae Curgarf to Craigyvar ;
 And down the syde of Don richt far ;
 Angus and Mearns did all convene
 To fecht, or Donald came sae nar 95
 The ryall bruch of Aberdene.

XIII.

And thus the martial Erle of Marr
 Marcht with his men in richt array,
 Befoir the enemie was ware,
 His banner bauldly did display. 100
 For weil enewch they kend the way,
 And all their semblance weil they saw,
 Without all dangir or delay,
 Came haistily to the HARLAW.

XIV.

With him the braif Lord Ogilvy, 105
Of Angus Sherriff principall,
The constabill of gude Dundé,
The vanguard led before them all.
Suppose in number they war small,
Thay first richt bauldlie did pursew, 110
And maid thair faes befor them fall,
Quha then that race did sairly rew.

XV.

And then the worthy Lord Salton,
The strong undoubted Laird of Drum,
The stalwart Laird of Lawristone, 115
With ilk thair forces all and sum.
Panmuir with all his men did cum,
The Provost of braif Aberdene,
With trumpets and with tuick of drum,
Came schortly in thair arinour schene. 120

XVI.

These with the Erle of Marr came on,
In the reir-ward richt orderlie,
Thair enemies to sett upon ;
In awfull manner hardilie,
Together vowit to live and die, 125
Since they had marchit mony mylis
For to suppress the tyrannie
Of douted Donald of the Yles.

XVII.

But he in number ten to ane,
 Richt subtilie alang did ryde, 130
 With Malcomtosch and fell Maclean,
 With all their power at thair syde,
 Presumeand on thair strength and pryde,
 Without all feir or ony aw,
 Richt bauldlie battill did abyde, 135
 Hard by the town of fair HARLAW.

XVIII.

The armies met, the trumpet sounds,
 The dandring drums alloud did touk,
 Baith armies byding on the bounds,
 Till ane of them the feild sould bruik. 140
 Nae help was thairfor, nane wald jouk,
 Ferss was the fecht on ilka syde,
 And on the ground lay mony a bouk
 Of them that thair did battill byde.

XIX.

With doutsum victorie they dealt, 145
 The bludy battil lastit lang,
 Each man his nibours forss thair felt ;
 The weakest aft-tymes gat the wrang.
 Thair was nae mowis thair them amang,
 Naithing was hard but heavy knocks, 150
 That eccho maid a dulefull sang,
 Thairto resounding frae the rocks.

XX.

But Donalds men at last gaif back ;
 For they war all out of array.
 The Earl of Marris men throw them brak, 155
 Pursewing shairply in thair way,
 Thair enemys to tak or slay,
 Be dynt of forss to gar them yield,
 Quha war richt blyth to win away,
 And sae for feirdness tint the feild. 160

XXI.

Then Donald fled, and that full fast,
 To mountains hich for all his micht ;
 For he and his war all agast,
 And ran till they war out of sicht :
 And sae of Ross he lost his richt, 165
 Thocht mony men with him he brocht,
 Towards the Yles fled day and nicht,
 And all he wan was deirlie bocht.

XXII.

This is, (quod he,) the richt report
 Of all that I did heir and knaw, 170
 Thocht my discourse be sumthing schort,
 Tak this to be a richt suthe saw.
 Contrairie God and the Kings law,
 Thair was spilt mekle Christian blude,
 Into the battil of HARLAW ; 175
 This is the sum, sae I conclude.

XXIII.

But yit a bony quhyle abyde,
 And I sall mak thé cleirly ken
 Quhat slauchter was on ilkay syde,
 Of Lowland and of Highland men, 180
 Quha for thair awin haif evir bene.
 These lazie lowns nicht weil be spaird,
 Chessit lyke deirs into thair dens,
 And gat thair waiges for rewaird.

XXIV.

Malcomtosh of the clan heid cheif, 185
 Macklean with his grit haughty heid,
 With all thair succour and releif,
 War dulefully dung to the deid.
 And now we are freid of thair feid,
 They will not lang to cum again ; 190
 Thousands of them without remeid
 On Donald's syd that day war slain.

XXV.

And on the uther syd war lost,
 Into the field that dismal day,
 Chief men of worth, (of mekle cost,) 195
 To be lamentit sair for ay.
 The Lord Saltoun and Rothemay,
 A man of nicht and mekle main ;
 Grit dolour was for his decay,
 That sae unhappylie was slain. 200

XXVI.

Of the best men amang them was,
The gracious gude Lord Ogilvy,
The Sheriff-Principal of Angus ;
Renownit for truth and equitie,
For faith and magnanimitie ; 205
He had few fallows in the feild,
Yit fell by fatall destinie,
For he nae ways wad grant to yield.

XXVII.

Sir James Scrimgeor of Duddap, Knicht,
Grit constabill of fair Dundé, 210
Unto the dulefull deith was dicht,
The Kingis cheif banner-man was he,
A valgiant man of chevalrie,
Quhais predecessors wan that place
At Spey, with gude King William frie, 215
Gainst Murray and Macduncan's race.

XXVIII.

Gude Sir Allexander Irvine,
The much renownit Laird of Drum,
Nane in his days was bettir sene,
Quhen they war semblit all and sum, 220
To praise him we sould not be dumme,
For valour, witt, and worthyness,
To end his days he ther did cum,
Quhois ransom is remeidylesse.

XXIX.

And thair the Knicht of Lawriston 225
 Was slain into his armour schene :
 And gude Sir Robert Davidson,
 Quha Provest was of Aberdene ;
 The Knicht of Panmure, as was sene,
 A martiall man in armour bricht, 230
 Sir Thomas Murray stout and kene,
 Left to the warld thair last gude nicht.

XXX.

Thair was not, sen King Keneths days,
 Sic strange intestine crewel stryf
 In Scotland sene, as ilk man says, 235
 Quhair mony lichtlie lost thair lyfe ;
 Quhilk maid divorce twene man and wyfe,
 And mony children fatherless,
 Quhilk in this realme has bene full ryfe ;
 Lord help these lands, our wrangs redress ! 240

XXXI.

In July, on Saint James his even,
 That four and twenty dismall day,
 Twelve hundred, ten score and eleven
 Of yeirs sen Chyrst, the suthe to say :
 Men will remember as they may, 245
 Quhen thus the veritie they knaw,
 And mony a ane may murn for ay,
 The brim battil of the HARLAW.

Finis.

The Thrie Tailles of the Thrie Priests of Peblis.

THE only printed edition of the "Tales of the Priests of Peblis," of which any trace now appears, is that produced at Edinburgh in 1603.¹ From this source these Tales were published by Mr. Pinkerton in 1792,² and a considerable portion of them by Mr. Sibbald in 1801.³ It was thought advisable, however, to include these Tales in this collection, as meriting to be better known, and more accessible than at present they can be said to be.

The title of the original edition is as follows:—

The thrie Tailles of the thrie Priests of Peblis.

Contayning many notabill examples and sentences and (that the paper sould not be voide) supplyit with sundrie merie tailles very pleasant to the Reader and mair exactlie corrected than the former Impression.⁴

OVID.

Expectanda dies homini est, dicique beatus
Ante obitum nemo supremaque funera debet.

IMPRINTED AT EDINBURGH be Robert Charteris 1603.

CVM PRIVILEGIO REGALI.

¹ At the end is an advertisement, stating that the printer had set forth with the King's Majesties license "sundrie uther delectabill discourses,—sic as are David Lindsayes Play; Philotus; and the Freirs of Berwick and Biblo." It has been asked, but in vain, if any one ever heard of Biblo. The other "discourses" are better known.

² Scotish Poems, &c. 1792, vol. i. p. 1-49.

³ Chronicle of Scotish Poetry, vol. ii.

⁴ The merie tailles mentioned in the above title-page are

In "The Complaynt of Scotland" (1549) there is an allusion to these Tales. "The Priests of Peblis (says the author) speiris an questioun in ane beuk that he compilit, quhy that burgis aris thryuis nocht to the thrid ayr," &c. From this passage we might almost infer that "the beuk" had been but recently compiled. Mr. Pinkerton, however, observes, that the Tales "appear, from internal evidence, to have been written before the year 1492, because the kingdom of Grenada is mentioned as not yet Christian. Conjecture (he shrewdly adds) may well suppose that they were intended to chastise the weak government of James III., slain in 1488." With regard to the author, not the slightest hint is to be discovered; and, therefore, it were idle to have recourse to such suppositions as those in which Mr. Sibbald indulged;—who at length seemed to have settled the matter to his own conviction, by fixing their date between 1533 and 1540, and attributing them to John Rolland, the author of a metrical version of the "Sevin Sagis," which passed through several editions; and of a long dull moral poem, under the title of "The Court of Venus," printed at Edinburgh in 1575, of which one copy alone is known to be preserved. In answer to all Mr. Sibbald's conjectures, it is enough to state that a portion of these Tales, with the title, "Heir begynnis the buke of the thre prestis of Peblis how thai told thar Tales," is contained in a MS. which appears to have been transcribed at least twenty years previous to the date he assigns for their composition, and probably before Roiland was born.

Mr. Pinkerton says, "It is hardly necessary to remark, that these Tales of the Priests are more moral than facetious, and that their chief merit consists in a naif delineation of ancient manners." In like manner, the biographer of the Scottish Poets has said: "The three priests of Peebles, having met on St. Bride's day for the purpose of regaling themselves, agree, that each in his turn shall endeavour to entertain the rest by relating some story. They acquit in prose, and printed in a "small letter on the margin: they are taken from George Peele's Jests," of which the earliest known impression seems to be that of 1607, although it was licensed in 1605, and might be supposed, from the above reference, to have been in existence in or before 1603.

themselves with sufficient propriety. The tales are of a moral tendency, but, at the same time, are free from the dulness which so frequently infests the perceptive compositions of our earlier poets." ¹

The Preface.

IN Peblis town sumtyme, as I heard tell,
 The formest day of Februare, befell
 Thrie Priests went unto collatioun,
 Into ane privie place of the said toun.
 Quhair that they sat, richt soft and unfute sair ; 5
 They lufit not na rangald nor repair :
 And, gif I sall the suith reckin and say,
 I traist it was upon Sanct Bryd's day.
 Quhair that they sat, full easily and soft ;
 With monie lowd lauchter upon loft. 10
 And, wit ye weil, thir thrie thay maid gude cheir ;
 To them thair was na dainties than too deir :
 With thrie fed capons on a speit with creische,
 With monie uthirsindrie dyvers meis.
 And them to serve thay had nocht bot a boy ; 15
 Fra cumpanie thay keipit them sa coy,
 They lufit nocht with ladry, nor with lown,
 Nor with trumpours to travel throw the toun ;
 Both with themself quhat thay wald tel or crak ;
 Umquhyle sadlie ; umquhyle jangle and jak ; 20
 Thus sat thir thrie besyde ane felloun fyre,
 Quhil thair capons war roistit lim and lyre.
 Befoir them was sone set a Roundel bricht,
 And with ane clene claith, finelie dicht,
 It was ouriset ; and on it breid was laid. 25
 The eldest than began the grace, and said,

¹ Irving's Lives of the Scotch Poets, vol. i. p. 372.
 VOL. I. I

And blissit the breid with Benedicite,
 With Dominus, Amen, sa mot I the.
 And be they had drunken about a quarte,
 Than spak ane thus, that Master was in Arte, 30
 And to his name their callit Johne was he ;
 And said, sen we ar heir Priests thrie,
 Syne wants nocht, be him that maid the mone,
 Til us wee think ane tail sould cum in tune.
 Than spake ane uther, to name hecht M. Archebald,
 Now, be the hiest Hevin, quod he, I hald 30
 To tel ane tail, methink, I sould not tyre,
 To hald my fute out of this felloun fyre.
 Than spak the thrid, to name hecht S. Williame,
 To grit clargie I can not count nor clame ; 40
 Nor yet I am not travellit, as ar ye,
 In monie sundrie land beyond the see.
 Thairfoir me think it nouthar shame nor sin,
 Ane of yow twa the first tail to begin.
 Heir I protest, than spak maister Archebald, 45
 Ane travellit Clark suppois I be cald,
 Presumpteouslie I think not to presume,
 As I that was never travellit bot to Rome.
 To tel ane tail bot eirar I suppose,
 The first tail tald mot be Maister Johne : 50
 For he hath bene in monie uncouth land,
 In Portingale, and in Civile the grand ;
 In fyve kinrikis of Spane al hes he bene ;
 In foure christin, and ane heathin, I wene.
 In Rome, Flanders, and in Venice touu ; 55
 And other Lands sundrie up and doun.
 And for that he spak first of ane tail,
 Thairfoir to begin he sould not fail.
 Thein speiks maister Johne, Now be the Rude,
 Me to begin ane tail sen ye conclude, 60
 An I deny than had I sair offendit,
 The thing begun the soner it is endit.

The first taile tald be maister Johne.

A KING thair was sumtyme, and eik a Queene ;
 As monie in the land befoir had bene.
 This king gart set ane plane parliament, 65
 And for the Lords of his kinrik sent :
 And, for the weilfair of his Realme and gyde,
 The thrie Estaits concludit at that tyde.
 The king gart cal to his palice al thrie,
 The estaits llkane in thair degrie. 70
 The Bishops first, with Prelats and Abbotis,
 With thair Clarks servants, and Varlottis :
 Into ane hall, was large, richt hie, and hudge,
 Thir Prelats all richt lustelie couth ludge.
 Syne in ane hal, ful fair farrand, 75
 He ludgit al the Lords of his Land.
 Syne in ane Hal, was under that ful clene,
 He harbourit all his burgessis, rich and bene.
 Sa of thir thrie Estaits, al and sum,
 In thir thrie Hals he gart the wysest cum. 80
 And of thair mery cheir quhat mak I mair ?
 They fuir als weil as onie folk nicht fair.
 THE King himself come to this Burgessis bene ;
 And thir words to them carps I wene,
 And says, Welcum burgessis, my bield and bliss! 85
 Quhen ye fair weil I ma na mirths mis.
 Quhen that your ships halds hail and sound,
 In riches gudes and weilfair I abound.
 Ye are the caus of my life, and my cheir,
 Out of far Lands your Marchandice cums heir. 90
 Bot ane thing is, for short, the cause quhy
 Togidder heir yow gart cum have I.
 To yow I have ane questioun to declair,
 Quhy Burges bairns thyyves not to the thrid air ?

Bot casts away it that thair eldars wan. 95
 Declair me now this questioun, gif ye can ;
 To yow I gif this questioun, al and sum,
 For to declair againe the morne I cum.
 VNTO his Lords that cumen is the king,
 Dois gladlie al he said baith old and ying: 100
 My lustie Lords, my Leiges, and my lyfe,
 I am in sturt quhen that ye ar in stryfe.
 Quhen ye have peace, and quhen ye have pleasance,
 Than I am glade, and derflie may I dance.
 Ane heid dow not on bodie stand allane, 105
 Fourout memberis, to be of micht and mane ;
 For to uphald the bodie and the heid ;
 And sickerlie to gar it stand in steid.
 Thairfoir, my Lords, and my Barrouns bald,
 To me alhail ye ar help and uphald. 110
 And now I will ye wit, with diligence,
 Quhairfoir that I gart cum sic confluence :
 And quhy ye Lords of my Parliament,
 I have gart cum, I will tell my intent.
 Ane questioun I have, ye mon declair, 115
 That in my minde is ever mair and mair ;
 Quhairfoir, and quhy, and quhat is the cais,
 Sa worthie Lords war in myne elders dayis ;
 Sa full of fredome, worship, and honour,
 Hardie in hart, to stand in everie stour. 120
 And now in yow I find the hail contrair ?
 Thairfoir this dout and questioun ye declair.
 And it declair, under the hiest pane ;
 The morne this tyme quhen that I cum agane.
 THAN till his Clergie come this nobil king ; 125
 Welcum bishops, he said, with my blissing ;
 Welcum my beidmen, my blesse, and al my beild ;
 To me ye ar baith Helmeit, Speir, and Scheild.
 For richt as Moyses stude upon the Mont,
 Prayand to God of Hevin, as he was wont ; 130

And richt sa, be your devoit orisoun,
 Myne enemies sould put to confusioun.
 Ye ar the gainest gait, and gyde, to God ;
 Of al my Realme ye ar the rewl and rod.
 It that ye dome think it should be done ; 135
 Quhen that ye shrink, I have ane sunyie sone.
 Thus be yow ay ane example men tais :
 And as ye say than al and sundrie sayis :
 It that ye think richt, or yit ressoun,
 To that I can nor na man have chessoun. 140
 And that ye think unressoun, or wrang,
 Wee al and sundrie sings the samin sang.
 Bot ane thing is I wald ye understude,
 The cause into this place for to conclude,
 Quhairfoir and quhy I gart yow hidder cum, 145
 My Clargie, and my Clarks, al and sum ;
 To yow I have na uther tail, nor theame,
 Exceptand to yow Bishops a probleame ;
 Quhilk is to me ane questioun and dout ;
 Out of my mind I wald ye put it out. 150
 That is to say, Quhairfoir and quhy
 In auld times and days of ancestry,
 Sa monie Bishops war, and men of kirk,
 Sa grit wil had ay gude warkes to wirk.
 And throw thair prayers, maid to God of micht, 155
 The dum men spak ; the blind men gat their sicht ;
 The deif men heiring ; the cruikit gat thair feit ;
 War nane in bail bot weill thay culd them beit.
 To seik folks, or in sairnes syne,
 Til al thay wald be mendis, and medecyne. 160
 And quhairfoir now in your tyme ye warie ;
 As thay did than quhairfoir sa may not ye ;
 Quhairfoir may not ye as thay did than ?
 Declair me now this questioun, gif ye can.

To the Burgessis.

VPON the morne, efter service and meet, 165
 The King came in, and sat down in his sait,
 Into the hal, amang the Burges men ;
 With him ane Clark, with ink, paper, and pen.
 And bad them that they sould, foroutin mair,
 His questioun reid, assolye, and declair. 170
 Aud the Burgessis, that this questioun weil knew,
 Hes ordaned ane wyse man, and ane trew,
 The questioun to reid foroutin fail.
 And he stude up, and this began his tail.

The answeir to the first questioun.

EXCELLENT, hie, richt mighty prince and
 King ! 175
 Your hienes heir wald faine wit of this thing,
 Quhy burges bairnis thryvis not to the thrid air ;
 Can never thryve bot of al baggis is bair.
 And ever mair that is for to say,
 It that thair eldars wan thay cast away ? 180
 This questioun declair ful weill I can :
 Thay begin not quhair thair fathers began.
 Bot, with ane heily hart, baith doft and derft,
 Thay ay begin quhair that thair fathers left.
 Of this mater largelie to speik mair, 185
 Quhy that thay thryve not to the thrid air ;
 Becaus thair fathers purelie can begin ;
 With [a] hap, and [a] halfpenny, and a lambs skin.
 And purelie run fra toun to toun on feit ;
 And that richt oft wetshod, werie, and weit. 190
 Quhilk at the last of monie smale couth mak
 This bonie pedder ane gude fute pak.
 At ilkane fair this chapman ay was fund ;
 Quhil that his pak was wirth fourtie pund.
 To beir his pak, quhen that he feillit force, 195
 He bocht ful sone ane mekil stalwart hors.

And at the last so worthelie up wan,
 He bocht ane cart to carie pot and pan ;
 Baith Flanders coffers, with counters and kist ;
 He wox ane grand rich man, or anie wist. 200
 And syne into the town, to sel and by,
 He held a chop to sel his chaffery.
 Than bocht he wol, and wyselie couth it wey.
 And efter that some saylit he the sey ;
 Than come he hame a verie potent man ; 205
 And spousit syne a michtie wyfe richt than.
 He sailit ouer the sey sa oft and oft,
 Quhil at the last ane semelie ship he coft.
 And waxe sa ful of warldis welth and win ;
 His hands he wish in ane silver basin. 210
 Foroutin gold or silver into hurde,
 Wirth thrie thousand pund was his copburde.
 Riche was his gounis with uther garments gay ;
 For sonday silk, for ilk day grene and gray.
 His wyfe was cumlie cled in scarlet reid. 215
 Scho had no doubt of derth of ail nor breid.
 And efter that, within a twentie yeir,
 He sone gat up ane stelwart man and steir.
 And efter that this burges we of reid
 Deit, as we mon do al indeid. 220
 And fra [that] he was deid than come his sone,
 And enterit in the welth that he had wone.
 He steppit not his steps in the streit,
 To win this welth ; nor for it was he weit.
 Quhen he wald sleip, he wantis not a wink 225
 To win this welth : na for it sweit na swink.
 Thairfoir that lichtlie cums wil lichtlie ga.
 To win this welth he had na work, nor wa.
 To win this gude he had not ane il houre ;
 Quhy sould he have the sweit, had not the soure? 230
 Upon his fingers with riche rings on raw,
 His mother not tholit the reik on him to blaw.

And wil not heir, for very shame and sin,
 That ever his father sald ane sheip skin.
 He wald him sayne with Benedicite, 235
 Quha spak of onie degrading of his degrie.
 With twa men and ane varlot at his bak ;
 And ane libberly ful lytil to lak.
 With ane wald he baith wod and wraith,
 Quha at him speirit how sald he the claith ? 240
 At hasard wald he derflie play at dyse ;
 And to the taverne eith he was to tyse.
 Thus wist he never of wa, bot ay of weil,
 Quhil he had slielie slidden fra his seil ;
 Syne to the court than can he mak repair, 245
 And fallow himsyne to ane Lordis air.
 He weips nocht for na warldis welth, nor win,
 Quhil drink and dyce have pourit him to the pin.
 He can not mak be craft to win ane eg ;
 Quhat ferlie is, thoch burges bairnes beg ? 250
 And, Sir, this is the caus, as I declair,
 Quhy burges bairnis thrives not to the thrid air.
 Weil, quod the King, thow servis thy rewaird ;
 For wyselie hes thow this questioun declaird.
 Sir Clark, tak ink, with pen on paper wryte ; 255
 And as he said thow dewlie put on dyte.

' To the Lordis.'

THAN to his Lords cum is this nobil king,
 Desyrand for to wit the solyeing
 Of this questioun, this probleame, and this dout ;
 The quhilks lords had al round about, 260
 Advysetlie, as weil it sould accord,
 Thair language laid upon ane agit Lord.
 The quhilk stude up, and richt wyselie did vail
 Unto the King, and this began his taill :

The answers to the second questioun.

EXCELLENT, hie, richt mighty Prince and sure ! 295

Ay at your call we ar, under your cure.
And now sen ye have gart us hither cum,
This dout for to declair, baith al and sum,
That is to say, the cause quhairfoir and quhy
Sic worthie Lords war in dayis gane by ; 270
Sa ful of fredome, worschip, and honour,
Hardie in hart, to stand in everie stour :
And now in us ye meine ay mair and mair
Into your tyme ye find the hail contrair ?
Sir, this it is the caus, quhairfoir and quhy : 275
Your Justice ar sa ful of surquedry ;
Sa covetous and ful of avarice,
That thay your Lords impairis of thair pryce.
Thay dyte your lords, and heryis up your men :
The thief now fra the leillman quaha can ken ? 280
Thay wryte up leill and fals, baith al and sum ;
And dytes them under ane pardoun.
'Thus, be the husbandman never sa leil,
He dytit is, as ane thief is, to steil.
Thay luke to nocht bot gif ane man have
gude ; 285
And it I trow man pay the Justice sude :
The thief ful weill he wil himself overby ;
Quhen the leill man into the lack will ly.
The leil man for to compone will nocht consent,
Because he waits he is ane innocent. 290
Thus ar the husbands dytit al but dout ;
And heryit quyte away al around about.
Sumtyme, quhen husbandmen went to the weir,
Thay had ane jack, ane bow, or els ane speir :
And now befoir quhair they had ane bow, 295
Ful faine he is on bak to get ane fow.

And for ane jak ane raggit cloke hes tane ;
 Ane sword, sweir out, and roustie for the rane.
 Quhat sould sic men to gang to ane hoist,
 Lyker to beg than enemies to boist ? 300
 And your Lords, fra thair tennantes be puir,
 Of gold in kist na koffer has na cuir.
 Fra thay be al puir that ar them under ;
 Thoch tha be puir your Lords, is na wonder :
 For ritche husbands and tenants of grit might 305
 Helps ay thair Lords to hald thair richt.
 And quhen your Lords ar puir, thus to conclude,
 Thay sel thair sonnes and airs for gold and gude ;
 Unto ane mokrand carle, for derest pryse,
 That wist never yit of honour, nor gentryse. 310
 This worship, and honour of linage,
 Away it weirs thus for thair disparage.
 Thair manheid and thair mense this gait thay
 murle ;
 In mariage thus unyte with ane churle.
 The quhilk wist never of gentrie, na honour, 315
 Of fredome, worship, vassalage, nor valour.
 This is the caus dreidles, for withoutin dout,
 Fra al your Lords how honour is al out.
 And thus my Lords bade me to yow say,
 How honour, fredome, and worship, is away. 320
 THAN spak the King, Your conclusion is quaint ;
 And thairattour ye mak to us a plaint :
 And in your sentence thus ye meine to say,
 Leil men ar hurt, and theifis gets away.
 And thus methink ye meine justice is smuird ; 325
 Your tennants and your leill husbands ar puird :
 And, quhan that thay ar puird, than ar ye puir.
 The quhilk to yow is baith charge and cure ;
 That ye for gold baith wed and wage ;
 Ye sel your sonnes and aires in mariage 330

To cairls of kynde ; and, bot for thair riches,
 In quhom is na nurture, nor nobilnes,
 Fredome, worschip, manheid, nor honour,
 The quhilk to us and yow is dishonour.
 In samekil this shortly I conclude, 335
 As ye that are discendand of our blude,
 For the quhilk thing I will ye understand,
 With Gods grace, wee tak it upon hand,
 To se for this, as ressoun can remeid ;
 In tyme to cum thair of thair be na pleid. 340
 With our Justice thair sal pas ane Doctour,
 That lufis God, his saul, and our honour.
 The quhilk sal be ane Doctour in the Law,
 That sal the faith and veritie weil know :
 And frae hence furth he sal baith heir and se 345
 Baith theif puneist, and leil men live in lie.
 For weil I wait thair can be na war thing
 Than covetyce in Justice or in King.

Efter this tail in us ye sal not taint ;
 Nor yit of our Justice to mak ane plaint. 350
 And afterward sa did this King but chessoun ;
 On him nicht na man plenie of ressoun.
 Syne bad his Clark, but onie variance,
 Wryte this in his buik of rememberance.

‘ To the Clergie. ’

THAN to the Clergie come this nobill king 355
 Of his questioun to heir the absolving.
 And thay, as men of wisdome in al wark,
 Had laid thair speich upon ane cunning clark.
 The quhilk in vane in scule had not tane
 grie ;
 In al science[s] sevin he was an A per se : 360
 And in termis short and sentence fair
 The questioun began for to deciair.

That is to say quhairfoir and quhy,
 In auld times and dayes of ancestry,
 Sa monie Bishops war and men of kirk 365
 Sa grit wil had ay gude warkes to wirk ;
 And throw thair prayers, maid to God of micht,
 The dum men spak ; the blind men gat thair sicht ;
 The deif men heiring ; the cruiket gat thair feit ;
 Was nane in bail bot weil thay could them beit. 370
 And quhairfoir now al that cuir can warie,
 Methink ye mene quhairfoir sa may not we ?
 And thus it is your quodlibet and dout,
 Ye gave to us to reid, and gif it out.

The answer to the thrid questioun.

THIS is the caus, richt nichtie King ! at short, 375
 To your Hienes as we sal thus report.
 The lawit folkes this law wald never ceis
 But with thair use, quhen Bishops war to cheis,
 Unto the kirk they gadred, auld and ying,
 With meik hart, fasting and praying ; 380
 And prayit God, with word[i]s not in waist,
 To send them wit doun be the halie Gaist,
 Quhan them amang was onie Bishop deid,
 To send to them ane Bishop in his steid.
 And yet amang us ar fund wayis thrie 385
 To cheis ane Bishope, after ane uthir die.
 That is to say the way of the Halie Gaist,
 Quhilk takin is of micht and vertue maist.
 The second is, by way of electioun,
 Ane Parsonne for to cheis of perfectioun, 390
 In that cathedral kirk, and in that se,
 In place quhair that Bishope suld chosen be :
 And gif thair be nane abil thair that can
 That office weil steir, quhat sal thay than

Bot to the thrid way to ga forthi? 395
 Quhilk is callit (via[m] scrutavi)
 That is to say, in al the realme and land,
 Ane man to get for that office gainand.
 Bot thir thrie wayis, withoutin ony pleid,
 Ane sould we cheis after ane uthers deid, 400
 Bot, Sir, now the contrair wee find,
 Quhilk puts al our heavines behind.
 Now sal thair nane, of thir wayis thrie,
 Be chosen now ane Bishope for to be ;
 Bot that your nicht and Majestie wil mak 405
 Quhatever he be, to loife or yit to lak ;
 Than heyly to sit on the rayne-bow.
 Thir Bishops cums in at the north window ;
 And not in at the dur, nor yit at the yet :
 But over waine and quheil in wil he get. 410
 And he cummis not in at the dur,
 Gods pleuch may never hald the fur[w].
 He is na Hird to keip thay sely sheip ;
 Nocht bot ane tod in ane lambskin to creip.
 How sould he kyth mirakil, and he sa evil? 415
 Never bot by the dysmel, or the devil.
 For, now on dayes, is nouthar riche nor puir
 Sal get ane kirk, al throw his literature.
 For science, for vertew, or for blude,
 Gets nane the kirk, bot baith for gold and gude. 420
 Thus, greit excellent King ! the Halie Gaist
 Out of your men of gude away is chaist :
 And, war not that doutles I yow declair,
 That now as than wald hail baith seik and sair.
 Sic wickednes this world is within, 425
 That symonie is countit now na sin.
 And thus is the caus, baith al and sum,
 Quhy blind men sicht, na heiring gets na dum.
 And thus is the caus, the suith to say,
 Quhy halines fra kirkmen is away. 430

Than, quod the King, well understand I yow.
 And heir to God I mak ane aith and vow,
 And to my crown and to my cuntrie to,
 With kirk-gude sal I never have ado,
 It to dispone to lytil or to large ; 435
 Kirkmen to kirk sen they have al the charge.

Than had this nobil King lang tyme and space ;
 And in his tyme was mekil luk and grace.
 His Lordis honourit him efter thair degrie ;
 The Husbands peice had and tranquillitie ; 440
 The Kirk was frie quhil he was in his lyfe ;
 The Burges sones began than for to thryfe.
 And eftir long was never king more wyse :
 And levit and deit, and endit in Gods servise.
 And than spak all that fellowship but fail : 445
 God and Sanct Martyne quyte yow of your tail.
 And than spak Maister Archebald : falliswe
 Gude tail or evil, quhider that ever it be.
 Thus, as I can, I sal it tel but hyre,
 To hald my fute out of this felloun fyre. 450

The second taill tald be D. Archebald.

A KING thair was sumtyme, and eik a Queene,
 As monie in the land befoir had bene.
 The king was fair in persoun, fresh and fors ;
 Ane feirie man on fute, as yit on hors.
 And nevertheles feil falts him befell : 455
 Hee luifit over weil yong counsel :
 Yong men he luifit to be him neist ;
 Yong men to him thay war baith Clark and Preist.
 Hee luifit nane was ald, or ful of age ;
 Sa did he nane of sad counsel nor sage. 460
 To sport and play quhyle up and quhylum doun,
 To al lichtness ay was he redie boun.

Sa our the sey cummin thair was a clark
 Of greit science, of voyce, word, and wark.
 And dressit him with al his besynes 455
 Thus with this king to mak his recidens.
 Weil saw he with this king nicht na man byde,
 Bot thay that wald al sadnes set on syde.
 With club and bel, and partie cote with eiris,
 He feinyeit him ane fule, fond in his feiris. 470
 French and Dutche, and Italie yit als,
 Weil could he speik, and Latine feinye fals.
 Unto the kirk he came, befor the king,
 With club and cote, and monie bel to ring.
Dieu gard, sir King, I bid nocht hald in hiddil ; 475
 I am to yow als sib as seif is to ane riddil.
 Betwixt us twa mot be als mekil grace,
 As frost and sna fra Yule is unto Pace.
 Wait yee how the Frenche man sayis syne,
Nul bon, he sayis, monsieur sans pyne. 480
 With that he gave ane loud lauchter on loft :
 Honour and eis, sir, quha may have for nocht ?
 Cum on thy way, sir king, now for Sanct Jame,
 Thow with me, or I with the, gang hame.
 Now, be Sanct Katherine, quod the king, and smyld, 485
 This fule hes monie waverand word and wyld.
 Cum hame with mee : thow sal have drink ynouch.
Grand mercy, quod the fuill agane, and leuch.
 Now, quod the king, fra al dulnes and dule
 Wee may us keip, quhil that wee have this fuil. 490
 He feinyeit him a fuil in deid and word ;
 The wyser man the better can be bourd.
 Quhil at the last this fuil was callit alway
 Fuil of fuiles, and that ilk man wald say,
 Thus was this fuil ay stil with the King, 495
 Quhil he had weil considerit in al thing

The conditiouns, use, manner, and the gyse,
And coppingit weil the King on his best wyse.

Sa fel it on a day this nobil King
Unto ane cietie raid for his sporting : 500
This fuil persavit weil the King wald pas,
Unto ane uther cietie as it was,
He tuke his club, and ane table, in his hand,
For to prevene the tyme he was gangand.
Sa be the way ane woundit man fand he ; 505
And with this fuil war runners, twa or thrie,
Sum of the court, and sum of the kitchene,
And saw ane man but Leiche or Medycene
Sa sair woundit nicht nouthor ga nor steir :
At him this fuil con al the caus speir. 510
He answered, and said, Rever and thief,
Thou hes me hurt, and brocht me in mischeif.
With that his wounds war fillit ful of fleis,
As ever in byke theair biggit onie beis.
Than ane of them, that had pitie, can pray 515
That he mot skar they felloun fleis away.
Than spak the fuil and said, lat them be now, man ;
For thay ar ful ; the hungrie wil cum than.
For thir dois nocht bot sit, as thou may se ;
For thay ar als ful as thay may be : 520
Be thir away, it is evil, and na gude,
The hungrie fleis wil cum and souk his blude.
The ofter that thir fleis away be cheist,
The new fleis will mair of his blude waist :
And draw his blude, and souk him sine sa sair ; 525
Thairfoir lat them alane ; skar them na mair.
The sair man him beheld, and him he demes,
And said he was not sik a fuil as he semes.

Sone after that ane lytil came the King,
With monie man can gladelie sport and sing ; 530
Ane cow of birks into his hand had he,
To keip than weil his face fra midge and fle.

For than war monie fleand up and doun,
 Throw kynd of yeir, and hait of that regioun.
 Sa lukit he ane lytil by the way, 535
 He saw the woundit man, quhair that he lay.
 And to him came he rydand, and can fraine,
 Quhat ailit him to ly and sairly graine?
 The man answered, I have sik sturt,
 For beith with theif and rever I am hurt. 540
 And yit, suppois I have all the pyne,
 The falt is yowris, sir King, and nathing myne.
 For, and with yow gude counsal war ay cheif,
 Than wald ye stanche weill baith rever and theif.
 Have thow with thé, that can weil dance and sing, 545
 Thow taks nocht thocht thi realms weip and wring.
 With that the King the bob of birks can wave,
 The fleis away out of his woundis to have :
 And than began the woundit man to grane,
 Do nocht sa, Sir, allace ! I am slane. 550
 How sayis thow, thow tell me ? quod the King,
 Quhy thow sayis sa, I ferly, of this thing ?
 And sa said al his men, that stude about,
 Thow wald be hail and thay war chasit out.
 The sair can say, be him that can us save, 555
 Your fule, sir King, hes mair wit than ye have.
 And weil I ken, be his phisnomie,
 He hes mair wit nor al your cumpanie.
 My tung is sweir, my bodie hes na strenth,
 Frane at your fule he can tel yow at lenth ; 560
 I am but deid, and I may speik na mair,
 Adew, sir, for I have said : weil mot ye fair.

Fra this sair man now cummin is the King,
 Havand in mynd great murmour and moving ;
 And in his hart greit havines and thocht, 565
 Sa wantonly in vane al thing he wrocht ;
 And how the cuntrie throw him was misfarne,
 Throw yong counsel, and wrocht ay as a barne.

And yit, as he was droupand thus in dule,
 Of al and al he ferleit of his fule : 570
 Quhat kynde of man this fuil with him sould be ;
 And quhat this sair man be this fuil micht se.
 And quhat it is the caus, quhairfoir and quhy,
 He was wyser than al his cumpany.
 Quhan cummin was the King to that citie,
 Full fast than for his fule frainit he.
 And quhan the King was set doun to his meit,
 Unto his fuil gart mak ane semely seit ;
 Ane Roundel with ane cleine claith had he,
 Neir quhair the King micht him baith heir and se. 580
 Than, quod the King a lytil wie, and leuch :
 Sir fuil, ye ar lordly set aneuch :
 Quhan ye ar fuil, quhat cal thay yow and how,
 Sa hamely as ye ar with me now ?
 Sir to my name thay cal me fule Fictus, 585
 Befoir yow as ye may se me sit thus ;
 And of this cuntrie certes am I borne,
 With luk, and grace, and fortoun me beforene.
 Schir fuill, tell me gif that ye saw this day
 Ane woundit man ly granand by the way ? 590
 Ye, sir, forsuith sik ane man couth I sie :
 And in his wound was monie felloun flie.
 Now, quod the King, Sir fuill, to me ye say
 Quhy skarrit ye not thay flies al away ?
 Thocht ye it was ane deid of charitie 595
 In seik mans wound for to leife ane flie ?
 Sir, trow me weill, full suith it is I say,
 Better was stil thay fleis, than skarrit away ;
 For gif sa be the fleis away ye skar ;
 Than efter them cums hungriar be far. 600
 Thairfoir war better let them be, but dout,
 For the full fleis halds the hungrie out.
 The hungrie flie, that never had been thair,
 Scho souks the mans wound sa wonder sair ;

And quhen the fleis ar ful than byde thay stil, 605
 And stops the hungrie beis to come thairtil.
 Bot, sir, allace, methink sa do not ye ;
 Ye ar sa licht and full of vanitie :
 And sa weil lufis al new things to persew ;
 That ilk sessioun ye get ane servant new. 610
 Qnhat wil the ane now say unto the uther ?
 Now steir thy hand, myne awin deir brother ;
 Win fast be tyme, and be nocht lidder :
 For wit thou weil, Hal binks ar ay slidder.
 Thairfoir now, quhither wrang it be or richt, 615
 Now gadder fast, quhil we have tyme and nicht.
 Sé na man now to the King eirand speik,
 Bot gif we get ane bud ; or ellis we sal it breik.
 And quhan thay ar ful of sic wrang win,
 Thay get thair leif: and hungryar cums in. 620
 Sa sharp ar thay, and narrowlie can gadder,
 Thay pluck the puir, as thay war powand hadder.
 And taks buds fra men baith neir and far ;
 And ay the last ar than the first far war.
 Justice, Crounar, Sarjand, and Justice Clark, 625
 Removes the auld, and new men ay thay mark.
 Thus fla thay al the puir men belly flaucht ;
 And fra the puir taks many felloun fraucht,
 And steirs them, and wait the tide wil gang,
 Syne efter that far hungrier cums than. 630
 And thus gait ay the puir folk ar at under :
 This world to sink for sin quhat is it wonder ?
 Thairfoir now, be this exampil we may se,
 That ane new servant is lyke ane hungrie fle.
 Than, quod the King, quhat say ye to our fule ? 635
 Suppois that he had bene ane clark at scule ?
 To God now, quod the King, I make ane vow,
 Ye are not sik ane fule as ye set yow.
 Thus wonderit al, the King that sat about,
 And of this fule had ferly, dreid, and dout. 640

Thocht he was fule in habit, in al feiris,
 Ane wyser speik thay hard never with thair eiris.
 Thus ferlyit al thair was, baith he and he,
 Quhat manner of ane thing this micht be ;
 And lyke to ane was nocht into Rome, 645
 Yit than his word was full of al wisdome,
 For he as fule began guckit and gend,
 And ay the wyser man neirar the end.
 And thus the King and al his cumpany
 Upon this fuil had wonder and ferly. 650

Of the slaying of the man.

SYNE efter this ane gentleman percaice
 Had slane ane man, al throw his raklesnes.
 And to the court he come, and tald this thing
 Unto ane man was inward with the King ;
 And said, sir, lo ! I am in the King's grace, 655
 That hes ane man slane in my fault, allace !
 And will ye gar the King to that consent,
 For it I sal yow pay, and content.
 This courteour held on this to the King ;
 And tald him al this tail to the ending. 660
 And than the King, for his lufe and instance,
 Bad bring the man that happened that mischance.
 Unto the King his taill quhen he had tald ;
 Ful sharplie to this man he could behald :
 Ane semelie man of mak sa semit he. 665
 To slay that man he thocht ane greit pitie.
 And bad him passe quhair he lykit to ga ;
 And be gude man and efter sla na ma.
 Sone efter that, within half a yeir,
 Ane uther man he slew withoutin weir. 670

Of the second slayne man.

THAN to the court he cummin is agane,
 Unto this man befor his gold had tane ;

And said, sir, I have slane, allace !
 Ane uther man, throw misfortune and cace.
 And wald ye help me, befoir as ye have done, 675
 Ane sowme of silver ye sould have ful sone :
 Another sowme I sall give to the King ;
 Me hartlie to forgive into this thing.
 Help me now, for God's owin deid :
 Nane uther buit at yow I get remeid, 680
 This courteour him answered thus agane :
 This deid to do I am uncertane.
 Quhen that thow slew bot ane throw raklesnes,
 Of that thow micht have gotten forgivenes :
 Sa may it nocht, quhen thow hes slane thus twa ; 685
 Notwithstanding I wil for the ga ;
 The for to help I sal get sib assay ;
 And for the do alsmekil as I may.
 Unto the King than come this courteour,
 And lukit weil baith to his tyme and hour : 690
 He lukit quhan the King was blyth and glad,
 And nocht quhen he was heavie nor sad.
 Ful lawlie set he doun upon his kne,
 Lo, sir, he said, ane thing of greit pitie !
 The man that ye forgave, syne half ane yeir, 695
 Another man now hes he slane but weir.
 Ane certaine sowme of gold thus sal ye get,
 And ye wald all your crabitnes foryet.
 He wepes, and he sichts now sa sair,
 That he sik misse will efter do na mair : 700
 In all your realme thair is na wichter man ;
 Greit pitie is it for to tyne him than.
 Ye may him have, and of his gold and geir,
 He will stand yow in steid in tyme of weir.
 Suppois he hes slane twa, better it is than ye 705
 Have twa men slane, then thus for to sla thrie.
 Thairfoir heir I beseik yow in this cace
 That ye wald tak him in your gudelie grace.

The King bad than bring him to his presence,
 And him forgave all fault and offence : 710
 And bad him ga, and do sik misse na mair ;
 Thus tuke this man his leif and hame can fair.
 Syne efterward this man that we of reid
 The thrid man hes he slane yit indeid.

Of the thride slayne man.

THAN to the court agane maid his repair, 715
 Sik grace to get agane as he did air.
 Sa come hee to the courteour to tell,
 His fortoun and his cace how it befell.
 This courteour to speik wald not spair,
 For yow forsuith, sir, dar I speik na mair : 720
 Sa oft and oft ye have done sik mischeif ;
 I dar not speik it to the King for greif.
 Now be my saul, and sa mot I do weill,
 Is na remeid, als far as I can feill,
 Or quhither that ye sal live the land, allace, 725
 Or put yow yit into the King's grace.
 This courteour agane unto the King
 Now cummin is, and tald hail this thing ;
 And how the man, befoir the twa had slane,
 The thrid man thus hes he slane agane. 730
 With that the King, quhen that he hard the taill,
 In grit greif than wox he wan and pail.
 And sweith he said, bring him now heir to me ;
 Sal neyther gold nor gude let him to die.
 Get he my pitie, than God put me out of mynde ; 735
 And he wald gif me all the Golden Inde.
 Syne gart he bring to him the samyn man,
 Set doun to judge, to heid or to hang.
 This man, that was sa cumbred of this cace,
 On kneis fel, and askit the Kingis grace : 740

The King plainly all grace can him deny ;
 And tald to him the caus and ressoun quhy.
 With that upon ane lytil bony stule
 Sat Fictus, that was the Kings fule,
 And said, now an ye gar not heid or hang 745
 This man, for them that he slew, it war wrang.
 The first man, weil I grant, he slew ;
 The uther twa in faith them slew yow.
 Had thou him puneist, quhan he slew the first,
 The uther twa had bene levand, I wist : 750
 Thairfoir, allace, this tail, sir, is over trew,
 For, in gude faith, the last twa men ye slew.
 The Psalmes, sayis David war and wyse ;
 Blist mot thay be that keips law and justice :
 Thairfoir I wald that ye sould not presume 755
 Na to have count, upon the day of Dome,
 For mans body thair to give ane yeild,
 Quhome to ye sould be sickar speir and sheild,
 Of all the realme, quhom of ye beir the croun,
 Of lawit and leirit ; riche, pure ; up and down ; 760
 The quhilk, and thay be slane with mans hand,
 Ane count thairof ye sall gif, I warrand ;
 Lesse that it be throw sum grit negligence,
 Quhairin his mercy or in his defence.
 And on the day of Dome, be Sanct Paull, 765
 The Bishops mon ay answer for the saull ;
 Gif it be lost, for fault of priest or preiching,
 Of the richt treuth it haif na chesing ;
 In sa far as the saull is forthy
 Far worthier is than the blait body ; 770
 Many Bishops in ilk realme wee see :
 And bot ane King into ane realme to be.
 Thus hes the saull mair work and cure
 Than the body, that is of na valure.
 By this was said, the King sayis, wa is mee ! 775
 For I am fule of fules [I] weill see.

I se weill I have lytil part of scule,
 That thus sould be informit with ane fule :
 I se weil be this tail this fule can tel
 That I had greatly neid of wyse counsell. 780
 To send for all my Lords I consent ;
 I desyre this to be in Parliament.
 And it be trew my fule hes said me heir,
 I sal weil reward him withouttin weir :
 And be it fals, and ful of fantasy, 785
 Ane fule he is, and fule him hald sal I.
 And, throw this fule, this man-slayer did get Unto the Parliament perfyte respet.
 And efter quhan thir Lords al can cum
 Unto this Parliament, baith al and sum, 790
 Be al the thrie Estaits it was found,
 Considerand al the mater, crop and ground,
 This Fictus, that was callit the fule,
 Was wyse in word, thocht he was clark in scule.
 The King bad al the thrie Estaits that thay 795
 Sould sit doun al, and sic a ganand way,
 Quhat men in hous war meit with him to dwell,
 Of wisdom for to gif him counsel ;
 And for to mak, be his Estaits thrie,
 Into this realme concordant unities. 800
 And quhen that al this deid was dewlie done,
 The King sweir, be his sceptour and his croun,
 That he sould never gif mercie to nane.
 That slauchter in his realme committit than,
 Aganis his will, bot throw his negligence, 805
 Or ellis that it be fund in his defence.
 And sik ane rewill made he into his land,
 That luck and grace in it was ay growand.
 And than this nobill King all lichtnes left ;
 All bot ane thing that was not fra him reft. 810
 The quhilk for ill touns long had bene :
 Ane still strangenes betwixt him and his Queene.

He beddit nocht right oft, nor lay hir by,
 Bot throw lichtnes did lig in lamenry.

AS happenit throw cace, into the toun, 815
 Into ane burges innis he maid him boun ;
 Ane lytill wie before the feist of Yule,
 In cumpanie bot fyvesum and his fule.

This burges had ane dochter to him deir,
 Ane bonie wench she was withoutin weir : 820

The King on hir he casts his lustie eine,
 And with hir faine wald in ane bed haif bene.
 Hee wist full weill that nane had hee

That was sa subtill as Fictus was, and slee ;
 He callit him, and privileie can say, 825

Sic fantesie hes put me in effray,

I am sa ful of lust and fantesy

With this madyn, on benk that sits me by,

For gold, for gude ; for wage or yit for wed ;

This nicht I wald have hir to my bed. 830

Than, quod the fuill, I understand yow weill ;

I tak on hand to do it everie deill.

Sit still now, Sir, wil ye let me allane ;

Be mee this eirand sall be undertane.

Sone efter, quhan thay war at sport and play, 835

The fule came to this bonie prettie may ;

And said : Madyn, wist ye of the degrie

How pleasant it is to God virginitie ?

Tak exampill S. Margaret and Katrine ;

And monie uther sants that are sine : 840

In Hevins blesse that hes sik joy and grie,

With crown on heid, for thair virginitie.

I wait, for all the gold into this toun,

Of madynheid ye wald not tyne the croun.

Bot ay the King went he had besie bene 845

Of the mater that was thir twa betwene :

And to the virgine yong thus spak the King,

Quhat my fule sayis a trow be na lesing.

Sir, quod sho, his saw was suffisand ;
 And as he sayis I sall do, God willand. 850
 Be that the Kings Stewart cummin is
 To have the King to his supper, I wis ;
 The King said to his fule in privatie :
 Of the eirand, Fictus, how sal it be ?
 Now hard yow not hirsself consent thairto, 855
 That as I said to yow sho hecht to do ?
 Bot ane thing have I hecht sickerly
 That nane sal cum about hir, Sir, bot I.
 The virgine is bot yong, and thinkis shame ;
 And is full laith to cum in ane ill name. 860
 And quhan the Kings supper was at end,
 Fictus the fule unto the Queene can wend ;
 And to hir said, do my counsel, Madame,
 To yow it sal be nouthar sin nor shame.
 A burges dochter, to her father deir, 865
 This nicht the King thinks to have but weir,
 And tald her all the cace, and manner how
 Hir for to have he gart the King weil trow ;
 Bot that, be God, that with his blude us bocht,
 With hir to gar him sin was never my thocht. 870
 The King commands to his chief Chalmerlane,
 Quhan ever I cum with hir I be in tane ;
 And in his bed sal prively in creip,
 Quhil that the King sal cum thair and sleip ;
 And privelie thus, be the day agane, 875
 Away with me the madyn sal be tane.
 Thairfoir, madame, for God, be not agast,
 About your heid your cloke clenlie cast :
 Quhairfoir sould ye dout or be a-drad ?
 Is nane bot ye sould bruik the King's bed. 880
 The warst may fall, suppose it wittin war,
 Methocht he hang yow wil he never skar.
 And thus is my counsel, Madame, ye do.
 In faith, quod sho, and I consent thairto.

All thus and thus, befoir as ye have hard. 885
 The Queene is brocht unto the King's bed ;
 The quhilk all nicht in uthers arms lay ;
 Quhat man to tel of al thair sport and play ?
 The King thocht never nicht to him so short ;
 Sa lykit he that nichtis play and sport. 890
 And on the morne, a lytil befoir day,
 The fule came in and tuke the Queene away.
 And thus and thus, efter nichts thrie,
 With his awin Queene grit gaming had and glie ;
 And west he wend that it had bene but weir 895
 That with him lay the burges dochter deir ;
 Quhome throw he had sik joy and sik plesance,
 Quhilk maid him ay the fule for to avance.
 Sa was the King sa amorat of his fule,
 Besyde himself ay sat upon a stule. 900
 Was never yet mair joy and plesance sene
 Than the King hes in bed with his awin Queene.
 And that was na grit ferly to befall,
 For sho was fair, and gude, and yong withal.
 And thus the fule, quhen he persaving had 905
 How that the King sa joyful was and glade,
 Unto the King he came in privitie,
 And said, now, sir, ane thing that ye tel me ;
 Quhairfoir it is the cace, fane wit wald I
 Quhy that ye have in yow sik fantasy 910
 To ly with wemen, and of law degrie,
 Aganis your Queenes wil and majestie,
 Considerand weil that sho is fair and gude,
 With ilkane uther bewtie to conclude ?
 Or quhy at hir ye have al this despyte, 915
 And quhy ye find in uthers sik delyte ?
 Or quhat plesance ye had thir nichts thrie,
 With your awin Queen in bed than mair to be ?
 The King answerid and said, now sickarly
 I cannot tel the ressoun, caus, nor quhy, 920

Fictus, my fule, with the na mair to flyte,
 Bot wantonlie I followe my appetyte.
 And quhan that my delyte is upon uther,
 Than mony folk wil cum, and with me fludder ;
 And sum wil tel il tailes of the Queene, 925
 The quhilk be hir war never hard nor sene.
 And that I do thay say al weil is done.
 Thus fals clatterars puts me out of tone :
 And thus, becaus I am licht of feirs,
 And heir evil tailes, and lightly lend my eiris. 930
 And thus of hir I have na appetyte,
 And of al others ay have I grit delyte.
 Sir, quod the fule, wil ye not consent
 Thir thrie nichts that ye war weil content ?
 Ye, that I grant, be God that is of micht, 935
 Had never nane mair plesance on the nicht.
 God, quod the King, send my fortoun had bene
 Sen sho I had thir nichts thrie war Queene !
 Quhat wil ye gif me, than speiks the fule,
 Suppose I be na cunning clark in scule, 940
 Within thrie dayes to mak it weil sene,
 With Goddis law for to mak hir your Queene ?
 And thair to do sal na man say agane ;
 And do I not my heid sal be the pane.
 Than, quod the King, thairto I hald my hand, 945
 Thow sal have gude gold, lordships, and land.
 Or cast fra the thy cote, and be thow wyse,
 Ane bishoprik sal be thy benefyse.
 Than, quod the fule, without feinyeing or fabil,
 Hald up your hand to hald this firme and stabil. 950
 The King thairto sware oft and oft,
 And thair he has his hand haldin on loft.
 And now, quod the fule, it fallis to na King
 To brek his vow, or yit his oblissing :
 And it that I have hecht thus sone sal be ; 955
 Scho is your Queene ye had thir nichts thrie.

That, quod the King, be him that deid on rude,

Sir fule, I trow ye may not mak that gude.

Sir, I pray yow be not evil payit nor wraith,
Efter sa strait ane oblessing and aith. 960

And gif that she plesit yow thir nichts thrie ;
Fra hyneforth now quhairfoir may not sa be ?
Richt now ye wald have had hir to your wyfe ;
And thairin now with me ye mak ane stryfe.

Quhat, quod the King, be him that was borne in Yule, 965

Thou art ane auld scollar at the scule.

I farly quhair sik sophine thou hes fund,
That with my awin band thou hes me bund.

Notwithstanding I am hartly content,
To my awin Queene I wil hartly consent : 970

And mair attour, I sweir the be the hevin,
I sal hir never displeis for od nor evin.

With thy that she may prief that it was sho,
Thir nichts thrie with quhom I had ado.

And with that word foroutin mair carping, 975
Unto the Queenes chalmer come the King,

And simply to hir presence can persew,
And tempit hir with tokens gude and trew ;

And sickarly he fand that it was sho,
With quhome thay nichts thrie he had ado, 980

Than joyful was he in his hartis splene,
Of the plesance he had with his awin Queene.

Than on his kneis he askit forgivenes

For his licht laytes and his wantones :
And sho forgave him meiklie this ful tyte 985

That he had done throw lichtnes of delyte ;
For weil sho saw that al was fantesy

That he usit, and richt greit foly.

And thus the King and Queene into this cace
Thankit thair God for thair weilfair and grace. 990

And syne this fule thay thankit of al,
 That caused sik concord amang them fal.
 And off his coate thay tirlit be the croun,
 And on him kest ane syde clarkly gown ;
 And quhen this syde gown on him might be, 995
 Ane cunning clark and wyse than semit he.
 Syne efter sone ane Bishop thair was deid,
 Ful sone was he maid Bishop in his steid.
 And to the King and Queene he was ful leif ;
 And [of] thair inwart counsell ay maist cheif. 1000
 And God send sik examples ay wer sene
 To ilkane King that luifit nocht his Queene !
 God gif us grace and space on eird to spend !
 Thus of my tail now cummin is the end.
 And than spak all the fallowship thus syne, 1005
 God quyte yow, sir, your tail and sant Martyne.
 Sir Williame than sayis now fallis me
 To tel ane tail ; thoch I be of yow thrie
 The febillest, and leist of literature ;
 Yit than, with all my diligence and cure, 1010
 To tell ane taill now sik ane as I have :
 Of me methink you sould na uther crave.

The thrid taill, tald be Maister Williame.

A KING thair is, and ever mair will be,
 Thairfoir the KING of kings him call we.
 Thus he had a man, as hes mony 1015
 Into this land, als riche as uther ony.
 This man, that we of speik, had freinds thrie ;
 And luifit them nocht in ane degrie.
 The first freind, quhil he was laid in delf,
 He luifit ay far better than himself : 1020
 The nixt freind that alsweil luifit he,
 And he himself luifit in al degrie :

The thrid freind he luifit this and swa
 In na degrie like to the tother twa ;
 Suppois he was ane freind to him in name, 1025
 To him as freind yit wald he never clame.
 The tother twa his freindis war indeid
 As he thocht quhen that he had onie neid.
 Sa fell it on ane day sone efter than
 This [King] he did send about this rich man ; 1030
 And sent him to his officer but weir,
 Thus but delay befoir him to compeir.
 And with him count and give reckning of all
 He had of him al tyme baith grit and smal.
 With that this officer past on gude speid, 1035
 And summond this riche man we of reid ;
 And al the cace to him he can record,
 That he in haist sould cum to his awin Lord.
 This rich man be he had hard this tail
 Ful sad in mynd he wox baith wan and pail. 1040
 And to himself he said, sickand ful sair,
 Allace how now ! this is ane haisty fair !
 And I cum thair, my tail it wil be taggit ;
 For I am red that my count be ovir raggit.
 Quhat sal I do, now may I say allace : 1045
 A cumbred man I am into this cace.
 I have na uther help, nor yit supplie,
 Bot I wil pas to my freinds thrie :
 Twa of them I luifit ay sa weil,
 But ony fault thair freindship wil I feil. 1050
 The thrid freind I leit lightly of ay ;
 Quhat may he do to me bot say me nay ?
 Now wil I pas to them, and preif them now,
 And tel them al the caus, and maner how.

To the first friend.

THVS came he to his freind that he 1055
 Luifit better than himself in al degrie.

And said : lo ! friend, my hart thow ever had ;
 And now, allace, I am ful straitly stad.
 To me the King his officer hes send ;
 For he wil that my count to him be kend : 1060
 And I am laith, allane, to him to ga,
 Without [with] me ane freind thair be or twa.
 Thairfoir I pray yow that ye tel me now
 In this mater quhat is the best ado ?
 And thus answered this freind agane, that he 1065
 Over al this world lufit as A per C,
 The devill of hell, he said, now mot me hing,
 And I compeir befoir that crabit King !
 He is sa ful of justice, richt, and ressoun,
 I lufe him not in ocht that will be chessoun. 1070
 He lufis not na riches, be the Rude,
 Nor hilenes in hart, nor evil won gude.
 Than evil won gude to gar men gif agane
 Thair may be na war use now in ane.
 Agane him can I get na gude defence ; 1075
 Sa just he is, and stark in his conscience.
 And al things in this warld that I call richt,
 It is nocht worth an eg into his sicht :
 And it that is my lyking and my eis
 To him alway will neither play nor pleis : 1080
 And that to me is baith joy and gloir,
 As fantasys judgit him befoir.
 And thus he is aganis me ay and ever ;
 And weill I wait thairfoir he lufit me never.
 He hes na lyking, lufe, nor lust of me, 1085
 Na I to him, quhill the day I die.
 Quhairto thairof sould [I] mak ony mair ?
 I cum nocht to the King, I the declair.
 Fra tyme that thow art under now areist,
 Of the, in faith, I have but lytle feist. 1090
 Be me, I trow, thow art but lytill meind ;
 Pas on thy way and seik another freind.

Now is this man sair murnand in his mynde,
 Sayand, allace, my freind is over unkynde !
 Quhome I wend was support and supplie, 1095
 And now, allace, the contrair now I sie !
 Away he wend, sayand in wordis wylde,
 I grant be God that I am all begylde.

The secound friend.

VNTO this tother friend cummin is this man,
 That as himselfe befoir he lufit than. 1100
 And said, lo ! freind, the King hes send for me
 His officer : and biddis that I be
 At him in haist ; and cum sone to his call :
 And to him mak my count of grit and small,
 That I of him in all my dayis had. 1105
 And I sie richt I am straitlie stad !
 Now, as my freind I hidder come to the Quhome as myselfe I lufe in al degre.
 For quhen I am in stryfe, or yit in sturt,
 Into my hart methink thow sould be hurt. 1110
 Thairfoir I pray that thow wald underta
 With me unto yon king that thow wald ga.
 This freind answered, and said to him agane,
 I am displeisit, and ill payit of thy pane ;
 Bot I am nocht redie in onie thing, 1115
 With thé for to compeir befoir that King.
 Thoch he hes send for the his officer,
 I may not ga with thé : quhat wil thou mair ?
 Sa with the I bid nocht for to lane ;
 I am ful red that I cum never agane. 1120
 Quha sal me mend, and of my bail me beit,
 To tak the sower and for to leif the sweit ?
 Quhat I have heir daylie in faith I feill ;
 And that quhat I sall have I weit not weil.
 Thairfoir this tail is trew into al tyde, 1125
 Quhair ane feiris [the bet] the langer sould he byde.

Thairfoir, methink that I sould be to sweir
 Befoir yon King with yow for to appeir.
 Bot a thing is to say in termes short,
 With yow my freind I wil ga to the port : 1130
 Trust weil of me na mair of myne ye get,
 Fra ye be anis in at the kingis yet.
 And thus shortly, with yow for to conclude,
 Mair nor is said of me ye get na gude.
 With that the man that thus charged his freind, 1135
 He said, allace ! I may na longer leind !
 Sen I my twa best freinds couth assay :
 I can nocht get a freind yit to my pay,
 That dar now tak in hand, for onie thing,
 With me for to compeir befoir yon king. 1140
 Quhasaever vennome or poisoun taist,
 That be the hand in quhom thair traist is maist.
 Me to begyle quha hes mair craft and gin,
 Than thay in quhome my traist ay maist is in ?
 Quhat ferly now with nane thoch I be meind, 1145
 Sen thus falsly now failys me my freind ?
 Now weil I se, and that I underta,
 Than feinyeit freind better is open fa.
 Als suith it is as ships saillis over watters,
 And weil I wait al is not gold that glitter. 1150
 Now is over lait to preif my freind indeid,
 Quhan that I have sik mister and sik neid :
 Better had bene be tyme I had overtane,
 To preif my freind, quhen mister had I nane.
 Allace, quhat sal I say ? quhat sal I do ? 1155
 I have na ma freinds for to cum to,
 Bot ane the quhilk is callit my thrid freind ;
 With him I trow I will be lytil meind.
 To ga to him I wait bot wind in waist,
 For in him I have lytil trowth or traist. 1160
 Becaus to him I was sa oft unkinde :
 And as my freind he was not in my mynde ;

Bot helelie and lichtlie of him leit,
 And now to him thus mon I ga and greit,
 How sould I mourne, or mak my mane him to? 1165
 Befoir with him I had sa lytil ado.
 Suppois to me he was ane freind in name,
 Yit than as a freind to him wald I never clame,
 Of him I had ful lytil joy or feist ;
 Of al my freinds in faith I lufit him leist. 1170
 Quhat ferly is I be not with him meind ;
 I held him nocht bot for a quarter freind.

To the thrid freind.

NOW cummin is the man that we of reid
 Unto this thrid freind, quhen he had neid,
 And tald him the maner and the cace, 1175
 How on him laid an officer his mace,
 And summond him, and bad he sould compeir
 Befoir the King, and gif ane count perqueir ;
 And to him mak ane sharp count of al
 He had into his lyfe, baith grit and smal. 1180
 And thus answered his freind to him agane :
 Of thé in faith, gude freind, I am ful fane.
 Of me altyme thow gave but lytil tail ;
 Na of me wald have dant nor dail.
 And thow had to me done one thing, 1185
 Nocht was with hart, bot vane gloir and hething.
 With uther freinds thou was sa weill ay wount,
 To me thow had ful lytil clame or count.
 To thé thow thocht I was not wort ane prene,
 And that I am ful rade on the will besene. 1190
 And yit the lytil kyndnes that thow
 To me hes had weil sal I quyte it now.
 For with thé sal I ga unto the King,
 And for the speik, and plie intil al thing.
 Quhairever thow ga, with me thow sall be meind, 1195
 And ever halden for my tender freind.

The King he lufis me weil, I wait,
 Bot ever, allace, to me thow cum ouer lait ;
 And thow my counsal wrocht had in al thing,
 Ful welcum had thou bene ay to that King. 1200
 Betwixt us twa wit he of unkyndnes,
 Sone wil thow feil he wil the lufe the les :
 Wit he betwixt us twa be onie lufe,
 He wil be richt weil payit and the apprufe :
 And he to me wit thow maid ony falt, 1205
 To thé that wil be ful sowre and salt.
 And than weil sal thou find, as thou lufit me,
 In al maner of way sa sal he thé.
 Quhat is thair mair of this mater to meine ?
 With thé befoir the King I sal be sene. 1210
 Quhairever thou ga, withoutin ony blame,
 As tender freind to the I sal ay clame ;
 Without offence to be thy defendar,
 And ay trewly to be thy protectour.
 Befoir quhat judge thou appeir up or doun, 1215
 Thé to defend I sal be reddie boun.
 And quhither I cum agane heir ever or never
 Fra thé thus sal I never mair dissever.
 Thoch he the bind and cast the in a cart,
 To heid or hang, fra the I sal nocht part. 1220
 Quhat wil thou mair that I may say the til ?
 I am reddie ; cum on quhanever thou wil.
 Allace ! allace ! than sayis this riche man,
 Over few I find are in this warld that can Cheis ay the best of thir friends thrie, 1225
 Quhill that the tyme be gane that they sould be.
 Thow leifs nocht sin quhill sin hes left the ;
 And than quhan that thou seis that thow man de :
 Than is ouer lait, allace ! havand sik let,
 Quhan deithis cart will stand befoir thé yet. 1230
 Allace, send ilkane man wald be sa kynde
 To have this latter freind into his mynde !

And nocht traist in this uther freinds twa,
With him befor the King that wil nocht ga !

Quha be thir thrie freinds.

GVDE folk, I wald into this warld that ye 1235
Sould understand quhilk ar thir freinds thre ;
Quha is the King ; quha is this officer ;
And quha this riche man is. I will declair.
The King is God, that is of michts maist,
The Father, Sone, and eik the haly Gaist, 1240
In ane Godheid, and yit in persones thre,
Thairfoir the King of kings him call we.
This officer but dout is callit Deid ;
Is nane his power agane may repleid :
Is nane sa wicht, na wyse, na of sic wit, 1245
Agane his summond suithly that may sit.
Suppose thay be als wicht as ony wall,
Thow man ga with him to his Lords hall.
Is na wisdome, riches, na yet science,
Aganis his officer may mak defence : 1250
Is neyther castell, torret, not yet tour,
May scar him anis the moment of ane hour.
His straik it is sa sharpe it will not stint,
Is nane in eird that may indure his dint ;
He is sa trew in his office, and lele, 1255
Is na praktik agane him to appele.
Gold, nor gude, corn, cattell, nor yit ky,
This officer with bud may nocht overby.
This riche man is baith thow and he,
And al that in the warld is that mon die, 1260
And als sone as the deid till us will cum,
Then speik we to our friends all and sum.

Quhat is menit be the first freind.

THE first friend is bot gude penny and pelfe,
That mony man lufis better than himselfe.

And quhan to me or the cumis our deid, 1265
 Our riches than will stand us in na steid :
 To pairt fra it suppose we graine and greit,
 It sayis fairweil ! agane we will never meit !
 Thus have we ever sa mekill gold and gude,
 With us nane may we turs, suppose we wod. 1270
 The mair golde and gude that ever we have,
 The mair count thairof this King will crave.
 And thus the day of deid, quhan we mon die,
 Fra us away full fast all riches will flie.
 Thus hald I man unwyse, I underta, 1275
 That holds ane for his friend, and is his fa.
 Thir thre ar ay haldin for fais evill,
 Our awne flesche, the warld, and the devill.
 And thus thy freind, sa mekil of the mais,
 Is countit ane of thy maist felloun fais ; 1280
 And now with thé he will nocht ane fute
 Befoir this King, for the to count or mute,
 This may thow sie this warlds wit forthy
 Befoir this King is bot great fantasy.

Quha is menit be the secound freind.

THIS secound freind, lat se, quhome will we call 1285
 Bot wyfe and barne, and uther freindis all ?
 That thus answeres, and sayis in termes schort,
 We will nocht ga with thé bot to the port :
 That is to say unto the Kingis yet ;
 With the farder to ga is nocht our det. 1290
 Quhilk is the yet, that we call now the port ?
 Nocht but our graif to pas in, as a mort.
 And than with us unto that yet will cum Baith wyfe and bairnes, and freinds al and sum :
 And thair on me and thé lang will thay greit, 1295
 Into this world agane or ever we meit.

In at the yet with thé now quha will ga,
 That I have tald heir of thy freinds twa?
 Riches nor gude; wyfe, barne, nor freind,
 Of thir foirsaid with the will never leind. 1300
 And quhan that thow art laid into thy hole,
 Thy heid will be na hyer than thy sole.
 And than quhair is thy cod, courche or cap,
 Baith gown and hude had wont thé for to hap?
 Nocht bot ane sheit is on thy body bair; 1305
 And as thow hes done heir, sa finds thow thair.

Quhat is merit be the thrid freind.

THIS thrid freind quhome wil we cal, let sie;
 Nocht ellis bot Almosdeid and charitie.
 The quhilk freind answered with words sweit:
 Of me as freind suppose thou lytle leit, 1310
 Yit, for the lytle quantance that we had,
 Sen that I se the in sturt sa straightly stad,
 Quhairever thow ga, in eird or art,
 With the, my freind, yet sall I never part.
 Quhairever thow ga, suppose a thousand shore
 thé, 1315
 Even I thy Almosdeid sall ga befoir the.
 For as thow seis watter dois slokkin fyre,
 Sa do I Almosdeid the Judges ire.
 Thairfoir, gude folkes, be exampil we se
 That there is nane thus of thy freinds thre, 1320
 To ony man that may do gude, bot ane;
 Almosdeid that it be seindle tane.
 Into this warld of it we lat lightly,
 Throw fleshely lust fulfillit with folly;
 Qubill all our tyme in fantasy be tint, 1325
 And than to mend we may do nocht bot minte.
 It for to do we have na tyme, nor grace,
 Into this eird quhill we have tyme and space.

Than cumis deid have done ! do fort thy det !
 Cum on away ; the cart is at the yet. 1330
 Than we will say, with mony woful wis,
 Allace ! allace ! be tyme had I wittin this !
 I sould have done pennance, fast, and pray ;
 And delt my guds in almis deids alway.
 Thairfoir my counsall is that we mend, 1335
 And lippin nocht all to the latter end.
 And syne, to keip us fra the sinnes sevin,
 That we may win the hie blys of hevin :
 And thus out of this warld that we may win
 But shame, or det, or deidly sin. 1340

*And than speiks the tother twa full tyte,
 This gude tale, Sir, I trow God will you quyte.*

Finis.

Tayis Bank.

TWYSBANK, one of the popular airs mentioned in "Colkelbie's Sow," has been conjectured¹ to be the appropriate tune of the following beautiful song, which owes its preservation to George Bannatyne, in whose "ballat-buik," preserved in the Library of the Faculty of Advocates at Edinburgh, it occurs.² Although an affected quaintness has somewhat disfigured it by redundance of alliteration, yet, as a descriptive poem, it is possessed of considerable merit; and as few, if any, of the Scottish songs, now extant are of equal antiquity, it is remarkable that "Tayis Bank" should have escaped the notice of Ritson and other collectors of our lyric poetry. Not many years since, however, a copy of it appeared in the "British Bibliographer,"³ to which work it was transmitted by the late Henry Weber, whose services in publishing, with great fidelity and care, several of the early Metrical Romances in our vernacular tongue, have not been duly appreciated.

From the context of this poem, says Mr. Weber, "it appears to have been composed on a lady of the noble family of Perth, named Margaret, and it may be conjectured with almost more than probability that the subject of the poem was Margaret, eldest daughter of Sir John Drummond, lord of that ilk, and Stobhall, who is stated to have been contracted to King James IV., and had a daughter by him, afterwards married to Alexander, Earl of Huntley." Should this supposition respecting the lady be deemed well founded, the reader may feel some interest in the description contained in the quotation below.¹ The poem itself may unquestionably be attributed to the reign of our gallant monarch James IV.

¹ Leyden, Complaynt of Scotland, Introd. p. 283.

² Fol. 229.

³ Vol. iv. p. 186.

Tayis Bank.

WHEN Tayis bank wes blumyt brycht,
 With blosvmes blycht and bred,
 Be that riuer that ran doun rycht,
 Vndir the ryss I red ;
 The merle melit with all hir mycht 5
 And mirth in mornyng maid,
 Throw solace, sound, and semely sicht,
 Alswth a sang I said.

¹ "Margaret Drummond, eldest daughter of John Lord Drummond, was a lady of rare perfections and singular beautie. With her the young King James the 4th was [so] deeply enamoured, that without acquainting his nobles or Council, he was affianced to her in order to have made her his Queen. But so soon as his intentions were discovered, all possible obstructions were made both by the nobility, who designed an allyance w^t a daughter of England, as a mean to procure peace betwixt the nations, and by the clergie, who declared against the lawfulness of the marriage, because they were within the degrees of consanguinity forbidden by the Canon Law. Nevertheless, the King, under promise, gott her with child, which proved a daughter [in the year 1497], and was called Lady Margaret Stewart ; but he was so much touched in conscience for the engagement he had made to the young lady, that, notwithstanding the weakness of the Royal family, he rejected all propositions of marriage so long as she lived : for he was crowned in the year 1488, at the age of sixteen, and did not marry untill the year 1502, when he was near thirty, and about a year after her death, which was effected not without suspition of poison ; for the common tradition goes, that a potion was provided in a breakfast to dispatch her for liberating the King from his promise, that he might match with England ; but so it happened that she called two of Vndir that bank, quhair bliss had bene,

I bownit me to abyde ; 10
Ane holene, hevinly hewit grene,
Rycht heyndly did me hyd ;
The sone schyne our the schawis schene
Full semely me besyd ;
In bed of blumes bricht besene 15
A sleip cowth me ourslyd
About all blumet wes my bour
With blossumes broun and blew,
O^rfret with mony fair fresch flour,
Helsum of hevinly hew ; 20
With schakeris of the schene dew schour
Schynnyng my courtenis schew,
Arrayit with a rich vardour
Of natouris werkis new.
Rasing the birdis fra thair rest 25
The reid sone raiss with rawis ;
The lark sang lowd, quhill lycht mycht lest,
A lay of luvis lawis ;
The nythingall woik of hir nest
Singing the day vpdawis ; 30
The mirthfull maveiss merriest
Schill schowttit throw the schawis.

her sisters, then with her, Lady Flemyng and a younger [sister] Sybilla, a maid, whereby it fell out all the three were destroyed with the force of the poyson. They ly buried in a curious vault, covered with three fair blue marble stones joined closs together, about the middle of the quyre of the Cathedrall church of Dumblane: for about this time the buriall place for the family of Drummond at Innerpaffray was not yet built. The monument which contains the ashes of these three lady's stands intire to this day, and confirms the credit of this sad story."—History of the Family of Drummond [by William, Viscount of Strathallan], 1681. MS. folio. 188. Drumm. Castle.

All flouris grew that firth within,
 That man cowth haif in mynd ;
 And in that flud all fische with fyn, 35
 That creat wer be kynd :
 Vndir the rise the ra dyd ryn,
 Our ron, our rute, our rynd,
 The dvn deir danfit with a dyn,
 And herdis of hairt and hynd. 40

Wod winter with his wallowand wynd,
 But weir, away wes went :
 Brasit about with wyld wodbynd
 Wer bewis on the bent :
 Allone vnder the lusty lynd, 45
 I saw ane lusum lent,
 That farely war so fare to fynd,
 Vndir the firmament.

Scho wes the lustiest on lyve,
 Allone lent on a land, 50
 And farest figour, be sct. Syve,
 That evir in firth I fand.
 Hir cumly cullour to discryve
 I dar nocht tak on hand ;
 Moir womanly borne of a wyfe 55
 Wes neuer, I dar warrand.

To creatur that wes in cair,
 Or cauld of crewelty,
 A blicht blenk of hir vesage bair
 Of baill his bute mycht be ; 60
 Hir hyd, hir hew, hir hevinly hair
 Mycht havy hairtis vphie ;
 So angelik vnder the air
 Neuir wicht I saw with e'.

The blossumes that wer blycht and brycht 65

By hir wer blacht and blew ;
Scho gladit all the foull of flicht
That in the forrest flew ;
Scho mycht haif comfort king or knyght
That ever in cuntre I knew 70
As waill, and well of wardly wicht
In womanly vertew.

Hir cullour cleir, hir countinace,
Hir cumly cristall ene,
Hir portratour of most plesance 75
All pictour did prevene.
Off every vertew to avance
Quhen ladeis prasit bene,
Rychtest in my remembrance
That rose is rutit grene. 80

This myld meik mensuet Mergrite,
This perle polist most quhyt,
Dame Natouris deir dochter discreet,
The dyamant of delyt :
Never formit wes to found on feit 85
Ane figour more perfyte,
Nor non on mold that did hir meit,
Mycht mend hir wirth a myte.

This myrthfull maid to meit I ment,
And merkit furth on mold ; 90
Bot sone within a wane scho went,
Most hevinly to behold ;
The bricht sone with his bemys blent
Vpoun the bertis bold,
Farest vnder the firmament 95
That formit wes on fold.

As paradyce that place but peir
 Wes plesant to my sicht ;
 Of forrest, and of fresch reveir,
 Of firth, and fowll of flicht, 100
 Of birdis, bath on bonk and breir,
 With blumes breckand bricht,
 As hevin in to this erd doun heir,
 Hertis to hald on hicht.

So went this womanly away 105
 Amang thir woddis wyd,
 And I to heir thir birdis gay
 Did in a bonk abyd ;
 Quhair ron and ryss raiss in aray
 Endlang the reuer syd : 110
 This hapnit me in a tyme in May
 In till a morning tyd.

The reuer throw the ryse cowth rowt
 And roseris raiss on raw ;
 The schene birdis full schill cowth schowt 115
 Into that semly schaw :
 Joy wes within and joy without
 Vnder that vlenkest waw,
 Quhair Tay ran down with stremis stout
 Full strecht vnder Stobschaw. 120

Finis.

The Epistill of the Hermeit of Alareit to the Gray Freirs.

THIS satirical poem has been preserved by Knox in the "History of the Reformation," where, in reference to the contempt into which the Grey Friars had fallen in consequence of their depraved conduct, he says, "Not only did the learnit espye and detect their abominable hypocrisy, bot also men in quhom nane sick graces nor giftis were thocht to have been, began plainlie to point the same furth to the people, as this ryme, made by Alexander, Earl of Glencairne, yet alive, can witness."

Alexander Cunningham, Earl of Glencairn, early distinguished himself in promoting a reformation from the errors of Popery, and he continued a firm and zealous supporter of the Protestant faith.

Alareit, or Laureit, is evidently the chapel built in honour of "our Lady of Loretto" in the village of Musselburgh, where troops of young men and women went to pilgrimage; but, there is reason to suspect, for other purposes than those of penance or religion.

Ane Epistill directed fra the halie Hermeit of Alareit, to his brethren the Gray Freirs.

THOMAS, hermeit in Lareit,
Sanct Francis brother do hartilie greit ;
Beseikand you with gud intent
To be wakryif and diligent.

Thir Lutheranis, rissen of new,
Our Ordour daylie dois persew :

5

They snaikis dois set thair hail intent
 To reid the Inglische New Testament ;
 And sayis we have thame clein decevit,
 Thairfore in haist they mon be stoppit. 10
 Our Stait hypocrisie they prysse,
 And us blasphemis on this wyse :
 Sayand, That we are heretyckis,
 And false loud lying mastis tykis ;
 Cumerars and quellars of Christis kirk, 15
 Sweir swyngeours that will not wirk,
 But idillie our leving wynniss,
 Devoiring woilfis into scheipis skynniss ;
 Huirkland with huidis into our neck,
 With Judas mynd to jouk and beck ; 20
 Seikand Christis pepill to devoir,
 The doun-thringers of Christis gloir ;
 Professours of hypocrisie,
 And Doctouris in idolatrie :
 Stout fischeiris with the Feindis net, 25
 The upclosers of Hevins yet ;
 Cankcart corruptors of the creid,
 Humlock sawers among gud seid ;
 To trow in trators, that men do tyist,
 The hie way kennand them fra Christ ; 30
 Monsters with the Beistis mark,
 Dogges that nevir stintis to bark ;
 Kirkmen that ar to Christ unkend,
 A sect that Satanis self hes send ;
 Lourkand in hoils, lyik trator toddis, 35
 Manteiners of idollis and fals goddis ;
 Fantastik fuillis, and fenzeit fleicheors,
 To turn fra treuth the verray teichers :
 For to declair thair hail sentence,
 Wald mekill cumber their conscience. 40
 To say your fayth it is sa stark,
 Your cord and lousie cote and sark ;

Your ¹ lippin may bring you to salvatioun,
 And quyte excludis Chrystis passioun,—
 I dreid this doctrine, and it last, 45
 Sall outhir gar us wirk or fast :
 Thairfoir with speid we mene provyde,
 And not our profite overslyde.
 I schaip myself, within schort quhill,
 To curs our Ladie in Argylle, 50
 And thair on craftie wayis to wirk,
 Till that we biggit have ane kirk ;
 Syne miracles mak be your advyce.
 The ketterells, thocht thai had bot lyce,
 The twa parte to us they will bring. 55
 Bot ordourlie to dress this thing,
 A Gaist I purpois to gar gang,
 Be counsaill of frier Walter Lang ;
 Quhilk sall mak certane demonstratiounis
 To help us in our procuratiounis, 60
 Your halie ordour to decoir :
 That practick he provit anis befoir,
 Betwix Kirkaldie and Kinghorne ;
 Bot lymmaris maid therat sick scorne,
 And to his fame maid sic degressioun, 65
 Sensyne he hard not the Kingis confessioun.
 Thoicht at that time he come no speid,
 I pray yow tak gude will as deid ;
 And him amongst your self ressave,
 As ane worth many of the lave. 70
 Quhat I obtain may, throw his airt,
 Ressone wald ye had your parte ;
 Your Ordour handillis no money,
 Bot for uther casualitie,
 As beif, meill, butter, and cheiss, 75
 Or quhat we have, that ye pleis,

¹ Old copy, ye.

Send your brethren, et habete.

As now nocht ellis, bot valete,

Be THOMAS your brother at comand,

A Culrun kythit throw mony a land. 80

The Tale of Colkelbie Sow.

THE following Tale, which is of considerable antiquity, is printed from Bannatyne's Manuscript. It is contained in the Fifth part or division of this valuable Collection, commencing—"Heir follouis the fyift pairt of this buik contenyng the ffabellis of Esop with diuerss vthir fabillis and poetically workis maid and compyld be divers lernit men 1568."

On the back of this title is the following Address :

TO THE REDAR,

My freindis thir storeis subsequent Albeid bot fabillis thay present git devyne doctowris of jugement
 Sayis thair ar hid but dowl
Grave materis wyiss and sapient
Vnder the workis of poyetis gent
Thairfoir be war that thow consent
 To blame thir heir set owt.

From the internal evidence, the date of "Cowkelbie Sow" or "Colkelbie," a strange and whimsical rhapsody, the moral of which is expressed in no obscure terms, and of which certain passages bespeak as the author a person who had travelled much abroad, evidently appears, from the Prohemium, to have been written during the era of Minstrelsy, although from internal evidence posterior to Chaucer.¹

¹ The first wes the samyn Chanticleer to luke,
Of quhome Chaucer treitis into his buke.

(Vide stanza 788.)

With little hesitation, therefore, it may be assigned to some time previous to the middle of the fifteenth century, since it seems at least to have been very popular considerably anterior to the age of Douglas and Dunbar, both of whom flourished in the reign of James IV.

Gawin Douglas thus enumerates Colkelbie, among other heroes of romance, represented in the Mirror of Venus :

I saw Raf Coilgier with his thrawin brow,
Crabbit Johne the Reif, and Auld Cowkellpis Sow.¹

In "Ane interlude of the laying of a Gaist," in the present collection, it is also noticed :

To reid quha will this gentill geist
ge herd it no^t at Cokilby's feist.²

Another allusion occurs in a poem by Dunbar, who says :

And thocht this nobill cunning sort,
Quhom of befoir, I did report
Rewardit be, it war bot ressoun ;
Thairat suld no man mak enchesoun :—
Bot quhen thir vthir fulis nyce
That feistit at Colkelbie's gryce,
Ar all rewardit, and nocht I,
Than on this fals warld, I cry fy !

And the same writer, in his "General Satire," quotes the poem in the following passage :

Sic knavis and crakkaris to play at carts and dyce
Sic halland-scheckaris whilk at Cowkelbyis gryce
Are halden of pryce when lymaris do convene.³

The humour of this very singular composition, which is professedly satirical, is certainly coarse, and the versification exceedingly irregular. But the poem, although referring in its allusions (as Dr. Leyden has observed) to local and temporary circumstances, which are not obvious at this distance of time, throws much light on the manners and rustic festivities of the Scottish peasantry, during a very early period. From the minuteness of its description, it is also highly illustrative of the music, dances, and musical instruments in common use in Scotland in the fifteenth century. And what adds, in no small degree, to its interest is the consideration that the names of the greater proportion of the airs, dances, and songs, enumerated in "Colkelbie's Sow" are otherwise unknown.

¹ Part iii. St. 48.

² Vol. i. p. clxiv.

³ Bann. MS.

No other copy of the poem than that from which the present transcript was made is known to exist. In the Auchinleck manuscript there appears to have been a copy; but most unfortunately it has shared the same fate with "Ralf Coilgear" and some others of the curious tales and romances which it once contained.

Of the author there is no trace whatever in the manuscript; and neither Dr. Leyden, who, in his learned introduction to the "Complaynt of Scotland," has given various extracts from it, nor any other writer who notices its existence, seems to have known his name. The arms at the end of the Prohemium, of which an accurate facsimile has been made, seem to be those of George Bannatyne the transcriber, as they very closely correspond with the arms of the family of Bannatyne.

The orthography of the manuscript has been strictly followed; and no liberties have been taken, with the exception of a few of the contracted words, the preservation of which could have answered no good purpose, and would no doubt have been embarrassing to those unaccustomed to the perusal of ancient manuscripts.

R. P.

EDINBURGH, Nov. 1821.

For completing the transcript of "Colkelbie," and carefully collating it with the Manuscript, the Editor may take this opportunity of acknowledging that he is indebted to his friend Robert Pitcairn, Esq., whose zeal and knowledge in antiquarian pursuits has lately been shown in his curious publication of "Queen Mary's Funerals."

Heir begynnis Colkelbie Sow.

Prohemium.

WHEN riallest most redowttit and hé
Magnificat crownit kingis in maiesté
Princis duces and marquis curious
Erlis barronis and kny^ttis chevelrous
And gentillmen of hé genolegye 5

As scutiferais and squieris full countlye
Ar assemblit and sett in a ryell sé
W^t namit folkis of hé nobilité
Thair talk þat tyme in table honorable
Befoir lordingis and ladeis amiable 10
Is oft singing and sawis of solace
Quhair melody is þe mirthfull maistrace
Ermy deidis in auld dayis done afoir
Croniculis gestis storeis and mich moir
Manestralis amang mvsicianis merely 15
To haif hartis in hevinly armony
So semis it weill þat suthly so war ay
Quhat is þe warld w^tout plesance or play
Bot passionale Than lat ws mak sum sport
And recreatioun the cumpany to confort 20
Wold my lordis do sé quho wold begin it
Quho fall surthschaw or quho sall first fall in it
Quho sall w^t discreit correctioun of ȝow
Bot I quho hath begune this ma^r now
For begynnyng w^tout end quhat availis 25
Bot lyk a tré flureist quhair the fruct falis
To quhich all men of quhat estait he be
W^t recent mynd suld evir haif his E
No^t to begin flureist and syne decess
The langir lyfe the gud losç than to cess 30
Quhat sal be said bot at his ending hé
Frome on faire ymp fell down a widde:it tré

The lyfe is gone the loss lesting is lost
 The begynning thay say wes bot a wost
 Quhairfoir ge men most honorable at all 35
 Quhich eternall wald haif memoriall
 Gyd zow so pat first zour God plesit be
 And obtene name and wirchep quhen ge dé
 And quho will not eftir his gudly powére
 Considering his estait go profess him a m'tere 40
 Or sustene lak so may he lyknyt be
 A fair flureiss fadit in a falty tré
 All be my self is this symylitude
 Suld I begin to sport and not conclude
 Than wold ge all belyve say lo him zondir 45
 That set to bourd and left it in a blondir
 Quhairfoir I will say of my fantasy
 Sum solasing to glaid this cumpany
 Bot for Godis luvé and his appostill Petir
 Pardoun the fulich face of this mad metir 50
 San þe sentence to feill is fantastike
 Lat the lettir and langage be such like
 Sen all the world changis so mony facis
 I trest I will cast caissé vpoun caissis
 And so lat sé quhat cais ge think most nyce 55
 Wisdome vmq^{le} holdis þe nycest wys
 So pat it be sport in discretioun
 W^tout odius crewale comparisoun
 Peticular malice and all such thing removit
 The wyss nycest the wisest quhile is provit 60
 For quhich knawing myne vnsufficiency
 To be comprysit perticia^{re} w^t prudence
 I propone not as wiss presumpteouss
 Bot rapir sport myne awin spereit to reioss
 And my lordis to heir pat will deden 65
 Now I begin w^t litill est Amen.

Explicit prohemium et sequitur prima pars.

Fitt First.

HEIR I gife ȝow caiss
 Vmquhile a mery man wais
 Callit Cokkelbé
 He had a simple blak sow
 And he sald hir bot how 5
 For penneis thré as eftir ȝe may see
 And verrely as I hard
 Thus the money he ward
 THE FIRST PENNY of the thré
 For a girle gaif he 10
 The secund fell in a furde
 The thrid he hid in a hurde
 Now quhilk penny of the thré
 Wes best bestowit say ȝe
 The lost penny wes vplesit 15
 The girle for the time plesit
 Bot the penny þat wes hid
 I hold leist gude did
 For in old prouerbe we sing
 Cumis littill gud of gaddering
 Quhair wrechit awerice birnis
 Hyding hurdis in to hirnis
 And knawis nevir quhome till Latting wirschep to go will Gret laabor is to get geir 25
 And to conserue it is feir
 And moir angir is to leiss
 Thir thré peruerst propirteiss

1. 6. "As eftir ȝe may see," are added in the manuscript, perhaps by the same hand, but evidently written with different ink.

1. 10. "maid" on the margin, and the word "girle" put within brackets.

I find in skars keping
 And auaritious wynnyng 30
 Quhair mesur is no^t maistress
 Bot gadding for gredeness
 The hid penny thinkis me
 Wes werst bestowit of the thré
 For it waiss fro the vse of man 35
 Lat warldis gudis go than W^t mesur and merines ȝit thair is moir of this cais
 The penny lost in þe lak
 Wes fundin and vptak 40
 And he þat fand it did by W^t the samyn penny
 A littell pig for his prow
 Off Kolkelbeis sow
 A harlot wynnit neir by 45
 And scho wald mak at mangery
 And had no substance at all
 Bot this pur pig stall
 To furniss a gret feist
 W^t outtin stufe, bot this beist 50
 And ȝit scho callit to hir cheir
 On apostita freir
 A peruerst pardonier
 And practand palmair
 A wich and a wobstare 55
 A milygant and a mychare
 A fond fule a fariar
 A cairtar a cariar
 A libbar and a lyar
 And riddill revar 60
 A tuttivillus a tutlar
 And a fangeit flatterar

l. 43. "Gryce" on the margin, written in the same hand.

A forfarn falconar
 A malgratious millare
 A berward a brawlar 65
 And ane aip ledar
 W^t a cursit custumar
 A tratlar and tinklar
 And mony v^pir in that hour
 Of all evill ordour 70
 First w^t a fulisch flour
 An ald monk a lechour
 A drunkin drechour
 A dowble toungit counsalour
 A trimpour a trvcour 75
 A hangman a hasardour
 A tyrant a tormentour
 A truphane a tratlour
 A faynit nigre mansour
 A japer a juglour 80
 A lase pat lufis bot for lour
 And a man merroure
 An evill wyffis mirroure
 In all thair semblance sour
 W^t a noyefull ny^tb^our 85
 A lunatik a sismatyk
 An heretyk a purspyk
 A lumbard a lolard
 Ane vsurar a bard
 Ane ypocreit in haly kirk 90
 A burn grenge in the dirk
 A schipman on sé & sand
 That takis lyfe & gud on hand
 And knawis now^pr courss nor tyd
 Bot presumpteouss in pryde 95
 Practing no^t thing expert
 In cunnyng cumpass nor kert

A skeg a scornar a skald
 A bald strod and a bald
 An vnthrifty dapill man 100
 A rebald a ruffian
 A murderer of leilmen
 A revischer of wemen
 And two lerit men thame by Schir Ockir and Schir Symony 105 git mony in a grit rout
 For lak of rowme stude about
 Now wald I wit at this feste
 Quho fure best of this beste
 I hald þe folk best fure 110
 That stud fer w^tout þe dure
 Fro this cursit cumpany
 And mensles mangery git of this caiss þair is moir
 The pure pig gaif a rore 115
 Him to kill quhen thay pynit
 So soir the silly pig quhrynit
 Quhill all þe swyn þ^rabout
 Ruschit furth in a rout
 I keip no^t now to commoun 120
 All beistes for to blassoun
 Of thair diuerss naturis
 Complexionis and cullouris
 Quhom the law levis ete
 Or quho suld be no manis meit 125
 Nor of the foulis of the are How sum w^t closs feit thay fare
 And sum diuidit the nailis
 Nor of the fische w^t thair scalis
 All this I set asyd now 130
 Haif at Cokilbeis sow
 For to say þe verite
 Lufand beistis swyne be

Contrair houndis nature
 For brawlè doggis at þe dure 135
 All settis on the sory hound
 That lysis euir at the grund
 And he þat cryis most & roris
 Ourthrawin schent & most soiris
 All the remanent him ruggis 140
 Sum be leggis sum be luggis
 Thay ar luving to men
 Bot no^t to thame self than
 For wo is him þat hes royne
 Bot no^t so of the swyne 145
 And on of thame be ourthrawin
 That his cty may be knawin
 All the remanent that heiris
 Cumis in thair best maneiris
 To reskew as thay may 150
 So did thay this day
 That sowis sonis hard I nevir
 Win so grit wirschep for euir
 For Stifapill all the store
 Ruschit out w^t a rore 155
 This pig quhen thay hard him
 Thay come golfand full grim
 Mony long tuthit bore
 And mony galt come befoir
 And mony grit Gunnald 160
 Gruntillot and gamald
 Wrotok and Writhneb
 Hogy evir in the eb
 W^t the halkit hoglyn
 Snelly Snattis Swankyn 165
 Baymell bred in the bog
 Hog hoppit our hog

l. 134, "Luvand" on margin of the MS.

Mage of the milhill
 Grom Gym of the gill
 The suddill sow and the sord 170
 Reid Kit that eft rord
 Patypull of the Pappourtis
 And Knvtknot of the Kuppourtis
 The gray the gerot and the grym
 Hurlhekill hoblit w^t him 175
 Sigill Wrigill our sow
 Gret bore Tusky the grow
 Mony galt mony gilt
 Come let the pig to be spilt
 Rowchruple out ran 180
 Weill mo than I tell can
 W^t sick a din and a dirdy
 A garray and a hirdy girde
 The fulis all afferd wer
 And the harlot hurt thare 185
 W^t bare Tuskyis tuth
 And for to say the verry suth
 In that fellow affray
 The littill pig gat away
 And ilk bore & ilk beist 190
 Defoulit the fulis of the feist
 Sum mokit menzeit & merrit
 Thus wer thay fro the meit skerrit
 Is no^t this a nyce caiss
 Bot git a fer weress it weiss 195
 A new noyment and nois
 W^t a rumour vprois
 That of that caiss to degest
 It mycht be callit a tempest
 For all the suynis awnaris 200
 Said seilis how the fulis fairis
 And seis so curst a cumpany
 Herand thair awin swyne cry

W^t thir myligantis machit
 Afferd the fulis had thame kachit 205
 As to steill thame away
 Than dyn roiss and dirray
Stok hornis blew stout
 Mony on ischit out
 Gilby on his gray meir 210
 And Fergy on his sow fair
 Hoge Hygin by þe hand hint
 And Symy þat was sone brint
 With his lad Loury
 And his gossep Gloury 215
 Fergy in frunt past
 And Fynny followit him fast
 Thurlgill thrang till a club
 So ferss he flaw in a dub
 Quhill Downy him abak drewgh 220
 Than Rany of þe Reidnewch
 W^t Gregry the bowman
 For lufe of his leman
 Licht lap at a lyn
 He felgeit and he fell in 225
 Hnd Hoge was sa haisty
 That he sualterit him by Quhil Thoby cario^r him tuk
 To land w^t a schein cruk
 Schipirdis schowit to schore 230
 And Fergy Flitsy geid befoir
 Chiftane of that chef chak
 A ter stowp on his bak
 W^t his lad Luddroun
 And his hound Hunddroun 235
 Mony schiphird with him is Fro brokis brois and brymmis

1. 232, the word "geid" is interlined in the original.

Off two ram crukit hornis
 Thair baner on a birk born is
 With Barmyberd thair banerman 240
 And his cousing Cachcran
 Thair menstrall Diky Doyt
 Fur befoir w^t a floyt
 Than dansit Doby Drymouth
The sone shene in the Sowth 245
 And as they lukit on a lee
 Thay saw an upir mengé
 Than all thay fled full afferd
 And the maister schipherd
 Fergy Flitsy befoir 250
 Tho^t was litil on his store
 His feit maid dynnyng
 He lakkit breth for rynning
 How q Hobby herk me
 We neid no^t to fordir flé 255 gone folk our awin frendis ar
 I knaw be thair banar
 Than wer thay nevir half so fane
 And glaidly turnit all againe
 And knew be thair array 260
 That all nolt hirdis wer thay
 That ischit out to the cry
 And thair banar borne by
 Of Crumhorne the cowis tail
 Festnitt on a lang flail 265
 Besyd thair capitane I trow
 Callit wes Colyne Cuckow
 And Davy Doyle of the dale
 Was thair mad menstrall
 He blew on a pype hé 270
 Maid of a borit boutré
 Waytstath him by Dansit and Dandy

The thrid fallowschip he saw
That thay wundir weill knaw	275
The swynehirdis in a rowt
And Sweirbum with his snowt
Wes captane of thame thair
And borne wes his banair
Vpoun a schule for to schaw	280
A flekkit sowis skyn faw
W ^t terletheris tyit hy
Quho bur it bot Bolgy
And Clarus the long clype
Playit on a bag pype	285
Haggysheid and Helly
Ballybrass and Belly
Dansit and his sone Samyn
Than all assemblit w ^t a gamyn
And all the menstralis attonis	290
Blew up and playit for the nonis
Schiphird nolt hirdis
And swynhirdis outgirdis
For to dance merily
A maistir swynhird swanky	295
And his cousing Copyn Cull
Fowll of bellis fulfull
Led the dance and began
Play us Joly lemmane
Sum trottit Tras and Trenass	300
Sum balterit The Bass
Sum Perdony sum Trolly lolly
Sum Cok craw thou quhill day
Twysbank and Terway
Sum Lincolne sum Lindsay	305
Sum Joly lemman dawis it no^t day
Sum Be zon wodsyd singis
Sum Late laite on evinnyngis

Sum Foly Martene w^t a mck
Sum Lulalow lute cok	310
Sum bekkit sum bingit
Sum crakkit sum cringit,
Sum movit most mak revell
Sum Symon sonis of Quhynfell
Sum Maist^r Pier de Cougate	315
And vpir sum in consate
At leser drest to dance
Sum Ourfute sum Orliance
Sum Rusty bully with a bek
And Every note in vperis nek	320
Sum vsit the dansis to deme
Of Cipres and Boheme
Sum The faites full garne
Off Portingall and Naverne
Sum countirfutit the gyss of Spane	325
Sum Italy sum Almane
Sum noisit Napillis anone
And vpir sum of Arragone
Sum The Cane of Tartary
Sum The Soldane of Surry	330
All his dansis defynd
Sum Pret^r Johnie of grit Ynd
Sum As the Ethiopis vsit
Sum futit and sum refusit
Sum had dansis mony ma	335
W ^t all the dansis of Asia
Sum of Affrickis age
And principale of Cartage
Thair pressit in Pery Pull
Full of bellis fulfull	340
Maist ^r Myngeis The mangeis
Maist ^r Tyngeis La tangeis
M ^r Totis La toutis
And Rousty rottis the routis

Maist ^r Nykkis La nakkis	345
And S ^r Jakkis La jakk[is]
The Hary hurlere husty
And Calby the curst custy
Mony laddis mony townis ¹
Knowf knois kynnis culrownis	350
Curris kenseis and knavis
Inthrang and dansit in thravis
W ^t thame Towis the mowis
And Hary w^t the reid howis
Than all arrayit in a ring	355
Dansit My deir derling
And all assentit in a sop
To the vse of Ewrop
That for so much thay beleuit
That expert and weill preuit	360
Thay war in the Est warld
As is heir breuly ourharld
Thay conclud the vse plane
Of Ylandis in Occiane
And of the fermeland of France	365
And how the Emprio ^r dois dance
Suesis in Suauia syne
And als the Reuir of Ryne
Off Bretane the brod Ile
Off Yrland and Argyle	370
Burgone and Breband
Hanyngo and Holland
Flanderis, Freisland, and eik
Brandebur^t and Broinsweik
Dittmer and Baywer	375
Pruce Poill and Pomer
Lubwick land and Lunaburgh
Malestrand and Makilbur

¹ l. 349. "Mony laddis mony townis" on margin of the MS.

The steidis sevin and sevinty
And all bounde thameby	350
The Rerall ¹ and Rusland
Sclauia and Gotland
Denmark and Noroway
All thair dansis and play
Thay movit in thair mad muting	365
And all thay falit in futing
For m'rit wes thair menstralis
Thair instrumentis in tonis felis
And all thair plat pure pansis
Coud no ^t the fete of ony dansis	390
Bot such thing as affeiris
To hirdis and their maneris
For thay hard speik of men gud
And small thairof vndirstud
Bot hurlit furth vpoun heid	395
A copyne cull coud thame lede
And so thay wend thay weill dansit
And did bot praclit, and pransit
And quhen thay had all done
It was a tratlyng out of tune	400
Than thay began for to chyd
Quhill Quthorlorehusty cryd
Oe ceiss this brangling and bere
Remembir quhy ge come here
That ilk knave and ilk cust	405
Comprysit Horlore hust
For a witté man commendit
And thus thair dansing thay endit
And so concluding thay past
To thair maisteris als fast	410
The silly pig to reskew
All the samyn are thay met trew

¹ Perhaps Revel.

Be than wes matchit on mold
 Als mony as thay wold
 Lord God so lowd as thay cryd 415
 Full oft the fulis thay defyd
 And on them semblit att onis
 Bot thair was breking of bonis
 Hold how he wes heir
 Thay chace with fresch cheir 420
 Fy^{ll} on the foirsaid sottis
 And ourthrew all the ydiottis
 Both of the swyne & the men
 Be this ge may weill ken
 That foly is no sapience 425
 For multitud in negligence
 He seldin palme of victory
 Bot God & gud wit gy
 And all this grit brawling
 Babling and up^r thing 430
 Wes for a pig as ge hard sayn git he eskapit vnslane
 Now juge as ge lift by
 For this is bot a fantesy¹
 And littill a poynt of poetry 435
 Bot sport to mak ws mirry
 And git this is a strange caiss
 Bot eftirward this pig waiss
 Growin to grit boir
 Lo such is this warldis glore 440
 Now law now he²
 Nothing stable we sé
 In this world of variance git fell a caiss and new chance
 This pig quhen he a boir wes 445
 Off nicht he grew maikles

¹ Old copy reads fancé sly.

² Now low, now high.

As to fecht for awant
 W^t Antelop or Oliphant
 Tiger Pard or Pantere
 Buil Wolf or Wyld bere ¹ 450
 W^t the awfull Vnicorne
 Nor ony beist that wes borne
 For he faucht wichtly w^t Wad
 And w^t Melliager mad
 W^t anterouss Hercules 455
 He did a battell in pres
 And huntit was in the plane
 Befoir the goddes Dyane
 Bot he eskapit harmeles
 And killit houndis in the chase 460
 The rich king of Sydon
 And his knyghtis ilk on
 For thir bere afferd wer
 For vmquhile he wonit thair
 And gaif a battell curious 465
 To Eglamoir of Artherus
 The vgly worme nevir so weill preuit
 Quhill this bald bore leuit
 Nor git as I vnderstand
 The dragone in the holy land 470
 Is no^t this a nyce cais
 That first this pig so pure waiss
 And in so many dengeris
 He eskapit with weris ge may consaue be this twich 475
 That oft of littill cumis mich
 No contempne a small fo
 Quhill he haith grace to ryd or go
 At liberty and fredome
 I hold it no wisdome 480

¹ Old copy reads bore.

Or for loif of pennyis
 To suffer honour perreis
 And thus is the cais endit
 Of the penny pat wes spendit
 That grew to so grit priss 485
 Scarss spending skathis gentriiss
 Thus haif I tald ȝow a caiss
 To sett ȝow in solaiiss
 For our exceding study
 May causs quhyle malancoly 490
 Thairfoir to mak ws mirryar
 Thus did my fantesy fair
 And [of] this hirde girde I
 And dirde cry ȝow mercy

Explicit Prima Pars.

Fitt Secound.

Off thir mokking meteris and mad matere 495
 ȝour hé reuerence humly eft I requyre
 All ȝe hereris pardoun w^t patience
 My noyous noyiss nycetie and negligence
 And to satisfie my foirsaid symple dyte
 In recompance of it now will I wryte 500
 Of ȝE SECUND PENNY ffor the girle cost
 How it did thryve ȝat onis was thrall half lost
 A ȝeir eftir walking in his disport
 By a rever Cokelby saw resort
 Ane auld blind man w^t a pretty maid 505
 No^t twelf ȝeir hold¹ I hold of age scho haid
 Bot suth to say scho was no^t lyk to be
 A worldly wicht so wundir fair wes sche
 So weill nurtourit as scho had nurischeit bene
 In closter or court dochter to kyng or quene 510

¹ So in MS.

Innocentlie scho salust on hir kné
 This carlage man this foirsaid Colkelbé ȝit for to tell þe werray treuth of it
 He was ane man boith of substance & wit 614
 And said dochter have goddis blyssing & myne
 The auld man askit le pour amour deuine
 Cherité & he said father cum to my houss
 He had him home and gaif him fair almouss
 And intentlie inquireit quhair he had Gottin that fair innocent gudelié maid 520
 And gif scho war his dochter or kyn to say
 He said suithlie scho is nother perfoy
 Bot ane palmar ane honest man was he Ane aliane come frome beyond þe sé
 With his awin wyf a blyssit creatour 525
 Lougeit¹ with me suppoiss that I be peur
 And throuch þe will of God so as it was Thay war weseit with suddane soir seikness
 And deceissit thairin boith in ane hour
 This little maid this tender creatour 530
 Was thair dochter and beluiffit with me
 That leddis me now sence myself may nocht sé
 Colkelbé said I beleif it is so
 Bot quhat cuntré that ewer thai folk come fro
 It semis thai war of kynreid full potent 535
 Be the dochteris feris this innocent
 Bot guid father gif that ȝe wald aggree
 To lat þe maid remane heir still with me
 For hir honour and elss so wald I reid ȝow
 Bot ȝe sall haif ane boy of myne to leid ȝow 540
 The blynd man said thré soneis at home I have
 And war I thair no moir gyding I craue
 Bot for þe maide hath bene a quhill with me
 And ȝe hir haue I suld the better be

¹ Old copy, longeit.

Cokkelby said I had thré pennyis round 545
 The first wes lost onys in a lak and found
 And with it coft a pig sum callis a gryss
 Quhich increscit to he wirschip and pryss
 So mervellous mony men of him reidis
 He wes the caus of feill ferlifull deidis 550
 As his legend beris witness luke quho so list
 The secound penny I haif heir in my fist ,
 On lysis in hurd this is the caiss of thame
 Thré silly pennyis suthly I hald the same
 The said secound penny I sall gife thé 555
 For this young maid gif þat thow will and sche
 W^t my favoris in tyme to cum also Thay agreit and thus I lat thame go
 This Colkelby nvreist hir in his hous
 Quich grew so fair and verry verteouss 560
 So gentill in all hir gestis and appliable
 And sobir in s'vice and amiable
 That all þat hir saw thay luvit hir as thair lyfe
 And specialy this Colkelbeis wyfe
 A worschepfull woman in to her hous 565
 Thay callit hir to name Bellamerouss
 Betuix hir and hir husband Colkelby
 Thay had a sone callit Flammislie
 Galland he wes and gud in all his feir
 And of all vperis odly the best archeir 570
 In ony land ry^t wirschepfull and wyse
 Big of bonis a strong man of dewyse
 And as his fader and moder did oft espy
 He coppeit this going wench attentely
 In his consait w^t sad degestioun 575
 Hir most plesand perfytt pure persoun

1. 550. The words "the caus" are repeated by mistake in the manuscript.

Hir fresche figour formyt of forme & face
 Gevin to all gud fulfillit of Godis grace
 That all bonty and bewty that my^t be Worthy compryss þairof anewch had sche 580
 He lovit so weill þair was non vthir
 Bot w^t consent of freindis fadir & moder
 He weddit hir to wyfe wit ȝe for ay
 This amiable innocent Adria
 Wes callit to name and this in France fell 585
 Into the first orising of it to tell
 Or it prevelit planeist and popelus
 Quhair now Pareiss citie is situat thus
 This Colkelby wonit þair quhair the caiss
 Of þe pig fulis and all þat foirsaid was 590
 Till on a tyme þat he [o!] France the king
 Roid to vesy the boundis thair as regne
 And in the place þ^r as Cokkelby dwelt
 A man of scoir with such thing he delt
 For than non could haif craft cornis to win 595
 That king of mycht lugit into his In
 And on the morne a grit schoting thay did try
 Quhair Flamslie our all wan victory
 The king saw him so big a man and strong
 And gudly als to tary ȝow no^t lang 600
 For his body a squyer he him maid
 And in his weiris so weill he him behaid
 He was maid knyght in court to continew
 And than he send for his fair lady trew
 Dame Adria quhome the king did commend 605
 In his chalmer vpoun the quene to attend
 Best belouit and most perfyte wes sche
 For hir gestis and bewtie and bontie
 Our all the laif the ladeis þat thair ware
 And Flamnislie so weill in weiris him bare 610

1. 589. "ȝair" interlined in manuscript.

That the king efter maid him erle ryall
 And a cornar of a cuntre seuerall
 No^t that invent inhabit as it lay
 Gaif him be seile heretable for ay
 Quhich he plenyssit w^t peple and polesy 615
 And namit it efter him and his lady
 This is to say Flammislie and Adria
 His hole erldome callit Flandria
 Flan fra the first sillab of Flammislie
 And Dria drevin fra Adria the fré 620
 The quhich famouss erldome of Flanderis ay
 Haldis of Frankland and Duchpeir to this day
 Off the secound penny thus cum grit grace
 W^t correctioun and this I call a cace
 I reid no^t this in story autentyfe 625
 I did it leir at ane full auld wyfe
 My gritgraundame men callit hir Gurgunnald
 Scho knew þe lyfe of mony faderis ald
 Notable gestis of peas and weiris in storye
 Fresche in hir mynd & recent of memorye 630
 No^tw^tstanding scho was weill sett in eild
 Hir aige I hald of sevin scoir of winteris heild
 And saw sumdeill bot for to say the suth
 Into hir heid I trest was no^t a tuth
 Thairfoir grwew most gredely eit sche 635
 And laking teith famvlit hir faculté
 That few folk mycht consaue hir mvmling mowth
 Bot I þat was expert þ^rin of ȝowth
 Than wald I say scho had grit grace of God
 Quhy so q^d scho my son and maid a nod 640
 Madame q^d I for thair be mony wyffis
 Throw haboundance of spech þat nevir tryffis

1. 635. The word "grwew" in the manuscript seems unintelligible. Perhaps it is an error of the transcriber for "grwell."

And I wald chenge my^t it be at my reid
 For a gud tounge all the teith in thair heid
 As ge ar now so suld thay no^t be namit 645
 Skaldis baldis and þairthrow schent and schamit
 Than angrit scho and said Sanct Johne to borrow
 Thow licht boy thow menis mekle sorrow
 And sall do moir gife thow in lyfe may byd
 Madame q^d I that tak I on geour syd 650
 Than wald scho preiss bett me in angry wyss
 Bot weill was me scho my^t no^t ryn nor ryss
 And I wald vp and wisk away full wyld
 Than wald scho flattir cum in agane my chyld
 And thow sall haif lo standing in the skelf 655
 Quheit breid and reme conservit for my self
 Than sett scho me to leir littell at the scule
 Nowdir lyk to be a wys man nor a fule
 And oft w^t pyne scho maid me to report
 Of hir tailis and to conclud in schort 660
 Scho said my sone be this said taill thou sall
 Lerne fyve wittis and the first of thame all
 Is to concidder of fulis the foly
 Set in nummer thay ryss and multeply
 Thay may nevir moir fruct in felicity 665
 Thair ignorance requyris no^t it so be Experience and testimoniall
 Off þe saidis fulis my sone consaif thow sall
 That a pure pig in þair possessioun
 Thay had and tuk for ferme conclusioun 670
 To kill þe samyn and mak of it a feist
 And syne thay war ourthrawin most and leist
 For sory swyne for thair golfing affraid
 Till þat þe pig brak fra thame in a braid
 And syne knavis ourcome þame w^t a crye 675
 Thairfoir my sone fra sic fulich foly
 And fallowschip keip thé for the first wit
 The secund is my sone will thou lerne it

Presume nevir bot povert may prewaill
 Be it ry^t wiss aganis men of grit availl 680
 That ar no^t wyiss bot wranguss in þ^r deidis
 In cais þai mak thé quhiles vex^t at nedis
 Witnes this pig sone be experience
 That was fangit in þe fulis offence
 To be killit and recouerit agane 685
 To so grit grace as is foirsaid certaine
 Thairfoir my sone leif no^t thy gud quarrell
 For apperance of dangeris and parrell
 For be thow just God sall thy juge be
 In all perrellis and weill deliuer thé 690
 And the danger passit thow art als sure
 As evir thow was and stranger in nature
 To aventure agane in richtownace
 Bot quho so will cowardly hyd his face
 In defens of his just actioun 695
 Quhen he trestis him for such fowll affectioun
 Most in surty suppressit sone sal he be Quhair the richtouss frome all feir sall go fré
 Lychtly nevir thy gud querrell for feir
 Off all perellis dowl damage or dangeir 700
 Suld it so be nevir suld martirdome
 Fortefie fath nor win the sege of Rome
 Quho þat surest dois keip him sonest dois flyd
 Bot gud quarrell and grace God be thy gyd
 The thrid wit is my sone gif thow will ken 705
 Quhair evir thow seis grit wit in virtewiss men
 Tho^t thay be pure auld or ȝong specially
 Contempne thame no^t sone and lo the quhy
 This maid this girle this pure Adria wes ȝoung faderles leuit and eik moderles 710
 In strenge lond and ȝit the Holy Gost
 Vpliftit hir for wit to wirschep most

And in lykwayiss hir lord Erle Flannyslie
 Quho wold haif þame opprest for þ^r pouirte
 Remembir now in such hicht as thay are 715
 Quhat may thay do to þair party contrare
 Thay may weill quyt and ourthraw þame at all
 Dispyss nevir wyiss vertewis in purall
 The ferd wit is lat nevir thy penny be
 Nor warldis gud my sone mastir of thé 720
 For littill thing weill spendit may incress
 To hé honour wirschep and gritt riches
 As did thir tuo pennyis spendit weill
 Vpoun þe pig and the pure damesell
 I neid no moir of thame to multeply 725
 Thow knawis befor how they did fructefy
 Thairfoir hald no^t pennyis our pretiouss
 Bot suffer thame pass prospering commodiouss
 Forsuth a tyme a penny thow may spend
 That may awaill thé to thy lyvis end 730
 Thairfoir my sone gife thow thinkis to indure
 Spend w^t mesure for luk wit and mesure
 The fyist wit is my sone set nevir thy harte
 To mak an hurd suffering hono^r by starte 734
 For littill watt thow how sone þ^t thow may slid
 Frome it slely or it fra þe to glid
 And at the leist in þe hurd quhill it lyis
 It servis nowdir þe warld nor multeplyis
 And gif thow deis it is unknawin to men
 In avarice quhat cheir is w^t thé then 740
 For quich this man this worthy Colkelby
 That in his dayis gat nevir bot pennyis thré
 Saw two thryve weill and the thrid did no^t
 Incontinent þat penny out he brocht
 And awowit to God in solempne word 745
 That he suld nevir study to mak ane hord
 Ry^t so my sone I chaarge thé to dude
 Spend w^t wirchep and spair n^t Godis gud

How littill wat thow ane vdir tyme quho may Bruk thy wyfe & baggis eftir thy day 750
 Thus Gurgunnald my grit grandame me kend
 Haif I myssaid in ocht I sall amend.

Explicit Secunda Pars.

Fitt Thrid.

AND w^t pardoun now of ȝour hé lordschippis
 And correctioun of ȝour reuerend maisterschippis
 Heir wald I tell of THE THRID HID PENNY 755
 As I haif told ȝow two did fructefy
 This Cokelby concidering weill the cais
 That of wrechit awarice grew nevir grace
 Having in hairt the hole experience
 How þat the two pennyis raiss in ascenss 760
 Tho^t he wald preve the thrid penny quhyle hid Quhilk for þe tyme no fruct nor proffeit did
 To suffer it spreid in warld and fructefy
 And gif sum folk wald say þat I go by
 How suld a penny fruct contrair nature 765
 Sen gold siluer mettell alkyn vre
 Fynit be folkis vanisis and no^t inressis Sum wold allege my lewit langage a less is Bot or I waid moir in this wildirnes
 Off such weir I will declair the cass 770
 Quhill þat the vre is in the awia nature
 And no^t fynit nor forgit be manis cure
 So long the forss of the four elementis
 And most þe erth mynisteris it nvtrimentis
 To inressing as herbis stone or tré 775
 Frome thair orising stok cuttit quhill thay be
 And frome thair ferm first rutit grund dewydit
 Thay may no^t than be natur so absceidit

Do fructife and flureiss as afoir
 Lyk as a man heidit he may no moir 780
 Bot þat the saule throw grace of God only
 In spirituall joyis only dois fructefy
 So þe mettell abscidit be þe man
 No^t fructefeis of nature bot quhat than Manly resoun and wit of Godis gift 785
 Fyndis menis the money to vplift
 And multeply in moir memoir & mycht
 Than evir it did in erd quhill it plycht
 For quhy so long as it lay on the ground
 It was vnfynit as fruct nevirmoir found 790
 And quhan it was vptak be manis wit
 Throw out the warld alway welcome wes it
 And set in cas and menissit a lyte
 Vsit and handlit be men ȝit quhair a myte
 Failis þairof manis wit bringis agane 795
 A thowsand pundis fynit out of vris plane
 The examplis þat quhoso hath a vertew
 Vss it wysly eft syiss ten from it grew
 And in schort my long legend quho so lestis
 The euwangell the trew^t þairof attestis 800
 Goddis awin word quhich tuk frome on fule man
 A pure penny having no moir as than
 And gaif the wyss that had ten pennyis tald
 Bot quhy was that for the fule man no wald
 Dispone wysly his penny bot abuss it 805
 Hyd it and he þat had ten weill tham usit
 Thairfoir god tuk frome the vnverteouss man
 A penny and gaif to the gud having ten
 Ry^t so he þat has strente and it abusis
 No^t following fast the fruct but it refusis 810
 God will it geif to him þat hæs far moir
 I cast me nocht alday to gloiss in gloir
 Or to langar legendis þat are prolixit
 Thairfoir I turne vnto my first text

As to declair the thrid penny quhyle hid 815
 Eftir out brocht and gydit grace it did
 As followis heir quho lykis to adwert
 Throw consaitis of Colkelby expert
 Lyk o sede sawin in erd mortificat
 Flouris money fructis vinificat 820
 Lyk martiris killit off quhome the mirreitis rysis
 Sanctis in hevin quhome sinfull man supprysis
 And herkynniss how besyd this Colkelby
 Thair duelt a man was rich of stoir and fie 824
 Quhair Bodyvincant castell standis now in plane
 His big ny^tbour men callit him Bleirblowane
 A wirthy wyfe had he weddit and sche
 Was callit Susane on quhome a sone gat he
 And Colkelby was gossep to the same
 And he callit him Cokalb to his rycht name 830
 Colkelby w^t the said thrid penny bocht xxiiij hen heggis and w^t them socht
 To his gud sone for godfadirly reward
 Him to remembir as schawit is eftirward
 Susan angrit heirtit as oft woman is 835
 Quhile passionat þat all consaitis kennis
 Tuk in disdaine this gift this symple thing
 And said gossap beir hame þour pure offring
 Mene ge to mok my sone & me no moir
 I will heirof fure it away þhairfoir 840
 He said I sall keip thame to my gud sone
 And had tiame home to his place quhair he wone
 And chairgeit sone his henwyfe to do hir cure
 And mak þame fruct than to set thame scho fure
 Hir best brod hen callit lady Pekle pes 845
 And þoung Cokrell hir lord and lemman wes
 Scho maid brud on thir eggis þat in schort space
 Twenty four chikkynis of þame scho hes
 Twelf maill and twelf famell be croniculis cleir 849
 And quhat thay war w^t thair names we sall heir

The first wes the samyn Chanteclair to luke
 Of quhome Chaucer treitis into his buke
 And his lady Partlot sister and wyfe
 Quhilk wes no lyse in detis of þat lyfe
 For quhy folkis leuit be naturall lawis than 855
 The tuther brupir was clipit Cokademan
 He tuk to wyfe his fair trew sister Toppok
 Coktrawdoun was the thrid and his wyfe Coppok
 And to compt just the fourt Cok lyk ouris
 And littill Henpen his pretty paramo^ris 860
 And fyift lord was Lyricok in hall
 And Kekilcrouss thay did his lady call
 Brid to Kittilcok that sat on reid caill stok
 And Feklefaw farest of all the flok
 Was the sext and Cokrusty the sevin 865
 Dame Strange his wyfe quhilk had a stout stevin
 Cokky the aucht his lady clepit Erok
 Coknolus the nynt spowsit his sister Vrok
 Cokcoby the tent and Sprutok his speciall
 Cokobenar the levint his maik thay cail 870
 Dame Juliane the twelf wes Cokjawbert
 And lady Wagtail his joy and all his hairt
 So stout a stoir come of þir breþ^r twelf
 And þair sisteris I can no^t say my self
 The syistre[s] p^{te} thay wer so fructeouss 875
 And at schreftis evin sum wes so battalouss
 That he wald win to his maist^r in feild
 Fourty florans w^t bill and spuris beild
 Sum of þis stoir this Cokkelby did sell
 Sum auld sum gung sum eggis in the schell 880
 And coft þ^rw^t vþ^r ware and so it turnit
 This penny that xv geir it no^t fowrnit
 He mvlteplyit moir than a thowsand pound
 Than his gud sone he callit to him a stound
 Befoir his fader moder and freindis all 885
 And said Cokkalb my sone ressaif thow sall

All thir gudis for justly thay ar thyne
 Off thy chyld gift storit throw grace devyne
 Fro xxiiij hen eggis quiche I thé gaif ȝet þi moder sone wald þame no^t ressaif 890
 Than as ȝe hard he tald all þe caiss
 This Cokelb grew eftir to so grit richness
 Throw this penny he grew the michtiest man
 In ony realme quhat did þe penny than
 First hid in hurde to vertew no^t applyit 895
 And syne outbrocht þat so fer fructefyit
 Thairfoir my sone study nevir in thy day
 W^t auarice warldis gud in hurd till ley
 Nor be thow no^t disparit of Godis grace
 The thrid penny this was and þe last caice 900
 As my biledame old Gurgunnald told me
 I allege non vþir auctorité
 In this sentence maid on revill rail
 Quhich semys most to be a wyfis tail
 W^t correctioun quhile now I this conclud 905
 God þat ws bocht w^t his awin blissit blud
 Both ȝow and me to consarue he deden
 Throw meik mirreitis of his only sone Amen.

Explicit Tertia Pars et Ultima.

The Tale of Rauf Coilgear.

THE excellent and worthy Prelate who was the first to draw public attention to the stores of our ancient poetical literature has justly observed, that it has ever "been a favourite subject with our English ballad-makers to represent our kings conversing, either by accident or design, with the meanest of their subjects;"¹ and at the same time he states, that his manuscript volume of old Ballad and Romance Poetry contains a mutilated copy of the ancient poem of "John the Reeve," which follows in the present collection. This Poem Bishop Percy describes as "being built on an adventure of the same kind with the ballad of 'The King and the Miller of Mansfield,' which happened between King Edward Longshanks and one of his Reeves or Bailiffs. The latter (he adds) is a piece of great antiquity, being written before the time of Edward IV., and for its genuine humour, diverting incidents, and faithful picture of rustic manners, is infinitely superior to all that have since been written in imitation." The originality of conception, thus assigned to this poem, appears rather questionable, as there are several English ballads (such as the "King and the Barker"²) that may vie with it in point of antiquity: and certainly it can by no means be esteemed so ancient as "Ralf Coilgear."

"Rauf Coilgear," in common with the greater number of the ancient tales and romances in our vernacular language, might have been referred by conjecture to some Frankish original, if it had not been the case that the writer has borrowed one of his heroes from a period when the modern French capital was hardly known or used as such. It

¹ Reliques of Ancient English Poetry, vol. iii. p. 179.

² Hazlitt's "Popular Poetry," 1864-66, i. 3-10.

purports to relate an adventure between Charlemagne or Karl and a collier in the vicinity of Paris—a city which the Emperor-king rarely visited. It is rather, then, the composition of a Scot, who, like many of his countrymen, had received his education in France, and was tempted to adopt the names without much reflection or inquiry. But it deserves notice that, whoever was the author, he followed the example of the writer of Colkelbie Sow in laying his scene there in the only passage where a locality is specified. The language of this tale, with the peculiar structure of the stanza and its alliterative style, refer the composition to a period not later than the fourteenth or the beginning of the fifteenth century; but we are not possessed of such evidence as might entitle us to ascribe it in particular to any one Scottish poet. That at an early period it enjoyed much popularity in Scotland is sufficiently evident. Dunbar in one of his poems addressed to James IV. mentions,

“Gentill and semple, of every clan,
Kyne of Rauf Colgear and Johne the Reif.”

And Bishop Douglas, in the “Palice of Honour,” written in the year 1503, among other characters of notoriety, says,

“I saw Rauf Colgear with his thrawin brow.”

It is also enumerated by the author of the “Complaynt of Scotland,” printed at Paris about 1549, among the “tailis, fabillis, and plesand stories” recited by “the scheiperdis,” whereof “sum vas in prose and sum in verse, sum vas storeis, and sum vas flet taylis.”

This tale, however, was, for a length of time, considered no longer to be in existence. The short notice which occurs in Jos. Ames’s “Typographical Antiquities,” 1749, 4to, p. 583, is the only intimation respecting any printed edition; but so completely had every copy eluded detection, that the repeated search and inquiry of more than half a century failed in gratifying the curiosity excited by these different allusions, among our poetical antiquaries. In the index to the Auchinleck Manuscript: “Item þe buke of ralf colgear,” appears as the LXIV. article,—but this, and some other portions of the same volume, have long since been lost.

The present re-impression has been made from a printed copy discovered in 1821 in a volume of English tracts of extreme rarity in the Library of the Faculty of Advocates. In the original (of the title of which a correct facsimile is here given, although seemingly printed with more accuracy than is usually met with in such publications, two lines in the XIth and one line in the LVth stanza appear to have been omitted. The tract is in 4to, and contains sixteen leaves in black letter. The only liberty that has been taken, besides the change of letter, is the substitution of "th" in the few instances where the Anglo-Saxon "þ" had been introduced.

The tale of "Rauf Coilgear" has claims to public attention altogether independent of its uncommon rarity, as it possesses no inconsiderable share of poetical merit, and the versification or rhythm is remarkable as the prototype of "Peblis to the Play," "Christ's Kirk on the Green," and other Scottish productions. Indeed, it may be worth considering whether it is not probable that this and "Peblis to the Play" were from the same pen. Although, like most poems of the same age and character, many words are altered from their usual acceptance, or introduced merely for the sake of the alliterative style, the language is by no means obscure. The narrative is simple and circumstantial; the characters are well described; and a vein of comic humour runs through the whole. The adventure with the Saracen towards the conclusion of the poem (very skilfully introduced, to prevent the author from committing the reputation, either of "Schir Rauf," his hero, or of the "gentill knycht," "Schir Rolland"—the Roland or Orlando of history), which terminates so happily in "Magog's" conversion to the Christian faith, and his marriage with the "Gentill Duchess," may, perhaps, be considered as the strongest evidence of its foreign original.

It may be stated that a very rude woodcut follows the imprint in the original, and has been omitted, as it would not have been any ornament, and, besides, has not the slightest allusion to the poem itself; that of the two heads on the title-page occurs also in the edition of Sir D. Lyndsay's Works, 4to, 1571.

E Heir beginnis the taill of Kauf coilzear how he harbreit King
charlis

W Imprentit at Sanc-tandrois be Robert Lekpreuik. Anno. 1572.

IN the cheiftyme of Charlis that chosin
 Chiftane
 Thair fell ane ferlyfull flan within thay fellis wyde
 Quhair Empreouris and Erlis and vther mony ane

Turnit fra Sanct Thomas befor the gule tyde
 Thay past vnto Paris thay proudest in pane 5
 With mony Prelatis ⁊ Princis that was of mekle pryde

All thay went with the King to his worthy wane
 Our feildis sa fair thay fure be his syde
 All the worthiest went in the morning
 Baith Dukis and Duchepeiris 10
 Barrounis and Bacheleiris
 Mony stout man steiris

Of town with the King.

¶ And as that Ryall raid our the rude mure
 Him betyde ane tempest that tyme hard I tell
 The wind blew out of the Eist stiflie and sture 15
 The deip durandlie draif in mony deip dell,
 Sa feirslic fra the Firmament sa fellounlie it fure
 Thair nicht na folk hald na fute on the heich fell
 In point thay war to parische thay proudest men and pure

In thay wickit wedderis thair wist nane to dwell 20
 Amang thay myrck Montanis sa madlie they mer
 Be it was pryme of the day
 Sa wonder hard fure thay
 That ilk ane tuik ane seir way

And sperpellit full fer.

☞ Ithand wedderis of the eist draif on sa fast 25
 It all to blaisterit and blew that thairin baid

Be thay disseuerit sindrie midmorne was past
 Thair wist na Knicht of the Court quhat way the King raid

He saw thair was na better bot God on the last
 His steid aganis the storme staluartlie straid 30
 He Cachit fra the Court sic was his awin cast
 Quhair na body was him about be fiue mylis braid
 In thay Montanis I wis he wox all will
 In wickit wedderis and wicht
 Amang thay Montanis on hicht 35
 Be that it drew to the nicht

The King lykit ill.

Euill lykand was the King it nichtit him sa lait
 And he na harberie had for his behufe ;
 Sa come thair ane cant Carll chachand the gait
 With ane Capill and twa Creillis cuplit abufe 40
 The King carpit to the Carll withoutin debait
 Schir tell me thy richt name for the Rude lufe
 He sayis men callis me Rauf Coilgear as I weill wait
 I leid my life in this land with mekle vnrufe
 Baith tyde and tyme in all my trauale 45
 Hine our seuin mylis I dwell
 And leidis Coilis to sell
 Sen thow speiris I the tell. All the suith hale.

¶ Sa mot I thrife said the King I speir for nane ill
 Thow semis ane nobill fallow thy answer is sa fyne
 Forsuith said the Coilgear traist quhen thow will 51
 For I trow and it be nocht swa sum part salbe thyne Mary God forbid said the King that war bot lytill skill

Baith my self and my hors is reddy for to tyne
 I pray the bring me to sum rest the weddir is sa schill
 For I defend that we fall in ony fechtine 56

I had mekill mair nait sum friendship to find
 And gif thow can better than I
 For the name of Sanct July
 Thow bring me to sum harbery 60
 And leif me not behind.

I wait na worthie harberie heir neir hand
 For to serue sic ane man as me think the Nane bot mine awin hous maist in this land
 Fer furth in the Forest amang the fellis hie
 With thy thow wald be payit of sic as thou fand 65
 Forsuith thou suld be wel cum to pas hame with me
 Or ony vther gude fallow that I heir faand
 Walkand will of his way as me think the
 For the wedderis ar fa fell that fallis on the feild
 The King was blyth quhair he raid 70
 Of the grant that he had maid
 Sayand with hait glaid
 Schir God ꝑow forgeild.

Na thank me not our airlie for dreid that we threip
 For I haue seruit the ꝑit of lytill thing to rufe
 For nouthar hes thow had of me fyre drink nor meit
 Nor nane vther eismentis for trauellouris behufe 76
 Bot nicht we bring this harberie this nicht weil to heip
 That we nicht with ressoun baith thus excuse
 To morne on the morning quhen thow sall on leip
 Pryse at the parting how that thow dois 80
 For first to lose and syne to lak Peter it is schame
 The King said, in gude fay
 Schir it is suith that ꝑe say
 Into sic talk fell thay
 Quhill thay war neir hame.

¶ To the Coilgearis hous baith or thay wald biin 85
 The Carll had Cuning weil quhair the gait lay Vndo the dure belieue Dame art thow in Quhy Deuill makis thow na dule for this euill day
 For my Gaist and I baith cheueris with the chin
 Sa fell ane wedder feld I neuer be my gude fay 90
 The gude wyfe glaid with the gle to begin
 For durst scho neuer sit sūmoundis that scho hard him say
 The Carll was wantōū of word and wox wonder wraith
 All abaisit for blame
 To the dure went our Dame 95
 Scho said Schir ge ar welcome hame
 [You] and your Gaist baith.

Dame I haue deir coft all this dayis hyre
 In wickit wedderis and weit walkand full will Dame kyith I am cūmin hame and kendill on ane fyre
 I trow our Gaist be the gait hes farne als ill 100
 Ane Ryall rufe he fyre war my desyre
 To fair the better for his saik gif we nicht win thair till
 Knap doun Capounis of the best but in the byre
 Heir is bot hamelie fair do belieue Gill
 Twa cant knaifis of his awin haistelie he bad 105
 The ane of gow my Capill ta
 The vther his Coursour als wa
 To the stabill swyith ge ga
 Thā was the King glaid.

☞ The Coilgear gudlie in feir, tuke him by the hand
 And put him befor him as ressoun had bene 110

Quhen thay come to the dure the King begouth to stand

To put the Colgear in befoir maid him to mene
He said thow art vncourtes that sall I warrand
He tyt the King be the nek twa part in tene
Gif thow at bidding suld be boun or obeysand 115
And gif thow of Courtasie couth thow hes forget it clene

Now is anis said the Coilgear kynd aucht to creip
Sen ellis thow art vnknawin
To mak me Lord of my awin
Sa mot I thriue I am thrawin 120

Begin we to threip.

Than benwart they geid quhair brandis was bricht
To ane bricht byrnand fyre as the Carll bad
He callt on Gyliane his wyfe thair Supper to dicht
Of the best that thair is help that we had Efter ane euill day to haue ane mirrie nicht 125
For sa troublit with stormis was I neuer stad
Of ilk airt of the Eist sa laithly it laid git was I mekle willar than Quhē I met with this man
Of sic taillis thay began 130
Quhill the supper was graid.

¶ Sone was the Supper dicht and the fyre bet
And thay had weschin I wis the worthiest was thair
Tak my wyfe be the hand in feir withoutin let
And gang begin the buird said the Colgear
That war unsemand forsuith and thy self vnset 135
The King profferit him to gang and maid ane strange fair
Now is twyse said the Carll me think thow hes forget
He leit gyrd to the King withoutin ony mair

And hit him vnder the eir with his richt hand
 Quhill he stakkerit thair with all 140
 Half the breid of the hall
 He faind neuer of ane fall Quhill the eird fand.

¶ He stert vp stoutly agane vneis micht he stand

For anger of that outray that he had thair tane
 He callit on Gyliane his wyfe ga tak him be the hand 145

And gang agane to the buird quhair ge suld air haue gane

Schir thow art vnskilfull and that sall I warrand
 Thow byrd to haue nurtour aneuch and thow hes nane

Thow hes walkit I wis in mony wyld land
 The mair vertew thow suld haue to keip the fra blame 150

Thow suld be courtes of kynd and ane cunnand
 Courteir

Thocht that I simpill be
 Do as I bid the

The hous is myne pardie And all that is heir.

☞ The King said to himself this is ane euill lyfe 155

git was I neuer in my lyfe thus gait leird
 And I haue oft tymes bene quhair gude hes bene ryfe

That maist couth of courtasie in this Cristin eird
 Is nane sa gude as leif of and mak na mair stryfe

For I am stonischit at this straik that hes me
 thus steird 160

In feir fairlie he foundis with the gude wyfe
 Quhair the Coilgear bad sa braithlie he beird

Quhen he had done his bidding, as him gude thocht

Doun he sat the King neir

And maid him glaid & gude cheir 165

And said ge ar welcum heir

Be him that me bocht.

¶ Quhen thay war seruit and set to the Suppar

Gyil and the gentill King Charlis of nicht

Syne on the tother syde sat the Coilgear

Thus war thay marschellit but mair ¶ matchit that nicht 170

Thay brocht breid to the buird and braun of ane
bair

And the worthyest wyne went vpon hicht

Thay Beirnis as I wene thay had aneuch thair

Within that burelie bigging, byrnand full bricht

Syne enteris thair daynteis on deis dicht dayntelie

Within that worthie wane 176

Forsui'h wantit thay nane

With blyith cheir, sayis Gyliane

Schir dois glaidlie.

☞ The Carli carpit to the King cumlie and cleir
Schir the Forestaris forsuith of this Forest 180

Thay haue me all at Inuy for dreid of the Deir

Thay threip that I thring doun of the fattest

Thay say I sall to Paris thair to compeir

Befoir our cumlie King in dule to be drest

Sic manassing thay me mak forsuith ilk gear 185

And git aneuch sall I haue for me and ane Gest

Thairfoir sic as thou seis spend on and not spair

Thus said gentill Charlis the Mane

To the Coilgear agane

The King himself hes bene fane 190

Sum tyme of sic fair.

¶ Of Caponnis and Cūningis they had plentie
 With wyne at thair will and eik Vennysoun
 Byrdis bakin in breid, the best that may be Thus full freschlie thay fure into fusioun
 The Carll with ane cleir voce carpit on he 195
 Said Gyll lat the cop raik for my bennysoun
 And gar our Gaist begin and syne drink thow to me
 Sen he is ane stranger me think it ressoun
 Thay drank dreichlie about thay wosche and thay rais
 The King with ane blyith cheir 200
 Thankit the Coilgear
 Syne all the thre into feir To the fyre gais

Quhen they had maid thame eis the Coilgear tald
 Mony sindrie taillis efter Suppair
 Ane bricht byrnand fyre was byrnand full bald 205
 The King held gude countenance and company
 bair
 And euer to his asking ane answer he gald Quhill at the last he began to frane farther mair
 In faith freind I wald wit tell gif ge wald
 Quhair is thy maist wyning said the Coilgear 210
 Out of weir said the King I waynd it neuer to tell
 With my Lady the Quene
 In office maist haue I bene
 All thir geiris fyftene

In the Court for to dwell,

¶ Quhat kin office art thow in quhen thow art at hame 215
 Gif thow dwellis with the Quene proudest in pane

Ane Chyld of hir Chalmer Schir be Sanct
Jame

And thocht my self it say maist inwart of ane
For my dwelling to nicht I dreid me for blame Quhat sal I cal y^e said y^e Coilgear quhē thow art hyne gane 220

Wymond of the Wardrop is my richt Name
Quhair euer thow findis me befor the thi harberie is tane

And thow will cum to the Court this I vndersta
Thow sall haue for thy Few.ill
For my saik the better sail 225
And onwart to thy trauaill

Worth ane laid or twa

¶ He said I haue na knowlege quhair the Court lyis

And I am wonder wa to cum quhair I am vnkend
And I sall say thee the suith on ilk syde I wis
That thow sall wit weill aneuch or I fra the wend
Baith the King and the Quene meitis in Paris 231
For to hald thair gule togidder for scho is efter send

Thair may thow sell be ressoun als deir as thow will prys

And git I sall help the gif I ocht may amend
For I am knawin with Officiaris in cais thow cum thair 235

Haue gude thocht on my Name
And speir gif I be at hame
For I suppois be Sanct Jame

Thow sall the betetr fair.

Me think it ressoun be the Rude that I do thy rid

In cais I cum to the Court and knaw bot the ane 240

Is nane sa gude as drink and gang to our bed
 For als far as I wait the nicht is furth gane
 To ane preuie Chalmer belieue thay him led Quhair ane burely bed was wrocht in that wane
 Closit with Courtingis and cumlie cled 245
 Of the worthiest wyne wantit thay nane
 The Coilgear and his wyfe baith with him thay geid
 To serue him all at thay mocht
 Till he was in bed brocht
 Mair the King spak nocht 250
 Bot thankit thame thair deid.

☞ Vpon the morne airlie quhen it was day
 The King buskit him sone with scant of Squyary
 Wachis and Wardroparis all war away
 That war wont for to walkin mony worthy
 Ane Pauyot preuilie brocht him his Palfray 255
 The King thocht lang of this lyfe and lap on in hy
 Than callit he on the Carll anent quhair he lay
 For to tak his leif than spak he freindly
 Than walkinnit they baith and hard he was thair
 The Carll start vp sone 260
 And prayit him to abyde [a]none
 Quhill thir wickit wedderis be done
 I rid nocht ge fair.

Sa mot I thriue said the King me war lath to byde
 Is not the morne geule day formest of the geir 264
 Ane man that Office suld beir betyme at this tyde
 He will be found in his fault that wantis foroutin weir
 I se the Firmament fair vpon ather syde

I will returne to the Court quhill the wedder is cleir

Call furth the gude wyfe lat pay hir or we ryde
For the worthie harberie that I haue fundin heir
Lat be God forbid the Coilgear said 271
And thow [be] of Charlis cumpany
Cheif King of Cheualry
That for ane nichtis harbery Pay suld be laid.

¶ Gea sen it is sa that thow will haue na pay 275
Cum the morne to the Court and do my counsall
Deliuer the and bring ane laid and mak na delay
Thow may not schame with thy Craft gif thow thriue sall
Gif I may help the ocht to sell forsuith I sall assay
And als my self wald haue sum of the Fewall 280
Peter he said I sall preif the morne gif I may
To bring Coillis to the Court to se gif they sell sall
Se that thow let nocht I pray the said the King
In faith said the Coilgear
Traist weill I salbe thair 285
For thow will neuer gif the mair
To mak ane lesing.

Bot tell me now lelely quhat is thy richt name
I will forget the morne and ony man ma greif
Wymond of the Wardrop I bid not to lane Tak gude tent to my name the Court gif thow will preif 290
That I haue said I sall bald and that I tell the plane
Quhair ony Coilgear may enchaip I trow till encheif
Quhen he had grantit him to cum than was the King fane
And withoutin ony mair let than he tuke his leif

Then the Coilgear had greit thocht on the cūnand he had maid 295

Went to the Charcoill in hy
 To mak his Chauffray reddy
 Agane the morne airly

He ordanit him ane laid.

¶ The lyft lemit vp beliuē and licht was the day
 The King had greit knowledge the countrie to ken 300

Schir Rolland and Oliuer come rydand the way
 With thame ane thousand and ma of sensabill men
 War wanderand all the nicht our ¶ mony ma than thay

On ilk airt outward war ordanit sic ten Gif thay micht heir of the King or happin quhair
 he lay 305

To Jesus Christ thay pray that grace thame to len
 Als sone as Schir Rolland saw it was the King
 He kneillit down in the place
 Thank and God ane greit space.
 Thair was ane meting of grace 310

At that gadding.

The gentill Knicht Schir Rolland he kneilit on his kne

Thankand greit God that mekill was of micht
 Schir Oliuer at his hand and Bischoppis thre
 Withoutin cōmounis that come and mony vther
 Knicht

Than to Paris thay pas all that Cheualrie 315
 Betuix none of the day and gule nicht
 The Gentill Bischop Turpine cummand thay se
 With threttie Conuent of Preistis reuest at ane sicht

Preichand of Prophecie in Proceßioun
 Efter thame baith fer and neir 320
 Folkis following in feir
 Thankand God with gude cheir
 Thair Lord was gane to toun.

 Quhen thay Princis appeirit into Paris
 Ilk rew ryallie with riches thame arrayis
 Thair was digne seruice done at Sanct Dyonyß 325
 With mony proud Prelat as the buik sayis
 Syne to Supper thay went within the Palys
 Befoir that mirthfull man menstrallis playis
 Mony wicht wylis sone worthie and wise
 Was sene at that semblay ane and twentie dayis 330
 With all kin principall plentie for his plesance
 They callit it the best gule than
 And maist worthie began
 Sen euer King Charlis was man

Or euer was in France.

¶ Than vpon the morn eairlie quhen the day dew 335
 The Coilgear had greit thoct quhat he had vnder tane

He kest twa Creillis on ane Capill with Coillis new Wandit thame with widdeis to wend on that wane
 Mary it is not my counsall, but gone man that ge knew.

To do gow in his gentrise said Gyliane 340
 Thow gaif him ane outrageous blaw ¶ greit boist blew

In faith thow suld haue bocht it deir bot he had bene allane

For thy hald gow fra the Court for ocht that may be gone man that thow outrayd
 Is not sa simpill as he said 345
 Thairun my lyfe dar I layd

That sall thow heir and se.

☞ gea Dame haue nane dreid of my lyfe to day
 Let me wirk as I will the weird is mine awin
 I spak not out of ressoun the suth gif I sall say
 To Wymond of the Wardrop war the suith knawin 350

That I haue hecht I sall hald happin as it may Quhidder sa it gang to greif or to gawin
 He caught twa Creillis on ane capill ¶ catchit on his way.

Ouir the Daillis sa derf, be the day was dawin
 The hie way to Paris, in all that he mocht 355
 With ane quhip in his hand
 Cantlie on catchand
 To fulfill his cunnand To the Court socht.

¶ Graith thocht of the grant had the gude King
 And callit Schir Rolland him till and gaif cōmandment 360

Ane man he traistit in maist atour all vther thing
 That neuer wald set him on assay withoutin his assent

Tak thy hors and thy harnes in the morning
 For to watche weill the wayis I wald that thow went

Gif thow meitis ony leid lent on the ling 365
 Gar thame boun to this Burgh I tell the mine intent

Or gyf thow seis ony man cumming furth the way
 Quhat sumeuer that he be
 Bring him haistely to me
 Befoir none that I him se In this hall the day.

¶ Schir Rolland had greit ferly and in hart kest
 Quhat that suld betakin that the King tald
 Vpon solemni[s]t gule day quhen ilk man suld rest
 That him behouit neidlingis to watche on the wald

Quhen his God to serue he suld haue him drest 375
 And syne with ane blyith cheir buskit that bald
 Out of Paris proudly he preikit full prest
 In till his harnes all hail his hechtis for to hald
 He vmbekest the countrie outwith the toun
 Ha saw na thing on steir 380
 Nouthur fer nor neir
 Bot the feildis in feir Daillis and doun.

¶ He huit and he houerit quhill midmorne and mair
 Behaldand the hie hillis and passage sa plane Sa saw he quhair the Coilgear come with all his fair 385
 With twa Creillis on ane Capill thairof was he fane
 He followit to him haistely amang the holtis hair
 For to bring him to the King at bidding full bane
 Courtesly to the Knicht kneillit the Coilgear
 And Schir Rolland him self salust him agane 390
 Syne bad him leif his courtasie and boun him to ga
 He said withoutin letting
 Thow mon to Paris to the King
 Speid the fast in ane ling Sen I find na ma.

¶ I faith said the Coilgear, git was I neuer sa nyse 395
 Schir Knicht it is na courtasie commounis to scorne
 Thair is mony better than I cummis oft to Parys
 That the King wait not of, nouthur nicht nor morne
 For to towsill me or tit me, thocht foull be my clais
 Or I be dantit on sic wyse my lyfe salbe lorne 400
 Do way said Schir Rolland, me think thow art not wise
 I rid thow at bidding be, be all that we haue sworne

And call thow it na scorning but do as I the ken
 Sen thow hes hard mine Intent
 It is the Kingis commandement 405
 At this tyme thow suld haue went
 And I had met sic ten.

¶ I am bot ane mad man that thow hes heir met
 I haue na myster to matche with maisterfull men
 Fairand our the feildis Fewell to fet
 And oft fylit my feit in mony foull fen 410
 Gangand with laidis my gouerning to get Thair is mony Carll in the countrie thow may nocht ken,
 I sall hald that I haue hecht, bot I be hard set
 To Wymond of the Wardrop I wait full weill quhen
 Sa thriue I said, Rolland it is mine Intent 415
 That nouthar to Wymond nor Will Thou sall hald nor hecht till
 Quhill I haue brocht the to fulfill
 The Kingis cōmandment.

¶ The Carll beheld to the Knicht as he stude than
 He bair grauit in Gold and Gowlis in grene 420
 Glitterand full gaylie quhen Glemis began
 Ane Tyger ticht to ane tre, ane takin of tene Trewlie that tenefull was trimland than Semelie schapin and schroud in that Scheild schene
 Mekle worschip of weir worthyie he wan 425
 Befoir into fechting with mony worthie sene
 His Basnet was bordourit and burneift bricht
 With stanes of Beriall deir
 Dyamountis and Sapheir
 Riche Rubeis in feir Reulit full richt. 430

His plaitis properlie picht attour with precious stanis

And his Pulanis full prest of that ilk peir
Greit Graipis of Gold his Greis for the nanis
And his Cussanis cumlie schynand full cleir
Bricht braissaris of steill about his arme banis 435
Blandit with Beriallis and Cristallis cleir
Ticht our with Thopas and trew lufe atanis
The teind of his tewellis to tell war full teir
His Sadill circulit and set richt sa on ilk syde
His brydill bellisand and gay 440
His steid stout on stray
He was the Ryallest of array

On Ronsy nicht ryde.

¶ Of that Ryall array that Rolland in raid
Rauf rusit in his hart of that Ryall thing
He is the gayeft in geir that euer on ground glaid 445
Haue he grace to the gre in ilk Iornaying
War he ane manly man, as he is weill maid
He war full michtie with magre durst abyde his meting

He bad the Coilgear in wraith swyth withoutin baid Cast the Creillis fra the Capill, and gang to the King 450

In faith it war greit schame said the Coilgear
I vndertak thay suld be brocht
This day for ocht that be mocht
Schir Knicht that word is for nocht

That thow Carpis thair.

¶ Thou huifis on thir holtis, and haldis me heir 455
Quhill half the hail day may the hicht haue
Be Christ that was christinnit, and his Mother cleir Thow sall catche to the Court that sall not be to craue

It might be preisit¹ preiudice bot gif thow suld compeir

To se quhat granting of grace the King wald the gaif 460

For na gold on this ground wald I but weir
Be fundin fals to the King, sa Christ me saue
To gar the cum and be knawin as I am command
I wait not quhat his willis be

Nor he namit na mair the 466

Nor ane vther man to me

Bot quhome that I fand.

¶ Thow fand me fechand nathing that followit to feid

I war ane fule gif I fled, and fand nane affray
Bot as ane lauchful man my laidis to leid
That leisfis with mekle lawtie and laubour in fay 470

Be the Mother and the Maydin that maid vs remeid
And thow mat me ony mair cum efter quhat sa may Thow and I sall dyntis deill quhill ane of vs be deid
For the deidis thow hes me done vpon this deir day
Mekle merwell of that word had Schir Rolland 475

He saw na wappinis thair

That the Coilgear bair

Bot ane auld Buklair And ane roustie brand.

¶ This lyked² Schir Rolland, and lichtly he leuch
That sic ane stubill husband man wald stryke stoutly 480

Thair is mony toun man to tuggill is full teuch
Thocht thair brandis be blak and vnburely
Oft fair foullis ar fundin faynt and als freuch
I defend we fecht or fall in that foly

¹ ? preifit.

² Laing printed It is lyke.

Lat se how we may disseuer with sobernes aneuch 485

And catche crabitnes away, be Christ counsall I Quhair winnis that Wymond thou hecht to meit to day

With the Quene tauld he me

And thair I vndertuke to be

Into Paris pardie

Withoutin delay. 490

And I am knawin with the Quene said Schir
Rolland

And with mony byrdis in hir Bowre be buikis and bellis

The King is into Paris that sall I warrand

And all his aduertance that in his Court dwellis

Me tharth haue nane noy of myne erand 495

For me think thow will be thair efter as thow tellis

Bot gif I fand the sorrow now to keip my cunnand

Schir Knicht said the Coilgear thow trowis me neuer ellis

Bot gif sum suddand let put it of delay

For that I hecht of my will 500

And na man threit me thair till

That I am haldin to fulfill

And sall do quhill I may.

¶ gea sen thow will be thair thy cunnandis to new
I neid nane airar myne erand nor none of the day
Be thow traist said the Coilgear man as I am trew 505

I will not haist me ane fute faster on the way

Bot gif thow raik out of my renk, full raith sall thow rew

Or be the Rude I sall rais thy Ryall array

Thocht thy body be braissit in that bricht hew

Thow salbe fundin als febil of thy bone fay 510

On fute ferly in feir formest of all 535
 Richt weill payit was the King
 Of Schir Rollandis cumming
 To speir of his tything Efter him gart call.

The King in counsall him callit, cū hidder
 Schir Knicht
 Hes thow my bidding done as I the command 540
 In faith said Schir Rolland I raid on full richt
 To watch wyselie the wayis that I sall warrand Thair wald na douchtie this day for Iornay be dicht
 Fairand our the feildis full few thair I fand
 Saif anerly ane man that semblit in my sicht 545
 Thair was na leid on lyfe lent in this land Quhat kin a fallow was that ane Schir I the pray
 Ane man in husband weid
 Buskit busteously on breid
 Leidand Coillis he ȝeid To Paris the way. 550

Quhy hes thow not that husband brocht, as I the bad?
 I dreid me sa he dantit the, thow durst not with him deill
 In faith said Schir Rolland gif that he sa had That war full hard to my hart, and I ane man in heill
 He saw the King was engreuit and gat furth glaid 555
 To se gif the Coilgearis lawtie was leill
 I suld haue maid him in the stour to be full hard stad
 And I had witten that the Carll wald away steill

Bo I trowit not the day that he wald me beget
 As he went outwart bayne 560
 He met ane Porter swayne
 Cummand raith him agayne Fast fra the ȝet.

¶ Quhair gangis thow Gedling thir gaitis sa gane?
 Be God said the Grome, ane gift heir I geif
 I deuse at the ȝet thair is ane allane 565
 Bot he be lattin in belieue him lykis not to leif
 With ane Capill and twa Creillis cassin on the plane

To cum to this Palice he preissis to preif
 Gif thow hes fundin that Freik in faith I am fane
 Lat him in glaidly it may not engreif 570
 Bot askis he eirnestly efter ony man
 Than said that Gedling on ground
 ȝe forsuth in this stound
 Efter ane Wymound In all that he can,

☞ Pas agane Porter, and let him swyith in 575
 Among the proudest in preis plesand in pane
 Say thow art not worthy to Wymond to win
 Bid him seik him his self, gif thair be sic ane
 Agane gangis Schir Rolland, quhair gle suld begin
 And the ȝaip ȝeman to the ȝet is gane 580
 Enbraissit the bandis belieue or that he wald blin
 Syne seik the wy at his will wend in the wane
 Gang seik him now thy self he said vpon hicht
 My self hes na lasair
 Fra thir ȝetiis to fair 585
 Be Christ said the Coilgear I set that bot licht.

¶ Gif thow will not seik him, my awin self sall
 For I haue oft tymes swet in seruice ful sair
 Tak keip to my Capill that na man him call
 Quhill I cum fra the Court said the Coilgear 590

My laid war I laith to lois, I leif the heir all Se that thow leis thame not, bot *ȝ*eme thame full
*ȝ*air

In that hardy in hy, he haikit to that hall
 For to wit gif Wymondis wyning was thair
 He arguit with the Ischar ofter than anis 595
 Schir can thow ocht say
 Quhair is Wymond the day
 I pray the bring him gif thow may
 Out of this wanis.

He trowit that the wy had wittin of Wymond
 he wend

Bot to his raifand word he gaue na reward 600
 Thair was na man thairin that his name kend
 Thay countit not the Coilȝear almaist at regaird
 He saw thair was na meiknes nor mesure nicht mend

He sped him in spedely and nane of thame he spaired

Thair was na fyue of thay Freikis, that nicht him furth fend 605

He socht in sa sadly, quhill sum of thame he saird

He thristit in throw thame thraly with threttis

Quhen he come amang thame all

*ȝ*it was the King in the hall

And mony gude man with all 610

Vngane to the meit.

¶ Thocht he had socht sic ane sicht all this seuin
*ȝ*air

Sa solempnit ane semblie had he not sene

The hall was properly apperrellit and paintit but peir

Dyamontis full dantely dentit betwene

It was semely set on ilk syde seir 615
 Gowlis glitterand full gay glemand in grene
 Flowris with Flourdelycis formest in feir
 With mony flamand ferly ma than fyftene
 The rufe reulit about in reuall of Reid
 Rois reulit Ryally 620
 Columbyn and Lely
 Thair was ane hailsum harbery Into riche steid.

¶ With Doscuris to the duris dicht quha sa wald deme
 With all diuers danteis dicht dantely
 Circulit with siluer semely to sene 625
 Selcouthly in seir he was set suttelly
 Blyth byrdis abufe, and bestiall full bene
 Fyne foullis in Fyrth, and Fischis with fry
 The flure carpit and cled and couerit full clene
 Cummand fra the Cornellis closand quemely 630
 Bricht Bancouris about browdin ouir all
 Greit Squechonis on hicht
 Anamalit and weill dicht
 Reulit at all richt Endlang the hall.

Heir is Ryaltie said Rauf, aneuch for the nanis 635
 With all nobilnes anournit and that is na nay
 Had I of Wymond ane word, I wald of thir wanis
 Fra thir wyis I wis, to went on my way,
 Bot I mon git heir mair quhat worthis of him anis
 And eirnestly efter him haue myne E ay. 640
 He thristit in throw threttie all atanis
 Quhair mony douchtie of deid war Ioynit that day
 For he was vnburely on bak thay him hynt
 As he gat ben throw
 He gat mony greit schow 645
 Bot he was stalwart I trow
 And laith for to stynt.

¶ He thristit in throw thame, and thraly can thring
 Fast to the formest he foundit in feir
 Sone besyde him he gat ane sicht of the Nobill
 King

gone is Wymond I wait it worthis na weir 650
 I ken him weill thocht he be cled in vther clething.
 In clais of clene gold kythand gone cleir
 Quhen he harbrait with me be half as he is heir
 In faith he is of mair stait than euer he me tald
 Allace that I was hidder wylit 655
 I dreid me sair I be begylit
 The King preulie smylit

Quhen he saw that bald.

¶ Thair was seruit in that saill Seigis semelie
 Mony Sengeorabill Syre on ilk syde seir
 With ane cairfull countenance the Coilzear kest his E 660

To the cumely Quene courtes and cleir
 Dame of thy glitterand gyde haue I na gle
 Be the gracious God that bocht vs sa deir
 To ken Kingis Courtasie, the Deuill come to me
 And sa I hope I may say or I chaip heir 665 Micht I chaip of this chance, that changes my cheir

Thair suld na man be sa wyse
 To gar me cum to Parise
 To luke quhair the King lyis

In faith this seuin zeir.

¶ Quhen worthie had weschin, and fra the buirdis
 went 670

Thay war forwonderit I wis of thair wyse Lord
 The King fell in carping, and tauld his Intent
 To mony gracious Grome he maid his record

How the busteous Beirne met him on the bent
 And how the Frostis war sa fell, and sa strait ford 675

Than the Coilgear quoke as he had bene schent Quhen he hard the suith say how he the King schord

Greit God gif I war now and thy self with all
 Vpon the mure quhair we met
 Baith all suddandly set 680

Or ony Knicht that thow may get Sa gude in thy hall.

¶ Thir Lordis leuch vpon loft, and lystinit to the King

How he was ludgeit and led, and set at sa licht
 Than the curagious Knichtis bad haue him to hing
 For he hes seruit that thay said be our sicht 685

God forbot he said my thank war sic thing
 To him who succourit my lyfe in sa euill ane nicht
 Him semis ane stalwart man and stout in stryking
 That Carll for his Courtasie salbe maid Knicht
 I hald the counsall full euill that Christin man slais 690

For I had myster to haue ma
 And not to distroy tha
 Tha war worthie to ga

To fecht on Goddis fais.

¶ Befoir mony worthie he dubbit him Knicht
 Dukis and digne Lordis in that deir hall 695

Schir se for thy self, thow semis to be wicht
 Ta keip to this ordour, ane Knicht I the call
 To mak the manly man I mak the of micht
 Ilk ȝeir thre hundreth pund assigne the I sall
 And als the nixt vacant be ressonabill richt 700
 That hapnis in France, quhair sa euer it fall

Forfaltour or fre waird, that first cummis to hand
 I gif the heir heritabilly
 Sa that I heir quhen I haue by
 That thow be fundin reddy 705
With Birny t brand.

¶ It war my will worthy, thy schone that thow wan
 And went with thir weryouris wythest in weir
 Heir ar curagious Knichtis, suppois thay the nocht
 ken

For thy simpill degre that thow art in heir
 I beseik God of his grace to mak the ane gude man 710

And I sall gif the to begin glitterand geir
 Ane Chalmer with Armour the King gart richt than Betaucht to ane Squyar, and maid him keipeir
 With clois Armouris of steill for that stout Knicht
 Sextie Squyaris of fee 715
 Of his retinew to be
 That was ane fair cumpany

Schir Rauf gat that nicht.

¶ Vpon the morne airly Schir Rauf wald not rest
 Bot in Ryall array he reddyit him to ryde
 Forto hald that I haue hecht I hope it be the best 720
 To gone busteous Beirne that boistit me to byde
 Amang the Galgart Gromis I am bot ane Gest
 I will the ganandest gait to that gay glyde Sall neuer Lord lauch on loft quhill my lyfe may lest

That I for liddernes suld leif, and leuand besyde 725
 It war ane graceles gude that I war cummin to Gif that the King hard on hicht
 That he had maid ane carll Knicht
 Amang thir weryouris wicht

And docht nocht to do.

¶ Vpon ane rude Runsy he ruschit out of toun 730
 In ane Ryall array he rydis full richt
 Euin to the Montane he maid him full boun Quhair he had trystit to meit Schir Rolland the Knicht

Derfly our Daillis discoverand the doun
 Gif ony douchtie that day for Journayis was dicht 735
 He band his blonk to ane busk on the bent broun
 Syne baid be the bair way to hald that he had hecht Quhill it was neir time of the day that he had thair
 bene

He lukit ane lytill him fra
 He sa cummand in thra 740
 The maist man of all tha

That euer he had sene.

¶ Ane Knicht on ane Capeill come cantly at hand
 With ane curagious countenance and cruell to se
 He semit badly to abyde with Birny and with brand
 His blonk was vnburely, braid and our hie 745
 Schir Rauf reddyit him sone, and came rydand
 And in the rowme of ane renk in fewtir kest he
 He seimit fer fellonar than first quhen he him fand
 He foundis throw his forcenes gif he micht him se
 He straik the steid with the spurris he sprent on the bent 750

Sa hard ane cours maid thay
 That baith thair hors deid lay
 Thair speiris in splenders away
 Abuse thair heid sprent.

¶ Thus war thay for thair forcynes left on fute baith
 Thay sture hors at that straik strikin deid lay than 755
 Thir riche restles renkis ruschit out full raith
 Cleikit out twa swordis and togidder ran

Kest thame with gude will to do vther skaith
 Bast on thair basnetis thay Beirnis or thay blan
 Haistely hewit thay togidder, to leif thay war laith 760
 To tyne the worschip of weir that thay air wan
 Na for dout of vincussing thay went nocht away
 Thus ather vther can assaill
 Wlth swordis of mettaill
 Thay maid ane lang battaill 765
 Ane hour of the day.

¶ Thay hard harnest men thay hewit on in haist
 Thay worthit heuy with heid and angerit with all Quhill thay had maid thame sa mait thay failze almaist
 Sa laith thay war on ather part to lat thair price fall
 The rich restles men out of the renk past 770
 Forwrocht with thair wapnis, and euill rent with all Thair was na girth on the groūd, quhill ane gaif the gaist
 garne efter geilding, on ilk syde thay call Schir Rauf caught to cule him, and tak mar of the licht
 He kest vp his Veseir 775
 With ane Cheualrous cheir
 Sa saw he cummand full neir
 Ane vther kene Knicht.

¶ Now be the Rude said Schir Rauf, I repreif the Thowhes brokin conditioun, thow hes not done richt
 Thow hecht na bakheir to bring, bot anerly we 780
 Thairto I tuik thy hand, as thow was trew Knicht
 On loud said the Saragine, I heir the now lie
 Befoir the same day I saw the neuer with sicht
 Now sall thow think it richt sone, thow hes met with me
 Gif Mahoun or Termagant may mantene my micht 785

Schir Rauf was blyth of that word ⁊ blenkit with his face

Thow sayis thow art ane Saragine

Now thankit be Drichtine

That ane of vs sall neuer hine

Vndeid in this place.

¶ Than said the Saragine to Schir Rauf succudrously 790

I haue na lyking to lyfe to lat the with lufe

He gaue ane braid with his brand to the Beirne by Till the blude of his browis brest out abufe

The kene Knicht in that steid stakkerit sturely

The lenth of ane rude braid he gart him remufe 795

Schir Rauf ruschit vp agane, and hit him in hy

Thay preis furth properly thair pithis to prufe

Ilk ane a schort knyfe braidit out sone

In stour stilly thay stand

With twa knyfis in hand 800

With that come Schir Rolland

As thay had neir done.

The gentill Knicht Schir Rolland come rydand ful richt

And ruschit fra his Runsy, and ran thame betwene

He sayis thow art ane Saragine I se be my sicht

For to confound our Christin men that counteris

sa kene 805

Tell me thy name tyte, thow trauelland Knicht

Fy on thy fechtng fell hes thow bene

Thow art stout and strang, and stalwart in fecht

Sa is thy fallow in faith, and that is weill sene

In Christ and thow will trow thow takis nane outray

Forsuith the Saragine said 811

Thy self maid me neuer sa affraid

That I for souerance wald haue praid

Na not sall to day.

¶ Breif me not with your boist, but mak you baith boun

Batteris on baldly the best I you pray 815

Na said Schir Rolland that war na resoun

I trow in the mekle God, that maist of nichtis may

The tane is in power to mak that presoun

For that war na wassalage sum men wald say

I rid that thow hartfully forsaik thy Mahoun 820

Fy on that foull Feind for fals is thy fay

Becum Christin Schir Knicht, and on Christ call

It is my will thow conuert

This wickit warld is bot ane start

And haue him halely in hart 825

That maker is of all.

¶ Schir Rolland I rek nocht of thy rauingis Thow dois bot reuerance to thame that rekkis it nocht

Thow slane hes oft thy self of my Counsingis

Soudanis and sib men that the with schame focht

Now faindis to haue fauour with thy fleichingis 830

Now haue I ferlie gif I fauour the ocht

We sall spuilge you dispittously at the next springis

Mak you begginnis full bair bodword haue I brocht

Chace Charlis your King fer out of France

Fra the Chane of Tartarie 835

At him this message wald I be

To tell him as I haue tauld the Withoutin plesance.

¶ Tyte tell me thy name it seruis of nocht ge Sarageins ar succuderus and self wiliit ay Sall neuer of sa sour ane brandane bricht fyre be brocht 840

The Feynd is sa felloun als fers as he may

Sa thriue I said the Saragine to threip is my thocht Quha waitis the Christin with cair my cusingis ar thay

My name is Magog in will and I mocht
 To ding thame doun dourly that euer war in my way 845

For thy my warysoun is full gude at hame quhair
 I dwel

In faith said Schir Rolland

That is full euill wyn land

To haue quhill thow ar leuand

Sine at thine end hell.

¶ Wald thow conuert the in hy, and couer the of sin 850

Thow suld haue mair profite and mekle pardoun
 Riche Douchereis seir to be sesit in During quhill day dawis, that neuer will gang doun

Wed ane worthie to wyfe, and weild her with win
 Ane of the riche of our Realme be that ressoun 855

The gentill Duches Dame Iane that clamis to be hir kin

Angeos and vther landis with mony riche toun
 Thus may thow and thow will wirk the best wise
 I do the out of dispair

In all France is nane sa fair 860
 Als scho is appeirand air

To twa Douchereis.

¶ I rek nocht of thy riches, Schir Rolland the Knicht

Said the rude Saragine in Ryall array

Thy God nor thy Grassum set I bot licht

Bot gif thy God be sa gude as I heir the say 865

I will forsaik Mahoun, and tak me to his nicht
 Euer mair perpetuallie as he that mair may Heir with hart and gude will my treuth I the plicht
 That I sall lelely leif on thy Lord ay
 And I beseik him of Grace and askis him mercy 870
 And Christ his Sone full schene
 For I haue Christin men sene
 That in mony [d]angeris hes bene
 Full oft on him cry.

¶ I thank God said Rolland that word lykis me
 And Christ his sweet Sone, that the that grace
 send 875
 Thay swoir on thair swordis swyftlie all thre
 And conseruit thame freindis to thair lyfis end
 Euer in all trauell to leif and to die
 Thay Knichtis caryit to the court, as Christ had thame kend
 The King for thair cumming maid game and gle 880
 With mony mirthfull [a] man thair mirthis to mend
 Digne Bischoppis that day, that douchtie gart bring
 And gaue him Sacramentis seir
 And callit him Schir Gawteir
 And sine the Duches cleir 885
 He weddit with ane ring.

¶ Than Schir Rauf gat rewaird to keip his Knichtheid
 Sic tythingis come to the King within thay nyne nicht
 That the Marschell of France was newlingis deid
 Richt thair with the counsall of mony kene Knicht
 He thocht him richt worthie to byde in his steid 890
 For to weild that worschip worthie and wicht
 His wyfe wald he nocht forget for dout of Goddis
 feid
 He send efter that hende to leif thame in richt

Syne foundit ane fair place quhair he met the King
Euer mair perpetually 895

In the Name of Sanct July
That all that wantis harbery

Suld haue gestning.

*Finis.*¹

¹ The colophon at the end is: "Imprentit at Sanctandros be Robert Lekpreuik. Anno. 1572."

John the Reeve.

“JOHN THE REEVE,” a Northumbrian or Durham tale of the fourteenth century (at present known to us only in an ignorant transcript of a fifteenth-century recension, when the art of cookery had been developed, and other social refinements, and the English table had grown comparatively luxurious and festive in taste), belongs to a rather large group of legendary productions emanating from England and the sister-kingdom and the Border during the Middle Ages. Nearly all of these have been printed in various collections of Ballad and Romance poetry; and the present piece forms part of that long-looked-for-come-at-last treasury, Bishop Percy's Folio MS.¹ Although the former owner was evidently aware of the corrupt nature of the text throughout, he did not quite prepare us for the ultimate rather startling revelation; but we have the whole truth before us, and we can see plainly enough what the MS. is, as well as what it is not.² For our present purpose it has yielded nothing beyond the story which follows, and which, with "Sir Eger," may be treated as the chief title of the relic to our consideration and gratitude. Nor should we have admitted a poem already rendered so accessible, and exhibited in the Percy MS. with manifest disregard to accuracy and fidelity on the part of the seventeenth-century copyist, had not the late David Laing evidently set such store by the possible opportunity of adding to a future edition of his book or books a legend which is mentioned by Bishop Douglas in his "Palace of Honour" (1503), in conjunction with "Colkelbie Sowe" and "Ralph the Collier," as popular among the Scots, and familiar to himself in his youth. Under the circumstances, we judge it sufficient to refer the reader to the introduction to the text of 1867,¹ where the peculiar value of this tale is pointed out, and where it is shown to differ in its political and social drift from its congeners in subject among the popular and national series. At the same time it is difficult to see how the narrative illustrates more than casually the state of villainage, as John the Reeve—unquestionably, as generally happens in these cases, the hero of the situation—was not a member of that class, and merely discriminates between the nobility and bourgeoisie in his remarks to his unknown visitors. The King found him a bondman, i.e., a man who gave sureties to the Crown for the performance of certain duties, and made him a franklin, conferred on him his "manor-place." Even persons in a good and substantial position in remote provincial districts would then, as now, be uncourtly and underbred enough, yet it strikes us as almost an offence against dramatic propriety to depict a man living in a sumptuous style, and able to dispense profuse hospitality, as little better than a clown when he comes to town to wait upon the King.

¹ Edited by Furnivall and Hales, 1867, 8vo, 4 vols. The text is very unsatisfactory. Some of the Northern forms of words could have been easily restored, and in certain places the language is clearly false or corrupt.

² The scribe who copied out from printed and perhaps occasionally MS. sources the contents of the Bishop's Folio was a worthy precursor of Percy, and between the two we have had what might have been a valuable body of popular literature almost utterly ruined. There is the excuse for the first copyist that he was an illiterate mechanic, with all his diligence and comprehensive zeal; but the Bishop knew better, and it must be deliberately affirmed that his lordship was not only injudicious, but dishonest.

The citation in the text of the Bishop of Durham and the Earl of Gloucester as the neighbours of John does not assist us in fixing either the exact scene or home of the tale, nor its chronological rank. The modifications which it has evidently undergone may explain the topographical inconsistencies, where the North in one place, and Windsor and the "south-west country" in others, are said to have witnessed this adventure. It is, from its internal structure, most probably later than the "King and the Hermit."

¹ Bishop Percy's Folio MS., ii. 550 et seqq.

John the Reeve.

[Fit F.]

GOD ! through thy might and thy mercy,
 All that loueth game and glee,
 Their soules to heauen bringe !
 Best is mirth of all solace ;
 Therefore I hope itt betokens grace, 5
 Of mirth who hath likinge.

As I heard tell this other yeere,
 A clarke came out of Lancashire :
 A rolle he had reading,
 A bourde written therein he ffound, 10
 That some time ffell in England,
 In Edwards dayes our King.

By East, west, north, and Southe,
 All this realme well run hee cowthe,
 Castle, tower, and towne. 15
 Of that name were Kings 3 ;
 But Edward with the long shankes was hee,
 A Lord of great renowne.

As the King rode a hunting vpon a day,
 Three ffawcons fflew away ; 20
 He ffollowed wonderous ffast.
 Thé rode vpon their horssees that tyde,
 They rode forth on euery side,
 The country they out cast ;

From morning vtill eueninge late, 25
 Many menn abroad they gate
 Wandering all alone ;

The night came att the last ;
 There was no man that wast
 What way the King was gone, 30

Saue a Bishopp & an Erle ffree ¹
 That was allwayes the king ffull ne,
 And thus then gan they say :
 " Itt is a ffolly, by St. Iohn,
 For vs thus to ryde alone 35
 Soe many a wilsome way ;

" A King and an Erle to ryde in hast,
 A bishopp ffrom his coste to be cast,
 For hunting sikerlye.
 The wether happneth wonderous ill, 40
 All night wee may ryde vnskill,
 Nott wotting where wee bee."

Then the King began to say,
 " Good Sir Bishopp, I you pray
 Some comfort, if you may." 45
 As they stoode talking all about,
 They were ware of a carle stout :
 " Good deene, ffellow !" can they say.

Then the Erle was well apayd :
 " You be welcome, good ffellow !" hee sayd, 50
 " Of ffellowship wee pray thee !"
 The carle ffull hye on horse sate,
 His leggs were short and braid [a-gate ?]
 His stirropps were of tree ;

¹ Presumably the Bishop of Durham and the Earl of Gloucester, whom the hero of the tale subsequently mentions as his neighbours. The last Earl of Gloucester died in 1347. That the Reeve did not recognise the two personages is not necessarily a difficulty, as they might never have been in that neighbourhood before, though possessing jurisdiction over it.

A payre of shooes were stiffe & store, 55
 On his heele a rustye spurre,
 Thus fforwards rydeth hee.
 The Bishopp rode after on his palfray :
 "Abyde, good ffellow, I thee pray,
 And take vs home with thee !" 60

The carle answered him that tyde,
 "From me thou gettest ¹ noe other guide,
 I swear by sweete St. Jame !"
 Then said the Erle ware and wise,
 "Thou canst litle of gentrise ! 65
 Say not soe ffor shame !"

The carle answered the Erle vnto,
 "With gentrise I haue nothing to doe,
 I tell thee by my ffay."
 The weather was cold & euen roughe ; 70
 The King and the Erle sate and loughe,
 The Bishopp did him soe pray.

The King said, "soe mote I thee !
 Hee is a carle, whosoouer hee be !
 I reade wee ryde him neere." 75
 Thé sayd [to him] with word[e]s hend,
 "Ryd [more] saftlye, gentle ffreind,
 And bring vs to some harber."

Then to tarry the carle was lothe,
 But rode forth as he was wrothe, 80
 I tell you sickerlye.
 The king sayd, "by Mary bright,
 I troe wee shall ryde all this night
 In wast[e] vnskillffullye ;

¹ Percy Folio MS. reads gett oft.

“ I feare we shall come to no towne ; 85
 Ryde to the carle and pull him downe
 Hastilye without delay.”

The Bishopp said soone on hye, “ Abyde, good ffellow, & take vs with thee !
 For my loue, I thee pray.” 90

The Erle said, “ by god in heauen !
 Oft men meete att vnsett steuen ;
 To quite thee well wee may.”
 The carle sayd, “ by St. Iohn
 I am affraye of you eche one, 95
 I tell you by my ffay !”

The carle sayd, “ by Marye bright,
 I am afrayd of you this night !
 I see you rowne and reason,
 I know you not, & itt were day, 100
 I troe you thinke more then you say,
 I am affrayd of treason.

“ The night is merke : I may not seee
 What kind of men that you bee.
 But & you will doe one thinge, 105
 Swere to doe me not desease,
 Then wold I ffaine you please,
 If I cold, with any thinge.”

Then sayd the Erle with words ffree,
 “ I pray you, ffellow, come hither to mee, 110
 And to some towne vs bringe ;
 And after, if wee may thee kenn,
 Amonge Lords and gentlemen
 Wee shall requite thy dealinge.”

“Of lords,” sayes hee, “speake no moe : 115
 With them I haue nothing to doe,
 Nor neuer thinke to haue ;
 For I had rather be brought in bale,
 My hood or that I wold vayne,
 On them to crouch or craue.” 120

The King sayd curteouslye,
 “What manner of man are yee
 Att home in your dwellinge ?”
 “A husbandman fforsooth I am,
 And the Kings bondman ; 125
 Thereof I haue good likinge.”

“Sir, when spake you with our King ?”
 “In ffaith, neuer, in all my liuing !
 He knoweth not my name ;
 And I haue my Capull & my crofft ; 130
 If I speake not with the King oft,
 I care not, by St. Iame !”

“What is thy name, ffellow, by thy leaue ?”
 “Marry,” quoth hee, “Iohn the Reeue ;
 I care not who itt heare ; 135
 For if you come into my inne,
 With beeffe & bread you shall beginn
 Soone att your supper ;

“Salt Bacon of a yeere old,
 Ale that is both sower & cold,— 140
 I vse neither braggat nor beere,—
 I lett you witt withouten lett,
 I dare eate noe other mette,
 I sell my wheate ech yeere.”

“Why doe you, Iohn, sell your wheate?” 145

“For [I] dare not eate that I gett.

Therof I am ffull wrothe ;

For I loue a draught of good drinke as well

As any man that doth itt sell,

And alsoe a good wheat loffe. 150

“For he that ffirst starueth Iohn the Reeue,
I pray to god hee may neuer well cheeue,

Neither on water nor land,

Whether itt be Sherriffe or King

That makes such statuinge, 155

I outcept neuer a one !

“For and the Kings penny were layd by mine,
I durst as well as hee drinke the wine

Till all my good were gone.

But sithence that wee are mett soe meete, 160

Tell mee where is your recreate,

You seeme good laddes eche one.”

The Erle answered with words ffaire,

“In the kings house is our repayre,

If wee bee out of the way.” 165

“This night,” quoth Iohn, “you shall not spill ;

Such harbour I shall bring you till ;

I hett itt you to-day.

“Soe that yee take itt thankefullye

In gods name & St. Iollye, 170

I aske noe other pay ;

And if you be sturdy & stout,

I shall garr you to stand without,

For ought that you can say.

“For I haue 2 neighbors won by mee 175
 Of the same ffreeledge that am I,
 Of old band-shipp are wee :
 The Bishopp of Durham this towne oweth,
 The Erle of Gloster—who-soe him knoweth ¹—
 Lord of the other is hee. 180

“Wist my neighbors that I were thratt,
 I vow to god thé wold not lett
 For to come soone to mee ;
 If any wrong were to mee done,
 Wee 3 durst ffight a whole afternoone, 185
 I tell you sikerlye.”

The King sayd, “Iohn, tell vs not this tale ;
 Wee are not ordayned ffor battell,
 Our weeds are wett and cold ;
 Heere is no man that yee shall greeue. 190
 But helpe vs, Iohn, by your leaue,
 With bright a ffeare and bold.”

“Ifaith,” sayd Iohn, “that you shall want.
 For ffuell heere is wonderous scant,
 As I heere haue yee told. 195
 Thou getteth noe other of Iohn the Reeue ;
 For the kings statutes, whilist I liue,
 I thinke to vse and hold.

“If thou find in my house pain-main,²
 Or in my kitchin poultry slaine, 200
 Peraduenture thou wold say

¹ See what is said above.

² See Hazlitt's Cookery Books, 1886, p. 195. Percy Folio MS. reads payment fine.

That Iohn the Reeue his band hath broken :
 I wold not that such words weere spoken
 In the kings house another day,

“ For itt might turne me to great greeffe ; 205
 Such proud ladds that beare in chief¹
 Wold danger a pore man aye ;
 And or I wold pray thee of mercy lange,
 Yett weere I better to lett thee gange
 In twentye twiine devills way.” 210

Thus thé rode [un]to the towne :
 Iohn the Reeue lighted downe
 Beside a comlye hall.
 Four men belieue came wight ;
 They hasted them ffull swyth 215
 When they heard Iohn call ;
 Thé served him honestly and able,
 And [led] his horsse to the stable,
 And lett noe term misfall.

Some went to warne their dame 220
 That Iohn had brought guests hame.
 Shee came to welcome them tyte
 In a side kirtle of greene,
 Her head was dight all by-deene,
 The wiffe was of noe [mickle] pryde ; 225

Her kerchers were all of silke,
 Her hayre as white as any milke,
 Loue-some of hue and hyde ;
 Shee was thicke, & some deal braid,
 Of comlye ffashyon was shee made, 230
 Both belly, backe, and side.²

¹ Percy Folio MS., beare office.

² A phrase which reminds us of the famous song in Gammer Gurton's Needle.

Then Iohn called his men all,
 Sayes, "build me a ffire in the hall,
 And giue their Capulls meate ;
 Lay before them corne and hay ; 235
 For my loue rubb of the clay,
 For they beene weary and wett ;

"1 - - - - -
 Lay vnder them straw to the knee,
 For courtye[r]s comonly wold be Iollye,
 And [they] haue but litle to spend."

Then hee said, "by St. Iohn,
 You are welcome euery one, 245
 If you take itt thankfullye !
 Curtesye I learned neu[e]r none,
 But after mee, ffellowes, I read you gone."
 Till a chamber they went all 3 ;

A charcole ffire was burning bright, 250
 Candles on chandlours light,
 Eche ffreake might other see.
 "Where are your s[u]ords ?" quoth Iohn the Reeue.
 The Erle said, "Sir, by your leaue,
 Wee weare none, pardye." 255

Then Iohn rowned with the Erle soe ffree :
 "What long ffellow is yonder," quoth hee,
 "That is soe long of lim and lyre ?"
 The Erle answered with words small,
 "Yonder is Peeres pay-ffor-all, 260
 The Queenes Cheefe ffawconer."

¹ Half a stanza is lost.

“ Ah, ah ! ” quoth Iohn, “ ffor gods good,
 Where gott hee that gay hood,
 Glittering as gold itt were ?
 And I were as proud as hee is like, 265
 There is no man in England ryke
 Shold garr me keepe his gleads one yeere.

“ I pray you, sir, ffor gods werke,
 Who is yond in ondir¹ serke
 That rydeth Peeres soe nye ? ” 270
 The Erle answered him againe,
 “ Yonder is a pore chaplaine,
 Long aduanced or hee bee ;

“ And I my selfe am a sumpter man,
 Other craft keepe I nane, 275
 I say you withouten misse.”
 “ You are ffresh ffellowes in your appay,
 Iolly letters in your array,
 Proud ladds, & I trow penyles.”

The King said, “ soe mote I thee, 280
 There is not a penny among[e]st vs three
 To buy vs bread and fflesh.”
 “ Ah, ha ! ” quoth Iohn, “ there is small charge ;
 For courtye[r]s comonlye are att large,
 If they goe neuer soe ffresh. 285

“ I goe girt in a russett gowne,
 My hood is of homemade browne,
 I weare neither burnett nor greene,
 And yett I troe I haue in store
 A 1000^l and some deale more, 290
 For all yee are proude² and ffine ;

¹ Percy Folio MS., yonder.

² Percy Folio MS., prouder.

"Therefore I say, as mote I thee,
 A bondman itt is good [to] bee,
 And come of carles kinne ;
 For and I bee in tauerne sett, 295
 To drinke as good wine I will not lett,
 As Edward¹ or his Queene."

The Erle sayd, "by gods might,
 Iohn, thou art a comly knight,
 And sturdy in euery ffray." 300
 "A knight!" quoth Iohn, "doe away, ffor shame !
 I am the King's bondman.
 Such wast words doe away !

"I know you not in your estate ;
 I am misnurtured, well I wate ;² 305
 I will not therto say nay.
 But if any such doe me wrang,
 I will ffight with him alang,³
 When I am cladd in mine array."

The Bishopp sayd, "you seeme sturdye : 310
 Trauelled you neuer beyond the sea ?"
 Iohn sayd sharplye "nay !
 I know none such strange guise,
 But att home on my owne wise
 I dare hold the hye way ; 316

¹ Percy Folio MS., London Edward ; but the former word is not necessary to the rhythm, and is probably an interpolation.

² Percy Folio MS., wott.

³ Percy Folio MS., hand to hand.

“And that hath done Iohn [the] Reeue scath,
For I haue made such as you wrath
With choppes and chances yare.”

“Iohn the Reeue,” sayd our King,
“Hast thou any armouringe, 320
Or any weapon to weare?”

“I vow, Sir, to god,” sayd Iohn thoe,
“But a pikefforke with graines 2—
My ffather vsed nane¹ other speare :—
A rusty sword that well will byte, 325
And a thyttille a handffull syde²
That sharplye will stare,

“An acton & a habargyon a ffoote side ;
And yett peradventure I durst abyde
As well as thou, Peeres, ffor all thy painted geere.” 330

Quoth Iohn, “I reede wee goe to the hall,
Wee 3 ffellowes ; & peeres pay-for-all
The proudest before shall fare.”

Thither they raked anon-right :
A charcole ffyer brenned³ bright 335
With manye a strang brand.
The hall was large & some deale wyde,
Thir bords were couered on euerye syde,
Their mirth was comand.⁴

¹ Percy Folio MS., neuer.

² There is an erroneous transposition in the Percy Folio MS.

³ Percy Folio MS., burning.

⁴ Percy Folio MS., comanded. The sense appears obviously to be, Their mirth was beginning or coming.

Then the good wiffe sayd with a seemlye cheere,
 "Your supper is readye there." 341

"Yett watter,"¹ quoth Iohn, "letts see."

By then came Iohn's neighbors 2,
 Hobkin long and hob alsoe :

The ffirst ffitt here end² wee. 345

[Fit II.]

Iohn sayd, "for want of a marshall, I will take the wand :

Peeres ffaucouer before shall gange ;

Begin the dish shall hee.

Goe to the bench, thou proud chaplaine,

My wiffe shall sitt thee againe ; 350

Thy meate-fellow shall shee bee."

He sett the Erle against the King ;

They were ffaine att his bidding.

Thus Iohn marshalled his meanye.

Then Iohn sperred where his daughters were :

"The ffaireer shall sitt by the ffawconere ; 356

He is the best ffarrand man :

The other shall the Sompter man haue."

The Erle sayd, "soe god me saue ;

Of curtesye, Iohn, thou can." 360

"If my selfe," quoth Iohn, "be band,³

Yett my daughters beene well ffarrand,

I tell you sickerlye.

Peeres, & thou wedded a daughter of Iohn
 the Reeue,⁴

There were no man that durst thee greeue 365

Neither ffor gold nor ffee.

¹ Hot water, before they sat to table, an usual practice.

² Percy Folio MS., ffind. ³ Percy Folio MS., bound.

⁴ Percy Folio MS., thou had wedded Iohn daughter Reeue.

“Sompter man, & thou the other had,
 In good ffaith then thou were made
 For euer in this cuntrye ;
 Then, Peeres, thou might beare the prize. 370
 Yett I wold this chaplaine had a benefize,
 As mote I thriue or thee !¹

“In this towne a kirke there is ;
 And I were king, itt shold be his,
 He should haue itt of mee ; 375
 Yett will I helpe as well as I may.”
 The King, the Erle, the Bishopp, can say,
 “Iohn, wee² shall quitte thee.”

When his daughters were come to dease,
 “Sitt ffarther,” quoth Iohn withouten leaze, 380
 “For there shalbe no moe.
 These strange ffellowes I doe not ken ;
 Peraduenture they may be some gentlemen ;
 Therefore I and my neighbors tuo³

“Att side end bord wee will bee, 385
 Out of the gentles companye :
 Thinke yee not best soe ?
 For itt was neuer the Law of England
 To sett gentle blood with band ;
 Therefore to supper will wee goe.” 390

By then came in beane bread,
 Salt Bacon rusted and redd,
 And brewice in a blacke dish,
 Leane salt beefe of a yeere old,
 Ale that was both sower & cold : 395
 This was the ffirst service :

¹ Percy Folio MS., thariue or thre.

² Percy Folio MS., & we liue we.

³ Percy Folio MS., towe.

Eche one had of that ylke a misse.

The king sayd, "soe haue I blisse,
Such service ne erst¹ I see."

Quoth Iohn, "thou gettest noe other of mee 400

² - - - - -

Att this time but this."

"Ye,³ good fellow," the King gan say,

"Take this service here away,

And better bread vs bringe; 405

And gett vs some better drinke;

We shall thee requite, as wee thinke,

Without any letting."

Quoth Iohn, "beshrew the morsell of bread

This night that shall come in your head 410

But thou sweare me one thinge!

Swere to me by booke and bell

That thou shalt neuer Iohn Recue bettell vnto Edward our kinge."

Quoth the king, "to thee my troth I plight, 415

He shall nott witt our service [to-night]

No more than he doth nowe,

Neuer while wee 3 liue in land."

"Therto," quoth Iohn, "hold vp thy hand,

And then I will thee trowe." 420

"Loe," quoth the king, "my hand is heere!"

"Soe is mine!" quoth the Erle with a merry cheere,

"Thereto I giue god a vowe."

"Haue heere my hand!" the Bishopp sayd.

"Marry," quoth Iohn, "thou may hold thee well apayd, 425

For itt is ffor thy prowē.⁴

¹ Percy Folio MS., nerest.

² A line has been lost.

³ Percy Folio MS., Yes.

⁴ Percy Folio MS., power.

“Take this away, thou hobkin long,
 And let vs sitt out of the throng
 Att a side bords end ;
 These strange ffellowes thinke vncouthlye 433
 This night att our Cookerye,
 Such as god hath vs send.”

By then came in the pain-main¹ bread,
 Wine that was both white and redd
 In siluer cupp[e]s cleare. 435
 “A ha !” quoth Iohn, “our supper begins with drinke !
 Taste itt, ladds ! & looke how yee thinke,
 For my loue, and make good cheere !

“Of meate & drinke you shall haue good ffare ;
 And as ffor good wine, wee will not spare, 440
 I gie² you to vnderstand.
 For euerye yeere, I tell thee tho,
 I will haue a tunn or tuo
 Of the best that may be ffand.

“Yee shall see 3 Churles heere 445
 Drinke the wine with a merry cheere ;
 I pray you doe you soe ;
 And when our supper is all doone,
 You and wee will dance soone ;
 Letts see who best can doe.” 450

The Erle sayd, “by Mary bright,
 Wheresoeuer the King lyeth this night,
 He drinketh no better wine
 Than thou selfe does att this tyde.”
 “Infaith,” quoth Iohn, “soe had leeuere I dyde
 Than liue ay in woe & pyne. 456

¹ Percy Folio MS., them and payment.

² Percy Folio MS., goe.

“ If I be come of Carles kinne,
 Part of the good that I may winne,
 Some therof shall be mine.
 He that neuer spendeth but alway spareth, 460
 Comonlye oft the worsse he ffareth ;
 Others will broake itt ffine.”

By then came in red wine & ale :
 The bores head into the hall,
 Then [a] shield with sauces seere ; 565
 Capons both baked & roste,
 Woodcockes, venison, without boste,
 And dish meate dight ffull deere.

Swannes they had piping hott,
 Coneys, curleys, well I wott, 470
 The crane, the héarne in ffere,
 Pigeons, partrid[g]e, with spicerye,
 Elkes, fflores, with ffroterye.
 Iohn bade them make good cheere.

The Erle sayd, “ soe mote I thee, 475
 Iohn, you serue vs as royallye !
 As yee had att London woned,¹
 If king Edward were here,
 He might be a-payd with this supper,
 Such ffreindshipp wee haue ffound.” 480

“ Nay,” sayd Iohn, “ by gods grace,
 And Edward wer in this place,
 Hee shold not touch this tonne.
 Hee wold be wrath with Iohn, I hope ;²
 Thereffore I beshrew the soupe 485
 That shall in his mouth come !”

¹ Percy Folio MS., If yee had dwelled att London.

² I.e., I expect.

Theratt the King laughed & made good cheere.
The Bishopp sayd, "wee fare well heere !"

The Erle sayd as him thought.

They spake lattine amongst them there : 499

"Infayth," quoth Iohn, "and yee greeue mee
[here],

Full deere itt shalbe bought.

"Speake English euerye-eche ane,
Or else sitt still, in the devills name !

Such talke loue I nought. 495

Lattine spoken amongst lewd men,

Therin noe reason do I ken :¹

For ffalshood itt is wrought.

"Row[n]ing I loue itt nother young nor old ;

Therefore yee ought not to bee to bold, 509

Nother att Meate nor meale.

Hee was ffalse that rowning begane ;

Therefore I say to you certaine

I loue itt neuer a deale :

"That man can [nought] of curtesye 505

That lets att his meate rowning bee,

I say, soe haue I seile."

The Erle sayd right againe,

"Att your bidding wee will be baine,

Wee thinke you say right weele." 510

By this came vp ffrom the kitchin²

Sirrupps on plates good and ffine,

Wrought in a ffayre array.

¹ Percy Folio MS., ffind I can. The Reeve's guests were whispering together, and more probably in French.

² This description of the entertainment furnished by the Reeve leads us to suspect that the story is not, at all events, prior to the fourteenth century.

“Sirrah,” sayth Iohn, “sith wee are mett,
And as good ffellowes together sett, 515
Lett vs be blythe to-day.

“Hodgkin long, & hob of the Lath,
You are counted good ffellowes bath,
Now is no time to tine ;¹
This wine is new come out of ffrance ; 520
Be god ! me list well to dance,
Therefore take my hand in thine ;²

“For wee will ffor our guests sake Hop and dance, & Reuell make.”
The truth ffor to know, 525
Vp he rose, & dranke the wine :
“Wee must haue powder of ginger therein,”
Iohn sayd, as I trow.

Iohn bad them stand vp all about,
“And yee shall see the carles stout 530
Dance about the bowle.
Hob of the lathe & Hodgkin lang,
In ffayth you dance your mesures wrang !
Methinkes that I shold know.³

“Yee dance neither Gallyard nor hawe, 535
Trace nor true mesure, as I trawe,
But hopp as yee were woode.”
When they began of ffoote to ffayle,
Thé tumbled top ouer taylor,
And faster and faster⁴ they yode. 549

¹ Percy Folio MS., thrine.

² This is analogous to the incident in one of the Robin Hood ballads, where Robin makes the bishop dance after dinner.

³ This line is apparently a later substitution.

⁴ Percy Folio MS., M. and M., which in printed text of 1867 is expanded into Master and Master,

Forth they stepped on stones store ;
 Hob of the lathe lay on the fflore,
 His brow brast out of blood.

“Ah, ha !” quoth Iohn, “thou makes good game !

Had thou not ffalled, wee had not laught [for shame] ;

545

Thou gladds vs all, by the rood.”

Iohn hent vp hobb by the hand [sae strange],
 Sayes, “methinkes wee dance our measures
 wrange,

By him that sitteth in throne.”

Then they began to kicke & wince,

550

Iohn hitt the king ouer the shinnes

With a payre of new clowted shoone.

Sith King Edward was mad a knight,
 Had he neuer soe merry a night

As he had with Iohn the Reeue [here].

555

To bed thé busked them anon,

Their liueryes were serued them vp sone

With a merry cheere ;

And thus they sleeped till morning att prine
 In ffull good sheetes of line.

560

A masse he garred them to haue,

And after they dight them to dine

With boyled capons good & ffine.

The Erle¹ sayd, “soe god me saue,

If euer wee come to our abone,

565

We shall thee quitt our warrison ;

Thou shalt not need itt to craue.”

¹ An alteration, perhaps made by the transcriber from the original text, unless we are to read King. The first Duke of Gloucester was not created till 1385.

[Fit III.]

The king tooke leaue att man & maye ;
Iohn sett him in the rode waye ;

To windsor¹ can hee ryde.

570

Then all the court was ffull faine
That the king was comen againe,
And thanked chr[i]st that tyde.

The Ierfawcons were taken againe
In the fforrest of windsor without laine

575

The Lords did soe provyde,
They thanked god & S^t Iollye.
To tell the Queene of their harbor[ye]
The lords had ffull great pryde.

The Queene sayd, " Sir, by your leaue,
I pray you send ffor that noble Reeue

580

That I may see him with sight."

The Messenger was made to wend,
And bad Iohn Reeue goe to the King [hend]

Hastilye with all his might.

585

Iohn waxed vnfaine in bone & blood :
Saith, " dame, to me this is nae good,
My truth to you I plight."

" You must come in your best array."

" What to ?" sayd Iohn ; " Sir, I thee pray :

590

" Thou must be made a Knight."

" A knight," said Iohn, " by Mary myld
I know right well I am beguiled
With the guests I harbord late.

¹ This is, no doubt, a change similarly made by the same hand, as the Court would have been more probably in the North.

To debate they will me bring ; 595
 Yett cast I mee ffor nothings
 Noe sorrow ffor to take ;

“Allice, ffeitch mee my side Acton,
 My round pallett to my crowne,
 Is made of Millayne plate, 600
 A pitch-fforke and a swerd.”
 Shee sayd shee was afferd¹
 This deede would make debate.

Allice ffeitched downe his acton syde ;
 Hee tooke itt ffor no muckle² pryde, 605
 That hee must itt weare.
 The scaberde was rent withouten doubt,
 A large handfull the bleade hanged out :
 Iohn the Reeue saw³ there,

“Gett lether & a nayle,” Iohn can say, 610
 “Lett me sow itt a chape to-day,
 Lest men scorne my geere.
 Now,” sayd Iohn, “will I see
 [W]hether itt will out lightlye
 Or I meane itt to weare.” 615

Iohn pulled ffast att the b!ade :
 I wold hee had kist my arse that itt made :
 He could not gett itt out.
 Allice held, & Iohn droughe,
 Either att other ffast loughe, 620
 I doe yee out of doubt.

¹ Percy Folio MS., sword and affrayd. In the first line the Folio MS. reads ffeitch mee doꝝne.

² Percy Folio MS., little, and in the next line yett. But the Reeve is ashamed of the condition of his armour.

³ Percy Folio MS., sayd; but he has yet to speak.

John pulled att the scaberd soe hard,
 Againe a post he ran backward
 And gaue his head a rowte.
 His wiffe did laughe when he did ffall, 625
 And soe did his meanye all
 That were there neere about.

John sent after his neighbors bath,
 Hodgkine long & hobb of the lath.
 They were be him¹ att his biddinge. 630
 Three pottles of wine in a dishe
 They supped itt all off, as I wis,
 All there att their partinge.

John sayd, "& I had my bucklere,
 Theres nothing that shold me dere, 635
 I tell you all in fferre.
 Feitch me downe," quoth he, "my mittons ;²
 They came but on my hands but ons
 This 22 yeere.

"Feitch mee my Capull," sayd hee there. 640
 His saddle was of a new manere :
 His stirropps were of a tree.
 "Dame," he sayd, "ffeitch me wine ;
 I will drinke to thee once againe,
 I troe I shall neuer thee see. 645

"Hodgkin long & hob of the lathe,
 Tarry & drinke with me bathe,
 For my cares are ffast comande."
 They dranke 5 gallons verament :
 "Farwell ffellowes all present, 650
 For I am readye to gange !"

¹ Percy Folio MS., beene. They were with or by him at his call. The form might, perhaps, be be 'm. In the second line of stanza Hob of the lath is to be understood as Hob of the Leet Court. He was an officer of that tribunal.

² Percy Folio MS., gloues ; but comp. line 727.

Iohn was soe combred in his geere
 Hee cold not gett vpon his mare
 Till hodgkinn heaue vp behind. 654
 1 - - - - -

“ Now ffarwell, Sir, by the roode ! ”
 To neither Knight nor Barron good
 His hatt he wold not vayne 659
 Till he came to the Kings gate :
 The Porter wold not lett him in therat,
 Nor come without ² the walle,

Till a Knight came walking out.
 They sayd, “ yonder standeth a carle stout 665
 In a rusticall arraye.”
 On him they all wondred right,
 And said he was an vnseemelye wight,
 And thus to him gan say :

“ Hayle, ffellow ! where wast thou borne ? 670
 Thee beseemeth ffull well to weare a horne !
 Where haddest thou that ffaire geere ?
 I troe a man might seeke ffull long,
 One like to thee ar that hee fong,³
 Tho he sought all this yeere.” 675

Iohn bad them kisse the devills arse :
 “ For you my geare is much the warse !
 You will itt not amende,
 By my ffaith, that can I rede ! ⁴
 Vpon the head I shall you shread 680
 But if you hence wende !

¹ Three lines are lost. ² Percy Folio MS., within.

³ Percy Folio MS. reads found. This emendation was proposed by Dyce. It is the right word.

⁴ Percy Folio MS., lead.

“The devill him speede vpon his crowne
 That causeth me to come to this towne,
 Whether he weare Iacke or Iill!
 What shold such men as I doe heere
 Att the kings Manere?
 I might haue beene att home still.”

685

As Iohn stode fflyting ffast,
 He saw one of his guests come att last ;
 To him he spake ffull bold,
 To him he ffast ffull rode,
 He vayled neither hatt nor hode ;
 Sayth, “thou hast me betold !

690

“Full well I wott by this light
 That thou hast disdaine me right ;
 For wrat[h] I waxe neere wood !”
 The Erle sayd, “by Mary bright,
 Iohn, thou made vs a merry night ;
 Thou shalt haue nothing but good.”

695

The Erle took leaue att Iohn Reeue,
 Sayd, “thou shalt come in without greeue ;
 I pray thee tarry a while.”

700

1 - - - - -

The Erle into the hall went,
 And told the King verament
 That Iohn Reeue was att the gate ;
 “To no man list hee lout ;
 A rusty sword gird him about,
 And a long ffawchyon, I wate.”

710

The King said, “goe wee to meate,
 And bringe him when wee are sett ;
 Our dame shall haue a play.”

¹ Three lines are lost.

“ He hath 10 arrowes in a thonge, 715
 Some are short & some are long,
 The sooth as I shold say ;

“ A rusty sallett vpon his crowne,
 His hood were made [of] home browne ;
 There may nothing him dare ; 720
 A thytill hee hath ffast in his hand
 That hangeth in a peake band,
 And sharplye itt will share.

“ He hath a pouch hanging ffull wyde ;
 A rusty Buckeler on the other syde, 725
 His mittons are of blacke clothe.
 Who-soe to him sayth ought but good,
 [I swear it to you by the rood,]
 Full soone hee wilbe wrothe.”

Then Iohn sayd, “ Porter, lett mee in ! 730
 Some of my goods thou shalt win ;
 I loue not ffor to pray.”
 The Porter sayd, “ stand abacke !
 And thou come neere I shall thee rappe,
 Thou carle, by my ffay !” 735

Iohn tooke his fforke in his hand,
 He bare his fforke on an end,
 He thought to make a ffray ;
 His Capull was wight, & corne ffedd ;
 Vpon the Porter hee him spedd, 740
 And him had welnye slaine.

He hitt the Porter vpon the crowne,
 With that stroke hee ffell downe,
 Forsooth as I you tell ;
 And then hee rode into the hall, 745
 And all the doggs both great & small
 On Iohn ffast can thé yell.

Iohn layd about as hee were wood,
 And 4 hee killed as hee stood ;
 The rest will now be ware. 750
 Then came fforth a squier hend,
 And sayd, " Iohn, I am thy ffrend,
 I pray you light downe heere."

Another sayd, " giue me thy fforke," 754
 And Iohn sayd, " nay, by S^t William of Yorke,
 First I will cracke thy crowne !"
 Another sayd, " lay downe thy swerde ;
 Sett vp thy horsse ; be not afferd ;
 Thy bow, good Iohn, lay downe ;

" I shall hold your stirroppe ; 760
 Doe of your pallett & your hoode
 Ere thé ffall, as I troe.
 Yee see not who sitteth att the meate ;
 Yee are a wonderous silly ffreake,
 And alsoe passing sloe !" 765

1 - - - - - -
 " What devill," sayd Iohn, " is that ffor thee ?
 Itt is my owne, soe mote I thee ! 770
 Therefore I will itt weare."

The Queene beheld him in hast :
 " My lord," shee sayd, " ffor gods ffast,
 Who is yonder that doth ryde ?
 Such a ffellow saw I neuer yere ; 775
 Shee saith, " hee hath the quaintest geere,
 He is but simple of pryde."

Right soe came Iohn as hee were wood ;
 He vayled neither hatt nor hood,
 He was a saly ffreake ; 780

¹ Three lines are lost ; their sense can be guessed.

He tooke his fforke as hee wold iust ;
 Vp to the dease ffast he itt thrust.
 The Queene ffor ffeare did speake,

And sayd, "lords, beware, ffor gods grace !
 For hee will ffrowte some in the fface 785
 If yee take not good heede !"
 Thé [all] laughed without[en] doubt,
 And soe did all that were about,
 To see Iohn on his steede.

Then sayd Iohn to our Queene, 790
 "Thou mayst be proud, dame, as I weene,
 To haue such a ffawconere !
 For he is a well ffarrand man,
 And much good manner hee can,
 I tell you sooth in ffere. 795

1 - - - - -

"But, lord," hee sayd, "my good, its thine ;
 My body alsoe, ffor to pine,
 For thou art king with crowne.
 But, lord, thy word is honorable,
 Both stedffast, sure, and stable, 800
 And alsoe great of renowne !

"Therefore haue mind what thou me hight
 When thou with me [harbord] a night,
 A warryson that I shold haue."
 Iohn spoke to him with sturdye mood, 805
 Hee vayled neither hatt nor hood,
 But stood with him checkmate.

The King sayd, "fellow mine,
 For thy capons hott & good red wine
 Much thanks I doe giue thee." 810

¹ Something is lost.

The Queene sayd, "by Mary bright,
Award him as [it is] his right ;
Well aduanced lett him bee !"

The King sayd vntill him than,
"Iohn, I make thee a gentleman ; 815
Thy manor-place I thee giue,
And a 100^{li} to thee and thine,
And euery yeere a tunn of red wine
Soe long as thou dost liue."

By¹ then Iohn began to kneele : 820
"I thanke you, my Lord, as I haue seil,² Therof I am well payd."
The King tooke a coller bright,
"Iohn,³ heere I make thee knight
With worshippe," then hee sayd. 825

Then was Iohn euill apayd,
And amongst them all thus hee sayd,
"Full oft I haue heard tell
That after a coller comes a rope ;
I shall be hanged by the throate ; 830
Methinkes itt doth not well."

"Sith thou hast taken this estate,
That euery man may itt wate,
Thou must begin the bord."
Then Iohn therof was nothing ffaine— 835
I tell you truth with-ouen laine,—
He spake neuer a word,

¹ Percy Folio MS., But. ² Percy Folio MS., soule.

³ In Percy Folio MS. these two lines read :

And sayd, "Iohn heere I make thee a knight
With worshippe. When hee sayd."

But att the bords end he sate him downe ;
 For [all] hee had leeuere beene att home
 Then att all their ffrankish ffare ;¹ 840
 For there was wine, well I wott ;
 Royall meates [dainty and hott]²
 Were sett before him there.

A gallon of wine was put in a dishe ;
 Iohn supped itt of, both more & lisse. 845
 "Feitch," quoth the King, "such more."
 "By my Lady," quoth Iohn, "this is good wine !
 Lett vs make merry, ffor now itt is time ;
 Christs curse on him that doth itt spare !"

With that the Porter hend came in 850
 And kneeled downe before the King,
 Was all berunnen with blood.
 Then the King in hart was woe,
 Sayes, "Porter, who hath dight thee soe ?
 Tell on ; I wax neere wood." 855

"Now infaith," sayd Iohn, "that same was I,
 For to teach him some curtesye,
 For thou hast taught him noe good.
 For when thou came to my pore place,
 With mee thou found soe great a grace, 860
 Noe man bad thee vail thy hood ;³

"For if any man had against thee spoken,
 His head ffull soone I shold haue broken,"
 Iohn sayd, "with-ouen doubt.

¹ Yet the Reeve provided an equally sumptuous repast for guests of whose station he was unaware.

² Percy Folio MS., of the best sortes.

³ Percy Folio MS., did bidd thee stand without.

Therefore I warne thy porters [so] ffree, 855
 When any man [comes] out of my Countrye,
 Lett¹ them not be soe stout.

“ If both thy porters goe walling wood,
 Begod I shall reauē their hood,
 Or I go on ffoote out.² 870
 But thou, Lord, hast after me sent,
 And I am come att thy commandement
 Hastilye withouten doubt.”

The King sayd, “ by St. Iame !
 Iohn, my porters were to blame ; 875
 Yee did nothing but right.”
 He tooke the case into his hand ;
 Then to kisse hee made them gange ;
 Then laughed both King and Knight. 879
 “ I pray you,” quoth the King, “ good ffellows bee.”
 “ Yes,” quoth Iohn, soe mote I thee,
 We were not wrathe ore night.”

The Bishopp said to him tho,
 “ Iohn, send hither thy sonnes tuo ;
 To the schoole I shall them find, 885
 And soe god may for them werke,
 That either of them haue a kirke
 If ffortune be their ffrind.

“ Also send hither thye daughters I craue ;³
 Two marryages the King will garr them haue. 890
 And wedd them with a ringe.
 Wend fforth, Iohn, on thy way,
 Looke thou be kind & curteous aye,
 Of meate & drinke be nere nothing.”

¹ Percy Folio MS., Another let.

² Percy Folio MS., Or go on ffoote boote.

³ Percy Folio MS., both.

Then Iohn took leaue of King & Queene, 895
 And after att all the court by-deene,
 And went fforth on his way.
 He sent his daughters to the King,
 And they were wedded with a ringe
 Vnto tuo squiers gay. 900

His sonnes both hardye & wight,
 The one of them was made a Knight,
 And fresh in euery ffray ;
 The other a parson of a kirke,
 Gods seruice ffor to worke, 905
 To serue god night & day.

Thus Iohn Reeue and his wiffe
 With mirth & jollity ledden their liffe ;
 To god they made laudinge.
 Hodgkin long & hobb of the lathe, 910
 They were made ffreemen bathe
 Through the grace of our hend King.¹

Then thought [John] on the Bishopps word,
 And euer after kept open bord
 For guests that god him send ; 915
 Till death ffeitcht him away
 To the blisse that lasteth aye :
 And thus Iohn Reeue made an end.

Thus endeth the tale of Reeue soe wight.
 God that is soe ffull of might, 920
 To heauen their soules bring
 That haue heard this litle story,
 That happed sometime in the north cuntrye²
 In long Edwards dayes our King !

¹ Percy Folio MS., the King hend.

² Percy Folio MS., liued—south-west, one reading wrong, the other a thoughtless change.

The Laying of Lord Fergus's Gaist.

THIS amusing Interlude, preserved by Bannatyne in his "Ballet Buik,"¹ 1568, has already been printed in the "Minstrelsy of the Scottish Border,"²—where it is said to be "in the same strain with the verses concerning the Gyre Carline. As the mention of Bettokis Bowr occurs in both pieces, and as the scene of both is laid in East Lothian, they are perhaps composed by the same author." At the close there is mention of "Cokleby's feist," in apparent recollection of the burlesque composition which has preceded. Sir Walter Scott, with his usual discrimination, at the same time observes, "The humour of these fragments seems to have been directed against the superstitions of Rome, but it is now become very obscure. Nevertheless the verses are worthy of preservation, for the sake of the ancient language and allusions."

Calderwood, in his highly valuable, but unpublished "History of the Church of Scotland," mentions James Wedderburn as one of those who, before the Reformation, being persecuted on account of their religious opinions, fled from Scotland;—and says, that "he had a good gift of poesie, and made diverse Comedies and Tragedies in y^e Scottish tongue, qⁱn he nipped the abuses and superstitions of the time." The historian adds, that "he counterfeited also y^e conjuring of ane gaist, q^{ch} was indeed practised be Frier Lang, beside Kinghorn, q^{ch} Frier Lang had been Confessor to y^e King;—But after y^e conjuring the King was constrained for shame to remove him." Walter Lang is mentioned in Colkelby's Sow, suprà. A curious allusion to this story occurs in the "Epistle of Alareit," already given above:—

¹ MS. fol. 114.

² Vol. i. p. clx.

—Bot ordourlie to dress this thing
 A gaist I purpois to gar gang
 By counsaill of Frier Walter Lang — —
 That practick he provit anis befoir
 Betuix Kyrkaldie and Kinghorne
 Bot Lymmaris maid thereat sik skorne
 And to his fame mad sik digressioun
 Sensyne he hard not the Kingis confessioun
 Thoicht at that time he come with speid.¹

From the allusion by Calderwood it has been conjectured that Wedderburn was the author of the following burlesque poem.

The Laying of Lord Fergus's Gaist.

LISTIS lordis, I sall zow tell
 Off ane verry grit meruell,
 Off Lord Fergus's gaist,
 How mekle S^r Andro it chest,
 Vnto Beittokis bour, 5
 The silly sawle to succour:
 And he hes writtin vnto me,
 Auld storeis for to sé,
 Gif it appinis him to meit,
 How he sall coniure the spreit: 10
 And I haif red mony quarß
 Bath the Donet, and Dominusque parß,
 Ryme maid, and als reiddin,
 Bath Inglis and Latene:
 And ane story haif I to reid 15
 Pasß Bonitatem in the creid—
 To coniure the littill gaist ze mon haif
 Off tod tailis ten thraif

¹ Knox's History, edit. 1732, p. 25.

And kast the grit haly watter
 W^t pater noster, patter patter 20
 And ge man sitt in ane compass
 And cry, Harbert tuthless,
 Drag thow, and þiss draw,
 And sitt thair quhill cok craw.
 The compass mon hallowit be 25
 With Aspergis me Domine ;
 The haly writt schawis als
 Thair man be hung about gour hals
 Pricket in ane woll poik
 Off neiß powder ane grit loik. 30
 Thir thingis mon ge beir,
 Brynt in ane doggis eir,
 Ane plucke, ane paiddill, and ane palme corß
 Thre tuskis of ane awld deid horß,
 And of ane gallow wob the warp, 35
 The boddome of ane awld herp,
 The heid of ane cuttit reill,
 The band of ane awld quheil,
 The taill of ane geild sow,
 And ane bait of blew wow, 40
 Ane botene, and ane brechame,
 And ane quhorle maid of lame,
 To luke owt at the litill boir,
 And cry, Chrystis crosß, gow befoir :
 And quhen ge sé the kittill gaist, 45
 Cumand to gow in all haist,
 Cry lowd Chryste eleisone,
 And speiris quhat law it leivis on ?
 And gif it sayis on God^e ley,
 Than to the littill gaist ge say, 50
 W^t braid benedicitie ;
 Littill gaist, I coniure thé,
 W^t harie & larie,
 Bay^t fra God, & Sanct Marie,

First w^t ane fischis mowth, 55
 And syne w^t ane fowlis towth,
 W^t ten pertane tais,
 And nyne knok ϵ of windil strais,
 W^t thré heid ϵ of curle doddy. 60
 And bid the gaist turn in a boddy.
 Then eftir this coniuratioun,
 The littill gaist will fall in soun,
 And þ^r eftir doun ly,
 Cryand mercy petously ;
 Than w^t ȝour left heill it sane, 65
 And it will nevir cum agane,
 Als mekle as ane mige amaist. — —
 He had a littill wé leg,¹
 And it was cant as ony cleg,
 It wes wynd in ane wyndin scheit, 70
 Bay^t the hand ϵ and the feit :
 Suppois this gaist wes littill ȝit it stall fra Godis quhitell ;
 It stall fra peteouss Abrahame,
 Ane quhorle and ane quhū quhame ; 75
 It stall frae the carle of þe mone
 Ane pair awld yrn schone ;
 It ran to Pencaitlane,
 And wirreit ane awld chaplane
 This littill gaist did na mair ill 80
 Bot klok lyk a corne in myll ;
 And it wald play and hop,
 Abowt the heid ane stra strop ;
 And it wald sing and it wald dance,
 Ourefute and Orliance. 85
 Quha coniurit the littill gaist sa ȝe ?
 Nane bot the littil Spenzie flé
 That w^t hir wit and ingyne,

¹ Apparently one or more lines are here omitted.

Gart the gaist leif agane ;
And sune mareit the gaist the flé, 90
And cround him kyng of Kandelie ;
And they gat thame betwene,
Orpheus king and Elpha quene,
To reid quha will this gentill geist
ze hard it no^t at Cokilby's feist. 95

Explicit.

Sir John Rowll's Cursing.

DUNBAR, in his "Lament for the Death of the Makkaris," bewails the fate of two contemporary poets named Rowll, with whom he seems to have been familiar. He says :

"Death hes tane Rowll of Abirdene
And gentill Rowll of Corstorphyn ;
Two bettir fallowis did no man sie ;
Timor mortis conturbat me !"¹

But so little is known concerning these two ecclesiastics, as to leave it uncertain which of them should be considered author of the following singular invective :—which, indeed, is the solitary memorial that remains of the talents of either one or other of two men who received from their illustrious friend this testimony to the excellence of their natural dispositions.

Sir David Lyndsay also names Rowll with other Scottish poets, of whom he says :

"Thocht thay be deid, thair libellis bene levand, Quhilkis, to reherse, makith reidaris to rojose."²

Rowll's poem has been preserved both in George Bannatyne's and Sir Richard Maitland's collections of old Scottish poetry. Lord Hailes says, "Whether it was written by him, or only in his name, I know not. The following passage in it (he adds) determines the era at which he lived :

—"and now of Rome that beiris the rod,
Undir the hevin to lowse and bind,
Paip Alexander."

¹ Bann. MS., fol. 104.

² Lyndsay's Works, vol. i. p. 285.

The Pontiff here meant must have been the virtuous Alexander VI., who was Divine Vicegerent from 1492 to 1503."¹ And Dunbar's poem, which commemorates their death, was printed in the year 1508.

Pinkerton mentions the following poem, which appears to copy the extravagant vein of the strange compositions known as "Flytings," with great contempt, styling it a stupid and despicable production; and quoting the last lines,

" This tragedy is callit, but dreid Rowllis cursing, quha will it reid," says the author "might have put a point of interrogation at the close."² The name of "Tragedy," in the language of those times, was applied to any descriptive poem, nor was it appropriated to dramatic compositions in England before the reign of Henry VIII., although no regular tragedy was produced earlier than January 1561, when "Ferrex and Porrex" was first represented.

Sir John Rowll's "Cursing" may be considered as a religious satire, being, as Lord Hailes justly observed, "an invective against those who defraud the clergy of their dues, and has no resemblance to any sort of dramatic composition."³ Dr. Leyden⁴ thought that in acrimony it was little inferior to Sterne's chapter of curses: and the author's invocation of all the devils to revenge the stealing of his geese, he considered as forming a curious contrast to Sir John of Grantam's curse for the Miller's eels that were stolen, recorded in Harsnet's "Detection of Egregious Impostures," 1604; but an anecdote current long before the Archbishop's day, as it is one of the "Hundred Merry Tales," 1526, and is quoted from that source by Scot in his "Discovery of Witchcraft," 1584.

" All you that have stolen the Miller's eelis,
Laudate Dominum de cælis:
And all that have consented thereto,
Benedicamus Domino.

¹ Bannatyne Poems, 1770, p. 272.

² Maitland Poems, 1786, p. 451.

³ Bannatyne Poems, 1770, p. 270.

⁴ Glossary to the Complaynt of Scotland, 1801, p. 329.

After the author has excommunicated

“ Baith the halderis and conceilaris, Ressetaris and the preve steilaris,” and bade them “ hy to the pot of hell,” the lines

“ In hellis hoill quhair nevir is licht,
 Nor nevir is day, bot evir nicht,
 Quhair nevir is joy evin & morrow
 Bot endlis pane, dule & sorrow,
 Quhair nevir is petie nor concord,
 Nor amitie, bot discord,
 Malice, rancour, & invy,” &c., are very striking, and remind us of the impressive description by a greater poet, of “ A dungeon horrible on all sides round,

 As one great furnace flam'd ; yet from those flames
 No light ; but rather darkness visible
 Serv'd only to discover sights of woe,
 Regions of sorrow, doleful shades, where peace
 And rest can never dwell ; hope never comes,
 That comes to all ; but torture without end
 Still urges, and a fiery deluge, fed
 With ever-burning sulphur unconsumed.”

—MILTON.

Heir followis the cursing of S^r Johne Rowllis upoun the steilaris of his fowlis.

EVYNE power of michtis maist
 Of Fadir Sone and Haly Ghaist
 Jesu Chryst and his appostillis
 Petir Paule and his discippillis
 And all þe power vndir God

5

And now of Rome þat beiris the rod
 Vndir þe hevin to lowse & bind
 Paip Alexander þat we do fynd

W^t þat power that Petir gaif
 Godis braid malesone nixt thay haif 10
 And all þe blude about þair hairt
 Blak be þair hour blak be þair pairt
 For fyve fat geiss of sir Johne Rowllis
 W^t caponis hēis and vþir fowlis
 Baith þe halderis and conceilaris 15
 Ressettaris and the preve steilaris
 And he þat saulis saifis and dāmis
 Beteich the devill thair guttis and gāmis
 Their toung their teith thair handis their feit
 And all thair body haill compleit 20
 That brak his ȝaird and stall his frutt
 And raif his erbis vp be þe rute
 His quheit his aitis his peiss his beir
 In stowk or stakt to do him deir
 In barne in houss in kill or mill 25
 Except it had bene his awin will
 His wow his lamb his cheis his stirk
 Or ony teyndis of haly kirk
 And all þat lattis vnkend or knawin
 The vicar to dispone his awin 30
 Kirkland hay or gerfs to awaill
 Be thair support red or counsall
 Now cursit and wareit be þair werd
 Quhill thay be levand on this erd
 Hungir sturt and tribulatioun 35
 And nevir to be w^tout vexatioun
 Of vengeance sorrow sturt and cair
 Graceless thriftles and threid bair
 All tymes in þair legasie
 Fyre sword watter and woddie 40
 Or ane of thir infirmeteis
 Off worldly scherp aduerseteis
 Pouertie pestilence or peplecy
 Dum deif or edroposy

Maigram madness or missilry	45
Appostrum or þe perlocy
Fluxis hyvis or huttit ill
Hoist heidwark or fawin ill
Kald kanker feister or feveris
Brukis bylis blobbis and bleistiris	50
Emeroidese or the sair halss
The pokkis the spaving in þe halss
The panefull gravell and the gutt
The gulsoch that they nevir be but
Seattica and arrattica	55
The cruke the cramp the collica
The worme the wareit wedon̄ypha
Rumbursin rippillis or bellythra
The choikis that haldis the chaftis fra chowing
Golkgaliter at the hairt growing	60
The stane wring stane and staneblind
The berne bed and mor behind
The strangelour and grit glengloir
The harchatt in þe lippis befoir
The mowlis and þ ^r sleip the mair	65
The kanker and the kattair
Mott fall vpoun thair kankart cors
With all þe evil that evir had hors
Fische fowll beist or man
In erd sen first þe warld began	70
Till thay remember or thay dé
Repentand þair iniquitie
And draw þair inclinatioun
Fra stowth to contemplatioun
Fra feyndis fell subiectioun	75
To haly kirkis correctioun
Sua thay mak plane confessioun
Thair gud will and contritioun
Confessand þame to þair curatt
That in þair hairtis is evill indurat	80

Na vþir preist hes power nor freir
 And thay that daly will perseveir
 Nocht dreidand God in work nor word
 Nor ȝit of haly kirk the suord
 Bot in þair cursit and sinfull wayis 85
 Levand and dryvand our thair dayis
 Nor ask God mercy nor repent
 Than this salbe þair sacrament
 Fra God our Lady and all thair hallowis
 To þe feynd þair saulis thair craig the gallowis 99
 I gif and Cerberus thair banis sall knaw
 For þair dispyt of þe kirkis law
 Gog and Magog and grym Garog
 The devill of hell the theif Harog
 Sym Skȳnar and S^r Garnega 95
 Julius appostata
 Prince Pluto and quene Cokatrice
 Devetinus þe devill þat maid þe dyce
 Cokadame and Semiamis
 Fyremouth and Tutivillus 100
 And Brownny als þat can play kow
 Behind þe claith w^t mony mow
 All thir about the beir salbe
 Singand ane dolorus dergie
 And vþiris devillis thair salbe sene 105
 Als thik as mot in sonis beme
 Thair sal thay kary in þair clukis
 Sum libberlais and sum hell crukis
 Sum w^t kȳis and sum w^t kardis
 Sum w^t quhippis of leddrin tardis 110
 Sum w^t clubbis and mellis of leid
 Sum w^t brandrathis birnand reid
 Sum w^t rūpillis lyk a skait
 And geiss and caponis rostit hait
 That sal be laschit on þair lippis 115
 Cum thay w^tin þe devillis grippis

W^t skulgeoun clowttis and dressing knyvis
 Platt for plat on þr gyngyvis
 Sayis richt thus of Rowlis geiss
 Thame chaftis þame chowit every peiss 120
 For thow art he and thow art scho
 That Rowlis blak robene put in bro
 And thow art scho that stall þe hen
 And put her in þe pot þair ben
 Lo this is he þat w^t his hairt 125
 Wald nevir gif the vicar his pairt
 Bot ay about for to dissaif
 The haly kirk þat it sould haif
 Than ruffy tasker w^t his flaill
 Sall beit þame all fra top to taill 130
 And ruffy ragmē w^t his taggis
 Sall ryfe þair sinfull saule in raggis
 And quhen þe devillis hes þame tirvit
 All þair saulis sal be transformit
 Sum in bichis and sum in beiris 135
 Sum in mvlis and sum in meiris
 Aganis the statour þat thay wer in
 For vengeance of þair deidly sin
 To ryd and tak possessioun
 Throw all hell vp and down 140
 And w^t grit din and deray
 Compeir sall Sathan but delay
 Sayand richt thus w^t sentēce hé
 Vpoun þe day þat thow sall dé
 I devill of deillis I zow cōdame 145
 For geis for zowis for woll for lame
 Thairfoir hy zow to þe pott of hell
 W^t Sathan our Abirone to dwell
 As feyndis spreitis perpetualy
 For to remane in mesary 150
 Deip Acheron zour saulis invaid
 As blak as ruch as ony taid

Snaykis serpentis and edderis
 Mott stuf ȝo^r bellyis & ȝo^r bledderis
 In hellis hoill q^r nevir is licht 155
 Nor nevir is day bot evir nicht
 Q^r nevir is joy evin & morrow
 Bot endlis pane dule & sorrow
 Q^r nevir is petie nor concord
 Nor amitie bot discord 160
 Malice rācour & invy
 W^t magry & malācoly
 Than fra þe sentence be on þame said
 Grit Bialiall sall gif a braid
 And bakwart leip vpon a beir 165
 Sum on ane mvle sum on a meir
 Sum on wolffis and sum on wichis
 Sum on brodsowis sum on bichis
 Than is þair no^t bot sadill & brydill
 Thir outtit meiris hes lang gane ydill 170
 Bot sic ane clawing w^t þair clukis
 And sic ane reirding w^t þ^r rukis
 Rāpand w^t ane hiddowis beir
 Cryand all is ouris þat is heir
 The memberis of the wickit mē 175
 That staw the guse þe cok the hen
 Thay salbe revin be þe throttis
 For cutting of the fowlis croppis
 Syne led in towis and in lang tedderis
 And daly etin w^t taidis & edderis 180
 That all þe court of hevin may knaw
 Thay war the thevis þat Rowllis geiss staw¹
 For quhy grit God our hiest juge²
 He gaif decreit but refuge
 That all pykaris of pultre 185
 Gais no^t to hevin bot thay sall fle

¹ 'Maye Ebin' in the MS.

² 'Evin,' MS.

To hell w^tout redēptioun
 Q^r is no remissioun
 The forme of thir vgly devillis
 Thay hafe lang tailis on þair heillis 190
 And rūpillis hingand on þair tailis
 Dragoun heidis & warwolf nalis
 W^t glowrane eyne as glitterad glass
 W^t bowgillis & hornis maid of brass
 And dyverss facis ¹ repleit w^t yre 195
 Spowtād vēmū & sparkis of fyre
 And sum w^t teith and tegir tungis
 Attour þair chin w^t bludy dangis
 Spottit and sprinklit vp & doun
 Reid attrý lyk a scorpioun 200
 And sum ar smeith & sum are ruch
 And sum ar lyk ane serpentis sluch
 W^t prik mule eiris sum ar lyk
 Thair eiris neifs ar lyk ane midding tyk
 W^t gaippand mowth richt ȝaip to swelly 205
 Ehe mair the less devill in his belly
 Of þair fowle fegouris na mā can tell
 Tho^t thay wer sevin ȝeiris in hell
 To leir to paynt portour or blasoun
 Thair forme & thayr feyndly fassoun 210
 Thair vgsom horribiliteis
 Nor ȝit na þ^t schaipis w^t scheiris
 Tho^t infineit he be of ȝeiris
 Maist principaly to schaip þair graith
 In hell for steilling heir of claith 215
 Can conterfit nor mak it meit
 Ane gabart for a deill cōpleit
 And ȝit in hell ar mony ane
 That said þai war als trew as stane
 Gif þ^r be ony in þis hous 220

¹ 'Eyne,' MS.

That beiris þe nedill gorrit þe lowss
 I þame beseik thay be no^t wraith
 Suppois they clyit haif parte of claith
 Bot seik þe causs and leif þe deid
 And blame þe scheiris þat raif þe skreid 235
 And quha þat steilis & on stowth levis
 Cursit mot thay be amang thir thevis
 Now to þe effect ga will I
 And speik of feyndis phantesy
 In court no^t w^t þe quene of fary 230
 But heltaris heidtailis sonkis or sadillis
 But butis or spurris crukis or ladillis
 W^t full berdis blasand in þe wind
 And hett speitis in þair taill behind
 Than instar tasy w^t his jaggis 235
 And belly bassy w^t his baggis
 At hellis gettis sall mak sic reirding
 On thir steillaris of geiss sall ding
 That it beis hard in middil erd
 The grit flappis w^t sic faird 240
 Thunder blastis & fyre sall blaw
 That na devill may ane vþir know
 For reik stynek & brynstane birnand
 Devillis gelpand gaipand and girnand
 Than sall Baliall gif ane brattill 245
 And all the thevis in hell sall startill
 Lyk to ane gaid of yrne or steill¹
 That doun war sinkand in ane weill
 Sa sall thay ga to endles pane
 And nevir to cum hame agane 250
 Now Jesu for thy passioun
 And deit for our redemptioun

¹ 'Bla' in the MS. is inserted before 'Baliall,' apparently by mistake.

Of mākynd haif mercy sone
Latt never this sentēce sall þame vpone
Bot grant þame grace ay till forbeir 255
Resset or stowth of vþir mēis geir
And als agane þe geir restoir
Till Rowl as I hafe said befoir
And to repent thay may in tyme
Pray we to God thus endis [the] ryme 260
This tragedy is callit but dreid
Rowlis cursing quha will it reid.

Finis.

Ane Ballet of the Nine Nobles.

ON the margin of the ancient copy of Fordun's "Scoti-chronicon," that once belonged to the celebrated historian, Hector Boece, is written this translation of some barbarous Latin verses, added by Bower about the year 1440, and occurring in most copies of the same Chronicle.¹ It has, indeed, been already printed, but may, without much impropriety, be inserted in this place; particularly as it is given from the Manuscript itself,—the copy printed by the industrious antiquary, Thomas Hearne, not being remarkable for its accuracy :

“ On fut suld be all Scottis weir,
Be hyll and mosse, thaim self to ‘ steir.’²
Llat wod for wallis be bow and speir,
That innymeis do thaim na deir.
In streit placis gar keip all stoir ;
And byrne the plane land thaim befor :
Thane sall thai pass away in haist,
Quhen that thai find na thing bot waist.
With wyllis and waykene of the nycht,
And mekill noyis maid on hycht :
Thane sall thai turne with gret affrai,
As thai war chassit with suerd away.
This is the consall and intent
Off gud King Robert’s Testament.”

The following ballad, however, which is not known to be in print, may serve to shew the esteem in which the memory of Robert the Bruce was long held by the people of Scotland. It occurs at the end of the large and splendid copy of For-

¹ Lib. xii. cap. x.

² In the MS. ‘ weir.’

dun's Chronicle in the University Library of Edinburgh, and is written in the same hand with the rest of the Manuscript.

The Nine Worthies here enumerated often make a conspicuous figure in old English poems. Thus Gower, in his "Balade to King Henry the Fourth," says :

" See Alexander, Hector, and Julius,
See Machabeus, Daud, and Josue,
See Charlemaine, Godfray, and Arthus."

" Fulfilled of warre, and of mortalite
Her fame abitte, but all is vanite
For death, which has the warres vnder fote
Hath made an end, of which there is no bote."

Chaucer's Works, Speght's edit., 1598, fol. 332.

The reader will remember the amusing Pageant of the Nine Worthies introduced by Shakspeare in "Love's Labour's Lost," where the King says—

" Here is like to be a good presence of worthies: He (Don Adriano de Armado) presents Hector of Troy; the swain, Pompey the Great; the parish curate, Alexander; Armado's page, Hercules; the pedant, Judas Machabæus.

" And if these four worthies in their first show thrive, These four will change habits and present the other five."

" De nouem nobilibus."

HECTOR of Troy throu hard feichthyngis,

In half thrid geris slew xix kyngis ;
And ammirallis a hundred and mare,
Wyth small folk at vnrackynnit war ;

He slew sa fell, at wes ferly,
Qwham Achilez tresnabli.

Alexander als nobil a kyng,
In xij geris wan throw hard feichtyng,

Al landis vnder the formament !
 Eqwhethir adai in till parlement, 10
 He said, he had but variance,
 Our litill in till his gouernance.

Julius Cesar wan hailily
 The ilis of Grece, and all Surry ;
 Affrick, Arab, Bretan wan he, 15
 And discumfit his mawche Pompe :
 Throw hard batell, stalward stour,
 He war the first was emperour.

The gentill Jewß Josue,
 Anek xxx kyngis throw weir wan he ; 20
 And conquirit the landis also,
 The flu Jordan pertit in two
 Throw Goddis grace, and strang power ;
 Men suld hym loff on gret maner.

Dauid slew mychthy Golias, 25
 And Philisteus at felon was ;
 He wes so wucht, et weill feichtand,
 That he wes neuer sene recriand ;
 Thair for men call him, loud and still.
 A trew prophet of hardy will. 30

Michty Judas Machabeus
 Jn bathell slew Antiochus,
 Appolonius and Nichanore,
 At in his dais wald neuer shor,
 No multitud be adred of men, 35
 Thoff he war ane eganes ten.

Arthur wan Dace, Spange, and France,
 And hand for hand slew giantis ;

Lucius the publik procuratour
 Of Rome, wyth milleonis in stalwar stour ; 40
 And in till Paris Schir Frollo,¹
 In lystis slew wyth outin mo.

Charles of France slew Agramand,
 And wan Spange fra hethoun land ;
 He slew the sowden of Pavi, 45
 And wan the Saxonis halily ;
 And quhar God deid for our safté,
 He put haly the Cristanté.

Godefrey Bolgone slew Solimant,
 Before Antioche, and Cormorant, 50
 Quham he throu ful strak ha^e ourtane,
 Throu cops and harmez his glave is gane ;
 Sere hethownis he slew throu hard feychtyng,
 And of Ier'lm a geir was Kyng.

Robert the Brois throu hard feichtyng 55
 With few venkust the mychthy Kyng
 Off Ingland, Edward, twyse in fycht,
 At occupit his realme but rycht
 At sum tyme wes set so hard,
 At hat nocht sax till hym toward. 60

ge gude men that thir balletis redis,
 Deme quha dochtyst was in dedis.

¹ This personage, who is introduced to exemplify the prowess of Arthur, according to the Chronicles, was a Roman knight, governor of Gaul. His name and that of "Lucyus the emperour of Rome" are alluded to in the "Legend of King Arthur," printed in Percy's "Reliques," vol. iii. p. 79.

The Duik of Orlyance in Defence of the Scots.

THE following lines, transcribed from the Maitland MS., are merely an extract, with some occasional variations, from Androw of Wyntown's Chronicle. They may be allowed, however, to stand in opposition to some of the many ancient rhymes which the English are known to have scattered abroad against the Scots. The jealous and hostile spirit which, for so many ages, existed betwixt the inhabitants of the two kingdoms, has long happily ceased, and, we trust, for ever. Nevertheless, it is curious and interesting to observe the various manifestations of this long-cherished and deep-seated animosity;—whether we may read in our annals of strife and bloodshed in the field of battle; of border forays and predatory excursions; or discover it in the more harmless, but not less vehement and sarcastic effusions in which they mutually seem to have indulged.

The question put by the illustrious Duke of Orleans is sufficiently simple and dispassionate, and leads to a natural and satisfactory conclusion, when he asked how it came that the English, with all their boasting, never were able to vanquish “the puir folk of Scotland”—

— — — “whose gadding into weiris Micht nocht exceid five hundreth speiris—” but allowed themselves to be harassed night and day by those whom they pretended to hold in despite; nor could enforce that homage and obedience which, at times, they presumed to say, we owed to the Crown of England.

“Defence of the Scots.”

ONE thowsand ȝeir thre hundreth nynty and ane

Fra Jesus Chryst had manheid tane
The bischop of Sanct Androis se,
Maister Waltir Traill callit was he,—

Be counsale and be ordinance 5
Of Scottismen, he passit in France ;
For, in to Scotland men hard tell,
At the duik Johne of Longcastell,
Be ane ordinat delyuerance
Off Inglismen he passit in France.— 10
And quhatsoeur thay tretit had,
Our bischop thair tuell monethis baid.
And thair sayrlie the Inglismen
The Scottismen diffamit than :—
Thai said, thair gadding in to weiris 15
Micht nocht exceid fyve hundreth speiris :
The king of France, thai said, forthy,
Suld lat of Scottis men bot lichtlye.
Thir wourdis war said in the presence
Of the duchtie Duik of Orlyance, 20
Quhilk had ane speciale effectioun
Till Scottismen and thair natioun ;
And than in haist he maid ansueyr,
As it was said on this maneyr :—
ȝe wein to lak, bot ȝe commend 25
That natioun, as ȝe mak it kend :
Was neuer realme nor regioun
Wourth mair commendatioun,
Than ar the few folk of Scotland,
As that ȝe gar ws vnderstand. 30
ȝe say, thair gadding in to weiris
May nocht exceid fyve hundreth speiris ;

And ge ar ane michtie natioun,
 Excelland in presumptioun,
 For all landis lyand gow by 35
 ge suppress with gour sengory ;
 Owthir ge win thame to gour croun,
 Or haldis thame in subjection ;
 Bot the few folk of Scotland,
 Quhilk by dry marchis ar lyand 40
 Neir on to gow, thai hald thair awin,
 As it is maid vntill ws knawin ;
 And will cum with thair poweir,
 Playn ge, or gour land, of weir,
 And day and nycht will ly thairin, 45
 And in gour sicht gour landis bryne gour cattale and gour gudis thay ta ;
 And spairis nathing gour self to sla ;
 Thus suffer thay on na kin wyß, gow of sic micht to do suppryß ; 50
 Bot euir thay quyt gow lill for lall,
 Or that ge skail the market all ;
 That natioun may ge nocht defame,
 Bot gif ge smyt gour awin with schame !
 The king of France thairfor think me, 55
 Suld hald thame in to mair daintie,
 That so few folk, of so lytill micht,
 Aganis gow can manteine thair fecht,
 Vpon the dry merchis lyand,
 As it is gart ws vnderstand. — 60

Quhen this was said the Inglismen
 Was schamit of thair wourdis than,
 And hold thame still, and spak no mair,
 In till dispyt as thai did ayr.

Finita responsio Illustrissimi ducis Orlianensis in honorem et defensionem Scotorum.

A Poem by Glassinberry.

OF Glassinberry the history is altogether unknown, and we can only conjecture that he flourished in the reign of James the Second of Scotland. The poem here printed is preserved in Gray's Manuscript,—a little diminutive volume, chiefly of historical pieces, written towards the close of the fifteenth century,¹ which is now in the Advocates' Library. Another copy (without any author's name) is contained in a MS. volume in the Archiepiscopal Library at Lambeth.² Two or three anonymous poems contained in Gray's MS. might, from a similarity of style and measure, be, with some propriety, assigned to the same author.

A stanza or two from one of them may be here subjoined. The subject is the transitory nature of the present life, illustrated by various examples; amongst which we have the "Nine Worthies" brought forward to show "this world is very vanité."

" Mony pape ar passit by,
Patriarkis, prelatis, and preistis,
Kingis and knichtis in company,
Uncountit curiously up I kest ;
Women and mony wilsom wy,
As wynd and wattir ar gane west :
Fish, and foule, and froit of tree
On feild is nane formit na fest ;
Riches adew ! sen all is drest
That thai may nocht this dule indrè !
Sen nocht has leif that heir ma lest
This world is bot a vanité !

¹ See Father Innes's Critical Essay, vol. ii. p. 627-632.

² It is contained in the volume, No. 853, of Mr. Todd's Catalogue of the Lambeth MSS.

" Quhar is Plato that clerk of price,
 That of all poetis had no peir ?
 Or git Catoun with his clergis ?
 Or Aristotill that clerk so clere ?
 Tullious that wele wauld tis ?
 To tell his treyt wer full teyr !
 Or Virgil that wes war and wis,
 And wist all wardly werk but wer ?
 Is nane sa dowtit na sa dere,
 Than but redemyng all mon dee !
 Therfor I hauld, quha evir it heir,
 This world is verray vanité.

" Ane uthir exempill suth to say
 In summeris day full oft is sene
 Thir emotis in ane hillock ay
 Rinnand oute befor thin ene ;
 With litill weit thai wit away,
 Sa worthis of ws all I wene !
 May nane indur ouer his enday,
 Bot all ouer dravis, as dew bedene,
 That on the bery bidis bene,
 And with a blast away wilbe,
 Quhile girse ar gray, quhile ar thai grene,
 This world is verray vanité ! "

The following lines, written on the margin of one of the leaves of this MS. in the name of "Aristoteles Magnus," may remind the reader of some verses usually attributed to the author of "Hudibras :"—

" Gyf thou cummis to the flude,
 And the wawis¹ be woude,
 Huse, and hald thé still ;
 Thou may cum ane uther day,
 Quhen wynd and wawis ar away
 Than ma thou waid at will."

¹ Wawis—for "waves."

Poem by Glassinberry.

I.

HIS is Goddis awne complaint,
 Fro man to man that he has boucht,
 And thus he sais to thame in taynt,
 Myne awne pepill, quhat have I wroucht
 To thé, that is to me so faynt, 5

And I thi lufe so deir has soucht?
 In thyne ansuer no thing that paynt
 To me, becaus I know thi thought!
 Have I nocht done all that I oucht?
 Have I left ony thing behynd? 10
 Quhy wrethis thou me? I greif thé nocht;
 Quhy arttow to thi freind unkynd?

II.

I socht thi lufe, and that wes sene,
 Quhen that I maid thé like till me;
 In erd my werk, baith quyk and grene, 15
 I pat undir thin awne pousté;
 And fra Pharo, that wes sa kene,
 Of Egip I deliverit thé,
 And drownit him and his men bedene;
 The Red sey twinit I thé to fle; 20
 I bad all dry that it suld bee,
 I cessit baith wattir and wynd,
 And brocht thé oure, and maid thé free;
 Quhy arttow to thi freind unkynd?

III.

And fourti yheir in wildernes, 25
 With angele fude syne I thé fed,
 And til a land of grete richness,
 To wyn thi lufe, syne I thé led:

And yhit, to schaw thé mair kyndnes,
 To tak thi kynd na thing I dreid ; 30
 I left my micht, and tuke mekenes,
 Myne awne hert blude for thé I bled :
 To by thi saule my blude I sched,
 And band my self thé til unbynd ;
 Thus, with my wo, thi neid I sped, 35
 Quhy arttow to thi freind unkynd ?

IV.

[In] my wyneyhard I plauntit thé
 Full of gude saver and swetnes ;
 And nobil seid of all degré,
 Bettir in erd nevir sawin wes : 40
 Quhy suld thou thus gat fra me flé,
 And turne all in to bittirnes ?
 The croce, for my reward, to me
 Thou grathit and gaif, this is no leis,
 Yhit had I evir to thé grete hers, 45
 Resistand thame that to thé rynd
 And puttand thé of mony a pres ;
 Quhy arttow to thi freind unkynd ?

V.

For thé I ordanit Paradise,
 Fré will wes thi infestment ; 50
 How mycht thou me mair disples,
 Na brek my awn commaundiment ?
 And syne, in vij maner of wiis,
 Til myn enemy thou has consent ;
 I put thé downe, thou mycht nocht ryse 55
 Thi mycht, thi wit away wes went ;
 Baith pure, nakit, schamit and schent,
 Of freindschip mycht thou no thing fynd,
 Till that I on the Rude wes rent ;
 Quhy arttow to thi freind unkynd ? 60

VI.

Man ! I lufe thé, quhom luffis thou ?
 I am thi freind, quhy lest thé wayn ?
 I forgaif thé that thou me slew,
 Quha has partit oure lufe in twane ?
 Turne to me, and unite think thou, 65
 Thou has gane mys, yhit turne agane,
 And thou salbe als welcum now,
 As sum with syn that nevir did nane :
 Think how did Mary Magdalane,
 And quhat said I, Thomas of Ynd, 70
 I graunt thé blis ; quhy lest thé pane ?
 Quhy arttow to thi freind unkynd ?

VII.

O a freind the best preif
 Is lufe with dreid, and nocht disples,
 Was nevir thing to me mair leif, 75
 Na man that na thing may appes,
 I sufferit for thi synis repreif,
 And dulfull deid thi saul to es ;
 Hangit and drawin as a theif,
 Thou did the deid, I haf dishes ; 80
 Nor can thow nother thank no ples,
 No do gude deid, no have in mynd,
 I am thi leich, to thi males ;
 Quhy arttow to thi freind unkind ?

VIII.

Man unite, think thé quhat thou art ? 85
 Fra quhom thou come ? quhar arttow bown ;
 All thocht thou be to day in quart,
 To morn I can cum put thé down :
 Let mynd and meiknes mele in hart,
 And rew of my compasioun, 90

Apon my woundis, herd and smert,
 Of skourgis, nalis, spere, and crowne ;
 Let dreid and gude discretioun,
 With lufe thi hert wp to me wynd,
 Thou has v. wittis and resoun,
 And gif thou will, thou may be kind !

IX.

Lord ! with thé we will nocht plete,
 Bot as thou sais, It is and wes ;
 We have deserwit hell heit
 Now we ws held unto thi gres ; 10
 We sal aby, and thou sal beit
 And chasty ws for oure trespes ;
 Let mercy so for ws entret,
 That nevir the feynd our saulis ches.
 And Mary mild ! fairest of faice, 10
 Help ws, or we be fer behynd,
 Or wepand, we mon say, Allace !
 That we bene till our freind unkynd !

Explicit quod Glassinberry.

The King of the Roy Robert.

THIS poem, which is mentioned in the "Complaynt of Scotland" (1549), appears to have received, at an early period, more attention than easily can be accounted for any other way than from national feeling, which may have responded to the sentiments it expresses with regard to the independence and sovereignty of Scotland. The author, according to the Maitland MS., from which this poem is now printed, was Dean David Steill, a Scottish poet, who is supposed to have flourished about the close of the fifteenth century.¹

The occasion to which the poem alludes is evidently what took place on the renewal of hostilities between the two kingdoms after the accession of Henry IV. According to our historians, that monarch in the year 1400, previously to his invading Scotland with a powerful army, sent a summons to King Robert III.² and all the prelates and nobility of Scotland, to meet him at Edinburgh on the 23rd of August, to do homage and swear fealty to him as Superior Lord of Scotland; which he affirmed all the former Kings of Scotland had done to his predecessors since the days of Brute

¹ Bishop Nicolson (Scottish Historical Library, 1703, p. 154) first pointed out that in the Maitland MS. this piece was given to Dean Steill, and Dr. George Mackenzie (Lives and Characters of Scottish Writers, i. p. 450), on that authority admitted the author into his work, and speaks of the production as containing the Life of King Robert III., "wherein several things are recorded of moment."

² In this copy an evident mistake occurs in calling Robert "the first King of the good Stewart," which probably occurred in one of the old printed copies, the answer being attributed to Robert II.

the Trojan. To such an arrogant demand he is said to have received a no less contemptuous answer from Prince David, Duke of Rothsay; upon which he marched forward but ere long he returned to England, without having done anything worthy of his mighty preparations.¹

But this poem cannot be regarded as a contemporary effusion. The probability is, that it may have been one of "those writings" handed about in the reign of Henry VII. which occasioned a remonstrance to be made on the part of the English monarch. A declaration on this subject, by the learned and upright judge, Sir John Fortescue, in the form of a dialogue, "Vpon certayn wrytingis sent oute of Scotteland, ayenst the Kingis title of his Roialme of England," is still preserved in MS. ;² although the character of the author is sufficient, we should have supposed, to render any of his works deserving of publication.

The printed copies of this poem are considerably modernised and corrupted. One of these, printed as a broadside, about the year 1680, preserved in Pepys's library, has this title, "The reply and challenge of King Robert the second, the first of the Steuarts, unto Henry the fourth, King of England, unjustly challenging his homage." There is another edition, printed at Edinburgh, 1700, 8vo, p. 8, which has been elsewhere reprinted.³ It is likewise included in Watson's "Collection of Scots Poems," Part II., 1709.

The Ring of the Roy Robert.

N to the ring of the roy Robert,
 The first King of the gud Stewart ;
 Hary of Ingland the ferd King
 In Scotland send, and askit this thing
 At King Robert, quhy he nocht maid 5
 Him seruice for his landis braid ?

¹ Henry's History, vol. v. p. 6. Rymer's Fœdera, tom. viii. p. 1182-1186. Pinkerton's History, vol. i. p. 56.

² MS. Bibl. Reg. 17 D. xv.

³ Laing's Various Pieces of Fugitive Scottish Poetry, 1st Ser., 1825.

And quhy he causit to be spilt
 Fell Cristiane blude throw his gilt?
 He said, he aucht of heretage,
 In Loundoun for to mak homage, 10
 Eftir the richt of Brutus King,
 Quhilk had all Ingland in gouerning!—

Ffra that King Robert, wyse and wicht,
 Had hard and sein this wryt be sicht;
 Sa he grew in matelent, 15
 On till his barounis, tauld his intent;
 [He called a Council to Striviling town,
 And there came Lords of great renown;]
 And at thame all he askit it
 That he micht ansueir be his awin wit. 20
 Thay war rich joyfull of that thing,
 Referrit thame to thair nobill King.
 Than, without counsall of ony man,
 To dyt and wryt our King began:
 [This was the effect of his writeing, 25
 All is sooth, and na liesing.]

WE ROBERT, throw Godis nicht,
 King of Scotland and Ylis richt,
 That inebbis in the Occeane see,
 That to this day was euir free; 30
 To thé Henrie of Longcastell,
 Thy epistill we consider weil:
 Duik of that Ilk thow suld be cald,—
 It is thy richtest style of auld;
 And I admit thé nocht as King, 35
 For certane poyntis of degrading:
 Thairfor, ane King I call nocht thé,
 For hurt of Kingis Maiesté;
 [For I will take nae heeding
 Of thy unrighteous invading, 40
 For what was right, as is well knawin,
 Ye all defould within your awin:]

Wit thow that we haue understand
 For to declayre anent Scotland :
 Thy wryt be wourd we haue sene, 45
 Fra first to last at thow can mein ;
 Quhairthrow that thow sall answer haue,
 Of my awin self, accept the laif.
 And in the First, thow schawis ws till
 Na Cristiane blude that thow wald spill, 50
 On to the quhilk, we witnes beir,
 Na biude for ws beis spilt in weir,
 Bot gif it be in our defence,
 Throw thy corruptit violence.

And quhair thow wrytis and schawis till ws, 55
 Sen borne was sonnys of auld Brutus,
 That our successouris aucht to be
 Servandis till youris, gré be gré ;
 Thou leyd thairof ! it is weill knawin,
 We war euir fré within our awin ! 60
 Thocht Johne Balgoun maid ane band,
 Contrair the richt of fayr Scotland ;
 Thair he was mainsworne that we defend :
 On till ws all, it is weill kend,
 Anent the bairns of auld Brutus, 65
 That kyndnes hes bene kept till ws :
 Scotland euir yit hes bene fré,
 Sen Scota of Egipt tuik the see !
 Bot ye ar thirlit and our harlit,
 The grit refuse of all the warld, 70
 For nichtbure tressoun amangis your sell
 Four tymes, as the Cronicle will tell,
 Ye haue halelie conqueist bene :
 Ten thousand pvndis of gold so schene
 To Julius Cesar payit ye 75
 Off tribute, thus ye war nocht free.
 Be Saxounis als ye war ouer thrawin
 Be tua borne chiftanis of your awin,

And Germaneis in cumpany,
 All borne Saragenis vtterlie, 80
 At come with Horsus and Ingest,
 And maid your auld blude richt waist ;
 And slew the gentillis of Ingland
 At Salisberrie, I vnderstande ;
 And till ane takin the hingand stanis, 85
 Ambrosius set vp for the naneis ;
 In till ane lestand memoriall,
 At Saxounis had ourset yow all.
 Vndir the hewin is no kinryk
 Off sorrow hes bein to yow lyk 90
 Ye war put syn in subiectioun
 At we, nor yit nane vnder croun,
 Was never in sic necessitie
 As hapnit your aduersatie !
 Then Henslot, sone of Denmark king 95
 The thrid tyme rais o're yow to ring ;
 The quhilk of Ingland maid conquest,
 And left amangis yow at the last
 Ane Dane in ilk ane hous, was knawin,
 Yow to defoull with in your awin ; 100
 That occupiit bayth gude and wyff ;
 Thus in bondage ye leid your lyff !
 Quhen this was done, and all bypast,
 The ferd conquest approchit fast,
 Off the Bastarde of Normandie, 105
 Quhilk conquiest Ingland halelie ;
 Quhilk yit amangis yow ringis thair blude,
 And meikill vther that is nocht gude :
 And gif ye trow this nocht south be,
 Reid the Registrar, and ye may see, 110
 And the croniclis of braid Bartane,
 Quhairout of our authoris ar tane ;
 That this is suth thow may nocht lane,
 France and Bartane kennis in plane

Thow art nocht rightuous for to ring, 115
 For all realmis knawis this thing ;
 In Londoun thow swoir in Parliament,
 Inglannd ten yeiris [thou should absent,—
 Then wast thou manifestlie mansworne
 Or euir three yearis] and ane half was worne ; 120
 Thou rais tressonablie for to ring,
 And hes vndone Richart thy king.
 Gif you knawis nocht thy meikle mis
 The suth in proverb spokin is :
 Flyt with thy nichtburis, and thai will tell 125
 All the mischeif that thé befell.
 Bot for our Realme, I dar weill say
 Was never none hyn to this day,
 Brocht Scotland in subiectioun !
 Bot ane was manesworne of your croun, 130
 The quhilk of Langschankis, hecht Edwarde,
 Tuik on him to declayr the parte,
 Betuix the Brus and Johne Balioun ;
 That throw your fals illusioun,
 Johne Balgoun, quhair he had no richt, 135
 Tuik tressonablie to hald with slicht,
 Strenthis and castellis of our Cuntré,
 Ye gat throw your subtilitie.
 That Williame Wallace, wicht and wyse,
 Wichtlie reskewit ws thrys ; 140
 And Robert the Bruce rakleslie
 First tynt, syn wan ws wichtlie ;
 And with him James the gud Douglas
 Quhilk preivit weill in everie place ;
 Erle Thomas Randell, wyse and wicht, 145
 As than was neuer ane hardyar knycht ;
 Thir exilit all your fals barnageis,
 And fred our realme of all thirlageis.
 And gif thow trowis this nocht suth is.
 Off sextie thousand, we thocht no miss, 150

At Bannokeburne discomfist was ;
 Als your fals king away culd pas,
 Throw an inborne tratour at was kend
 Quhilk fré in Ingland he him send ;
 Or ellis we had tane your king, 155
 And Ingland had in gouerning.

Quhen all this was cuming and gane,
 Than Edward of Carnauerane
 Discumfist he was at Biland
 Be my Father, I tak on hand ; 160
 Walter Stewart that in hy
 Chaissit him all opinlie,
 Ane hundreth myle on King Edward,
 Quhill that he was reskewit be parte,
 Till Scaribur castell, and thair him lest ; 165
 Syn till his ost returnit Est ;
 Be than your clergy of Ingland
 Renewit agane with stalwart hand
 At Myltoun, as it is weill knawin,
 Thair haistellie ye war ourthrawin 170
 Be the gud Douglas, the suth to say,
 And Thomas the gud erle of Murray ;
 Quhair twentie hundreth war dungin to deid,
 Withoutin succour, or remeid
 Off preistis, that beir schawin croun, 175
 That hardie men war of renoun.

Eftir this, Robert the Bruce Tuik stait, and halelie cud reduce Northummerland, all tili him sell,—
 Ye may nocht say nor this befell :— 180
 Syn ye war fane, or ye wald ces,
 To proffer mariage for peice,
 And askit the Prince of Bruce Dauid
 Till dame Jonet Touris till ally.
 Ye maid that eidentis, and that band, 185
 Vnder the grit seill of Ingland,

The quhilk ye call your goldin Chartour
 In Ingland hes maid mony martyr !
 Quhilk we haue plainlie for to schaw
 The verité, quha will it knaw ; 190
 And falslie brokin is in yow,
 All tyme befoir als weill as now ;
 And throw your fals suppleying
 Quhen Edwarde Balgoun rais to ring !
 This is suth, I profer me 195
 To preif on sextie agane sextie,
 Or fourtie agane fourtie, gif ye lyk,
 Or xx agane xx of our kinryk,
 Gif tho be pacient and tholumdie
 And wald nocht spill na Cristane blude 200
 And gif thow thinkis it best sa
 Let ws dereinge it betuix ws tua ;
 I proffer me to preif on thé
 And we and Scotland yit art fré,—
 And of the Paip nothing we hald, 205
 Bot of the Kirk our fayth of auld,—
 At we ar bunding of det to do,
 At all Cristiane pepill aucht to do.
 ¶ This wryt to Londoun he hes send,
 And quhen the Barounis had it kend, 210
 And had considerit it in plane,—
 Yit na said ansuer come agane.

Finis the Ring of the Roy Robert maid be Dene David Steill.

END OF VOL. I.

